A large and intellectual audience greeted Judge Stevens in the lecture room of St. Andrews last Monday night, to hear his lecture on the "World's Fair." After the lecture Judge Stevens' party, who were his daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Torrance, Halifax, and Mrs. S. P. Waite, Andover, augmented by several other ladies and gentlemen, spent a few hours very pleasantly at the Prince of Wales hotel. Choice music was furnished by Messrs. E. R. Stuart and C. H. Williams. Miss Maie Dimock sailed from New York, last week for England, en route for the Riviera and Spain, where she will spend the winter and early Miss Madge Donkin returned from Halifax, to-day, she is accompanied by her friend, Miss Mabel

Mr. Will Yorston left yesterday for Montreal.

The "Helping Hand" social, in connection with the First baptist church, which was held at Mrs. McCullogh's, Park street, Monday evening last, took the form of a geographical party, and, contrary, to the usual custom invitations were issued for the same. The affair was a grand success, some of the representations, being most unique. One representation by Miss Hart, Halifax, was quite comic, showing a miniature pug dog, attached to one side of the young lady's bodice, and reaching from right to left a tiny line from which depended various to left a tiny line from which depended various articles of under wear, very small, the interpretation thereof, being Pugwash (?) FEB 14.-The only society event since my last letter was the "at home" given by Mrs. James Mitchell at her residence from four to six o'clock on Friday afternoon to her lady friends. There were over a hundred ladies present and seldom in St. Stephen do we see so many handsome and richly attired ladies together. Mrs Mitchell stood in the south end of her long drawing room to receive her guests. She wore an elegant reception toilette of black and violet brocade satin richty trimmed with lace and a corsage bouquet of pale pink carnations. The drawing room was prettily arranged and darkened, and lighted with numerous lamps, which were covered with yellow shades, that gave a soft golden light, which was most becoming. Yellow was the color used to decorate. Yellow Chinese primroses and white azaleas, were placed about the oom in jardineres and the air was filled with their fragrauce. In the dining room the decorations of the table were most delicate and dainty, in every way and like the drawing room, were in pale yellow. At each corner of the large square table were bows of vellow ribbon, from each came a streamer of ribbon which was fastened into a lamp over the table and formed a canopy, a yellow shade on the lamp and also on a banquet lamp beneath. On each side of the banquet lamp stood two lovely crystal candle-la bras, with yellow candles, yellow primroses and smilax completed the decorations of the table which was filled with all the dainties that ladies love. At the head of the table sat Mrs. Henry Graham, who poured tea and coffee, and the guests were served most deftly and daintily by Mrs. C. H. Clerke, Mrs. James G. Stevens, Miss Noe Clerke, Miss Kate Stevens, and Miss Addie Grimmer, Mrs. W. F. Todd, and Miss Mary Abbott also assisted Mrs. Mitchell in entertaining her guests. At six o'clock the last guest had departed and one of the most delightful afternoons of the season was

A number of ladies and gentlemen drove to Milltown on Ihursday evening to attend the Antiquarian concert and supper given there. From half past six, until nine o'clock, the young people who acted as waiters, and waiteresses, were kept busy serving beans, brown bread, pumpkin pie, pan dowd , cruliers, and all sorts of dishes tuat were popular in our great grand parents time. They were all dressed in old time costumes, and looked very quaint and pretty. At 8 o'clock the concert hall was filled to its utmost capacity. The singing was all old time ballads, and was greatly enjoyed. The old tashioned ki chen, parlour, and bed room were furnished in the good old fashioned style. An old fashioned baby was surrounded by a crowd of admiring mamma's and one and all pronounced him a "fine old-lastioned fellow," he is Master Harry Steldon McLaugh in, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. H.

McLaughlin. The entertainment lasted four hours, and was greatly enjoyed.

The "Winter Green" social and concert in the baptist vestry on Thursday evening was a charming affair and was largely attended. The ladies and gentlemen who took part in the musical and literary part of the programme, were Mrs. F. A. Gunner, Miss Whidden, Miss Mattie Harris, Mr. W. H. Edwards, Mr. Charles Barrs, Mr. Coleman, Mr. Sparhawk, and Judge Whidden at the close made a snort address of ten minutes. After the musical programme retreshments were served in the most dainty manner in little wooden placques wreathed with green. Socially this entertainment was a most delightful one, and all who were there thoroughly entered into the spirit of it.

SACKIILLE.

PROBEES is for same in Sackville at Wm. J. Goodwin's Books ore. In Middle Sackville by E. M. Merrill.

FEB. 4 -On Saturday evening a reception was held at the ladies coilege. It was not a progressive conversation or ice cream affair but just a plain ordinary reception; none the less all appeared to have a good time. The staple remarks heard now in manty bars, now in girlish treble, were: "How did you like the concert last evening?" and "did'nt we have fun a week ago, getting home over the ice, from Mrs. Harrison's reception.

