AMHERST.

†PROGRESS is for sale at Amherst by Charles Hillcoat and at the music store f H. A. Hillcoat. JAN. 17 .- The greater part of the gaiety of the past fortnight fell to the lot of our fair buds of society, who have literally revelled in maiden parties and delightful teas.

Mrs. W. T. Pipes gave the first of the series in honor of her daughter Helen, for whose especial pleasure the ball has been kept going during her vacation which ends the last of this week when she will return to Edgehill to resume her studies. Mrs. Mitchell came next on the list of smart teas.

en Wednesday evening a week ago, which included about all the guests of the first hostess.

Mrs. R. C. Fuller was the charming hostess of the following Thursday evening, entertaining a large number of Miss Beatrice's young friends after the same happy manner, with an extension of time which was devoted to games and dancing.

On Friday evening Mrs. Sleep gave the closing tea for the week at her home on Victoria street, which included a large number of pretty misses from the first to the last of the "teens," who spent a delightful evening. The event was given for the hostess' daughters. Misses Helen and Alice, who looked particularly well and devised a host of capital entertainments.

Mrs. John Mowatt and little daughter have returned home from St. Stephen. Mr. and Mrs. Mowatt have movead from Mrs. Cole's, Eddy street where they have boarded since their return from Scotland, and have furnished a home in Havelock

The many friends of Mr. James Howard will be sorry to learn that he is again very ill. Last week his case was watched with much anxiety, but the reports this week are in his favor.

Miss May Brown, who has been visiting Mrs. Carvell, Government house, Charlottetown, returned home last week.

Miss Ella Hillson, went to Sackville on Monday, to resume her studies at Mount Allison. 1rs. D. T. Chapman's large dance at her home in Havelock street last Wednesday evening was the smartest event in that way that has been enjoyed for some time. Married and single were about equal as to number and the gowns were unusually stylish many being aired for the first time. Mr. and Mrs. Chapman, are in our first rank of entertainers and as no counter engagements interfered their lists of guests were large. The hostess received in a gown of ruby velvet perfect in make. majority of matrons were black gowns, which was greatly to the advantage of the young ladies as it served to heighten the tone of their tinted frocks. Among the most noticable toilettes of the married ladies was that of Mrs. C. O. Tupper, who wore a very pretty gown of black silk with corsages trim mings of paie pink.

Mrs. James Dickey looked particularly well in heliotrope silk, draped with black net as did also Mrs. A. R. Dickey, who was gowned in cream lace

Mrs. Bishop, of Truro, wore black satin draped with lace and Mrs. Patterson a very handsome gown of pearl gray lace over same shade of satin.

Mrs. D. W. Douglas, Mrs. Hewson and Mrs. Hillson wore elegant gowns of black velvet. Mrs. N. Currey, Mrs. R. C. Fuller and Mrs. J.

M. Townshend were among the number, but my memory is at fault regarding their gowns which of course were pretty.

I scarcely think it possible to select a belle or star of particular magnitude from the Misses pres ent, as they all were very handsomely gowned. Miss Sleep's pretty make up of chiffon and lace was exceptionally natty. Miss Purdy also looked well n white silk and lace, and Miss Gwen Main wore a becomingly fashioned frock of nile green silk. Miss Lowerison wore a handsome frock of cream cashmere, with pink trimmings. Misses Main, Ethel Main, Hilson, Munroe, Maggie Purdy, lHarris, Morse and Handford, were among the guests; Messrs. Robb, Carry, Borden, Hulcoat, Sayre, Morsion, Hall, McQueen, Main, Pipes, McLeod, McCully, Munro and Douglas were the gentlemen. Mrs. Hewson served tea at six o'clock on Friday evening to a number of Miss Hewson's friends.

Snow-shoes were made use of pretty generally, on Monday evening, Miss Pipes organized a tramping party, who had a delightful tramp of about three miles. Mr. W. T. Pipes acted as escort, and brought the merry group back to his residence about nine o'clock, where they greatly enjoyed the hot coffee served by Mrs. Pipes.

Mrs. A. R. Dickey and a large number of her married and single friends struck out for a 1 ng tramp on the same evening, and quite a number of gentlemen being in the party, it goes without saying there was a great amount of pleasure. Mrs. Dickey served a most relishable collation after they re

Miss McKinnon gave a small party on Thursday evening at her home on Laplanche street to a number of her lady friends who were entertained with cards and dancing.

Miss Hattie McLeod, daughter of the late Mr. Malcom McLeod of Truro was married on Wednes. day evening to Capt. Thomas Leonard of St. John. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. Williams, pastor of the Methodist church, at the residence of Mr. C. S. McLeod, brother of the bride. The The bride were the only guests present. The bride wore a very pretty traveiling gown of grey cloth with hat of the same shade. Mr. and Mrs. Leonard took the evening train for St. John JAN. 17.-The impromptu dance given last night, by A. Yorston and Messrs. Hornsby and Crowe. was a grand success, and thoroughly enjoyed by all who were present. Mrs. H. T. Harding and Mrs. Thomas McKay, were all that could be desired as chaperons. The music was furnished by Miss Ada Crowe, and was excellent. Union service was held in the presbyterian church on Sunday evening at which Rev. W. C. Matthews preached an impressive sermon from the text "Behold I come quickly." Good music was rendered by the united choirs of the different congregations. The series of concerts given by Madame Rosa d'Erina were poorly attended. It is true the wea-ther was unfavorable, which doubtless prevented a great many from attending, still on a much stormer night the hall has been filled to its utmost capacity to listen to what people must know were inferior entertainments. I do not wish to be considered a fault finder, but it is an incontestible fact that artists of celebrity and renown are rarely appreciated as they deserve, except by the intelligent few. Ma-dame Rosa d'Erina and Professor Vontom were simply charming in themselves, and kept their audience in ecstasy from beginning to end. Home Sweet Home, composed by Madame d'Erina during a storm at sea, was one of her gems, as was also "O Salutaris," which was rendered at the sacred concert on Sunday evening.
