

PROGRESS.

EDWARD S. CARTER, EDITOR.

ST. JOHN, N. B., SATURDAY, MAR. 31.

THE CASE OF RECTOR LITTLE.

The flourishing village of Sussex furnishes the remarkable and deplorable spectacle of a congregation trying to starve a clergyman in order to get him to relinquish his care of their souls...

An outline of the recent occurrences is given in PROGRESS today. It will be remembered that this is not the first time Mr. LITTLE has come into unpleasant notoriety in these pages...

It appears to be a feature peculiar to the church of England that a minister can thus retain his place in defiance of the wishes of his congregation. In other bodies, the power of removal at discretion is either vested in a central authority or rests with individual congregations...

When it is remembered that an ordained clergyman is an ambassador of CHRIST, in the contemplation of the church, such a condition of affairs is very shocking. It is unfortunately true that in all churches there have been and must be ministers who occasionally err...

It is by reason of this very defect in the law of the church of England that there are dead parishes in this province today. Men unfit for the work and not acceptable to the people have been and will be...

EXPLOSION OF A BUBBLE.

The report of Judge FRASER, as a commissioner to investigate the charges made in reference to the Bathurst schools, will be found interesting reading. Very copious extracts from it appear in this issue of PROGRESS...

It is possible that Rev. A. F. THOMSON and his friends were honest in their belief that the rights and privileges of the protestant ratepayers of Bathurst were in danger from clerical interference...

of stating their case did not have more serious consequences in stirring up party strife is a matter for thankfulness...

Judge FRASER, was eminently qualified to carry on the investigation. Everybody, on both sides, had confidence in the commissioner, and the fact that he was one of the makers of the school law...

His report not only shows that there was no clerical interference, but that the attempt to construe certain acts as such interference required all the ingenuity of the professional fact twisters who were retained for the purpose.

Judge FRASER's comments on some of the allegations and his explanations of why he has arrived at certain conclusions have the ring of sound common sense.

With the present understanding of the facts of the case, it seems astonishing that an exaggerated view of the matter led to the defeat of the leader of the local government and his ticket in the county of York...

The commandment which forbids the bearing of false witness against one's neighbor is too often disregarded in the affairs of life, but when such false witness has a tendency to provoke bitter strife between creeds and classes it cannot be too severely condemned.

The school law is valued by the people of this province, and they would be quick to resent any wilful violation of its provisions in any section of the country or by any class of people.

It is most gratifying to find that, despite all the clamor, there has been no such violation in the instance of the Bathurst schools, and that the only "interference" there has been has come from Mr. THOMSON and a few others who are responsible for the tumult that was raised.

So ends the story of the Bathurst school question. From the point of view of FITZ and other petty politicians of that stamp, it may have served its purpose in certain counties. Having done so, it may now be fitly relegated to oblivion, or at the best, remembered only to point a moral.

The assassin PRENDERGAST was not hanged on Good Friday, according to sentence, but the other fellow, who had objected to being hanged on the same day as HARRISON's murderer, paid the penalty of his crime. In PRENDERGAST's case the judge postponed the execution without the intervention of the supreme court or a reprieve from the governor.

Who says the clergy preach for money in these degenerate days? Some of them may, it is true, but while here and there a pastor may clamor for an increase of pay, Rev. H. W. Little, rector of Sussex, is willing to stay even though his salary is decreased.

The election of Ald. BLIZARD as a candidate on the T. R. A. ticket will be approved by a large number of citizens. It was a mistake that he was left off in the first instance, and when the opportunity came the wisest thing was done in putting him on.

It is not an unusual thing for the Queen of England to be a party to a suit in the British possessions, but it sounds odd to hear that she is plaintiff in a suit in a New York court. The action is that of "Her Majesty Victoria against the Standard Asphalt Company."

Mayor PETERS is reported as saying that he is in the field as "The people's candidate for mayor." This is a good thing to say.

considering the fact that he is trying to force himself upon the public for the fourth time, and that the people have not yet expressed any burning desire to make him mayor for life, Mr. PETERS may remember that the last "people's candidate" who ran in this city got about three hundred votes. Mr. PETERS is beginning to make the people tired.

The T. R. A. ticket is a good enough ticket for any citizen to accept. Even if it were much less acceptable than it is, it would be infinitely preferable to our made up aldermen and ex-aldermen whose course have made reform necessary.

The COXLEY army should have waited a week and begun its march on the first of April.

A MILLINERY DEPARTURE.

Messrs. Daniel & Robertson's New Move in this Direction.