Miss Greta Ogden, gave an at Home to a large number of her friends on Tuesday. There were at least forty present and several were obliged to send regrets owing to grip. The guests assembled at eight and played whist till eleven, when the "questions who's lead is it?" and "what are trumps?" were agreeably varied by "will you take turkey?" and "Shall I get you some ice cream ?" After supper dancing was kept up with great spirit, and it was by no means early when the young folks got home. When putting on their wraps one of the girls was overheard to say "Yes I know it is disgracefully late, I wonder they did not wind up the clock or something, but we were hav. ing such a perfectly elegant time I just hated to leave but," fortunately the rest was whispered but was to the effect that "somebody," would go home with "somebody else" if this fair maid was not on hand at the right moment.

The saying ".t never rains but it pours" was verified last Friday when it pleased a kind fate to rain down four parties on us. Of course I could not go to all of them, even if I had been asked, so must content myself with but a small sketch of each. Mrs. David Allison had one of her very erjoyable dinners for the senior class. A few more ladies were asked so that each member of the black coated brigade could have a fair one in lice and muslin to take in. The young lady seniors do not as yet equal the young men in quantity whatever they may do in quality, but this last is a question which cannot be satisfactorily decided till next closing. There was music during the evening, Miss Lachs, who is usually rather chary of her favors, delighted everyone by her singing and Miss Webb, gave a long piano solo, in her own extrem ly finished manner. The students always consider it a greattreat to spend the evening at the presidents house. Mrs. Aluson is so kind, they say, and has the knack of making one feel so much at home and as for the doctor, he is popular to the last degree with boys and girls. The juniors, in the mean time were having a party on the rown account in the parlor of the cadeniv. Principal and Mrs. Harrison were the only guests. Speeches were the order of the evening and the burden of them was, "how much better to be a junior than a senior, for the juniors have still ahead of them a year longer to tread the classic halls of Mt. Allison." A most generous meat supper had been provided, but long were the faces and sad were the hearts when it was discovered that the turkeys, though cooked had managed to fly away. Investigation proved that a few academy boys with better appetites than sense of justice had made a forage and carried the birds "off to their dene" I is need a to sa hat oth r bones besides turkeys' will be picked before the matter is settled. When both seniors and juniors were re-turning home they found that someone had reversed the cam. We know it will be one of the jolliest the adage of speeding the parting guest, and tied | yet given. p both gates securely with rope. This is a very chestnutty joke, it has taken place regularly several times ever since the institutions were founded and yet every new set of boys fondly imagines they are getting off something quite original. Boys beware! is not a good thing to "know the ropes" too well-People have lost their lives by too close a connection with a hempen cord.

On this evening Mrs. William Ogden entertained a large number of her friends with a high tea. The gue-ts were all married people. But I tancy from what I hear, they enjoyed their good time quite as much as the young tolks did.

Mrs. Josiah Wood had a party in honor of the brides, Mrs. Bennet and Mrs. Calkin. Among the guests who were all town's people, were, Mr. and Mrs. McDougal, Foster, Powell, Cogswell, B. Dixon, Ryan, and C. Ford. Mrs. Wood received in a trained black silk, Mrs. Bennet wore dove colored satin, with gold embroidery, Mrs. Calkin, cream cashmere, trimmed with black velvet. The evening passed very pleas in ly in quiet games and

Saturday afternoon is an "off time" at the ladies college, the teachers hurry out and pay visits, ex-cept the fortunate ones, whose friends take them driving. A tew of the girls go walking, some were coasting, and more were sten skates in hand, wending their way to the Brookside open air rink. The clerk of the weather had most inconsiderately arranged for a snow storm this last Saturday and it sadly interfer d with these pleasures. In the eve ning there was a musical recital in Be thove 1 hall. No outsiders were admitted, which was a pity, the music was so good. Mr. Landon's pupils showed plainly the good work that is being done and Miss Ayer's string quartette covered both themse ves and their energetic and painstaking teacher, with [Progress is for sale in Woodstock by Mrs. John Loane & Co.] FEB. 14.-The mock parliament is decidedly the entertainment par excellence for Friday evening. A very large audience attended the last session, the ladies' gallery being completely filled with the beauty and fashion of the town. The session was opened with a few well-cho-en remarks by the leader of the opposition, Mr. W. Jones, welcoming the leader of government, Mr. S. Watts to his seat, after an enforced absence from illness. Mr. Watts made a fitting reply. The debate on the resolution to 'abolish the senate' was continued with much fervor, several teiling speeches being made by various members of opposition viz., Messis. G. Hugh Harrison, A. E. Mellish, Donald Munroe, James Watts, W. R. Hanson, Drysdale and E. M.

Pertinent queries relating to questions of justice and public works were made by Mr. W. W. Hav, and Mr. E. M. Boyer, which were satisfactority answered by the minister of justice Mr. D. B. Gallagher and minister of public works Mr. A. D. Holyoke, respectively. Quite a breeze of excitement was raised in the opposition ranks by the answer "I don't know," given by the minister of finance, Mr. T. C. Ketchum, in response to a query of Mr. W. T. Drysdale as to when he should present his bugget to the house.

A warm discussion arose over this subject, the leader of the government supporting the non-com mittal policy of his minister. The house adjourned at eleven o'clock, conclud ing one of its most interesting sessions.