A new millinery room is to be opened next week. Ordinarily this statement would be received with but passing interest by the ladies, but in this case, when it is a new department in a popular dry goods establishment which already has hosts of friends, the "opening day" will be looked forward to with eagerness.

Messrs. Daniel & Robertson's business is keeping pace with the trade. When enlargement was necessary they managed to secure the adjoining building and enlarged it obtaining more than twice the room on the ground floor and permitting an adequate display of a large stock.

This gave them an opportunity to carry the idea of their new department, millinery, into effect and next week will see the spacious room up stairs, where, formerly, their dress goods were shown converted into one of the handsomest rooms of this sort in the city.

As an agreeable kind of preparation for the feast of a few days, Messrs. Daniel & Robertson showed an introductory window last week, which was certainly the best seen in St. John for many a day, the design being entirely different from that of the average millinery window. It attracted great attention, and was admired by many of the sterner sex, who, as a general thing, do not take much interest in that sort of thing, except perhaps when the bills come in.

The milliner, Miss Williams, with two experienced assistants, have been busy the past two weeks, making up hats and bonnets, which, with the latest London and Paris novelties, will be displayed at the grand opening the coming week. The exact day will be announced in the daily papers. The firm has every reason to be proud of their splendid room, and the magnificent display of nice goods.

The Press Club Concerts.

On next Monday and Tuesday evenings Miss Ollie Torbett, the well known and much admired violinist, assisted by M. Moquist and the Leutemann sextette, will give concerts in the opera house in aid of the Press club, recently organized in this city. The numerous direct and indirect advantages that result to any city that has an established Press club within its walls, are self evident to the reflecting man, and therefore the hands of the executive of this club should be strengthened as much as possible.

Bicycles of Many Kinds.

The St. John Cycle company, with quarters and offices in the old palace rink, have secured the agency of the world-famed Columbia bicycle. An American wheel, it has easily taken the first place among Americans, and its introduction here will be hailed with satisfaction and delight by bicycle riders. Samples of the wheel are now on exhibition, where for company they have Whitworths, Singers, Raleighs and other English wheels, as well as the Crescent of Chicago. There are girls' and ladies' cycles, too. The St. John Cycle company is favorably known to the public in this business especially and, as their line is very complete, intending purchasers should call upon them.

Crowded Out.

The index of advertisements is unavoidably crowded out this week.

They say that money does not bring happiness. This is an experiment, however which everyone wishes to try for himself.

ST. STEPHEN AND CALAIS.

[PROGRESS is for sale in St. Stephen by Master Ralph Turner, and at the book store of G. S. Wall, in Calais at O. P. Treat's.]

MARCH 28.—The Masonic hall given last evening under the auspices of the officers and members of Sussex lodge F. and A. M. was the most brilliant affair that has been given here since the masonic ball of last year. The lodge was officially represented by worshipful Master Walter W. Inches, and other members in full regalia. The St. Stephen Royal arch chapter by most excellent High Priest O. S. Newellman, and other members in full regalia. St. Stephen's commandery by commander J. T. Whitlock, and other members in full regalia. Victoria lodge in Milltown by worshipful master W. Lanchlin M. D. Hugh de Payne commandery Calais, by past commander W. H. Cole. St. Croix lodge, by past master W. G. Gibson. The Grand lodge of New Brunswick, by district deputy grand master Henry Graham, in full regalia. When the guests arrived at the hall they were received in the ball room by the reception committee of ladies: Mrs. W. H. Inches, Mrs. Henry Graham, Mrs. W. F. Todd, and Miss Nellie Hill. The hall is a handsome one, and was not decorated, a linen was stretched over the carpet making a fine floor to dance on. At nine o'clock the grand march was formed, and dancing began and waxed fast and merry until an early hour this morning. It was an exceedingly pretty ball so many bright and pretty dresses, seldom do we see grouped together so many pretty young faces, and so much beauty and grace, and with the gay and rich uniforms of the Knight Templars, and the masons, it made a gorgeous scene. Supper was served at twelve o'clock and during that time the sweet strains of gay waltz music were heard from the ball room, which was taken advantage of by the younger guests, who would rather waltz than partake of the good things that filled the tables in the banquet hall. The costumes worn by the ladies were exceeding handsome, new, and varied. The following description is as accurate as could be obtained.

Mrs. W. W. Inches, pretty costume of heliotrope silk, with trimmings of velvet of a darker hue, and rich white lace; ornaments, diamonds.

Mrs. Henry Graham, black silk with sleeves of violet satin, and trimmings of heavy jet ornaments.
