LADIES' COLLEGE NOTES. SACKVILLE, Jan. 24.—Promptly at two o'clock the music pupils gathered in Beethoven hall to hear the director, Mr. Landon, lecture. Outsiders are cordially invited to attend, and a number usually avail themselves of the privilege. Today the subject was history of music, from the earliest to the present time. The lecturer said the existence of music before the flood, rested on circumstantial evidence only. There were several traditions as to the origin of musical instruments, the dried skin of a tortoise over its shell, is supposed to have been used for strings, and hollow reeds, wind instruments. From B. C. to the present day was divided into seven epochs, and each one with its chief composers, was treated of in a rapid but comprehensive manner. The hour was finished by some reference to the noisy, unmelodious music of savages, ancient and modern. Mr. Landon strongly advised each of his pupils to take notes, not to depend on her neighbor. He frequently paused to give time for this and was even kind enough to spell some of the musician's rather hard names. The remaining lectures will take up each epoch more fully. Strolling into the studio or art gallery, I found the exception of two or three ardent souls, who were working over hours. Some one had arranged on a table, for a study from still life, a fan, a little tea-pot and blue cup and saucer. The painting near by was not far enough advanced to pronounce upon. Presently I came upon a scene not down on the catalogue,—a large fashionable hat was placed on the head of a bust, and near by, evidently guarding was a very small, very black dog, whose intensely vicious little visage and banded legs, looked as much out of place among the stately and picturesque, as Saul among the prophets. Penetrating into Mr. Hammond's sanctum, I found a large marine, lovely even in its unfinished state. It represented a misty day, and the soft gray tints of sky and sea were relieved by a touch of vivid red on a small boat in the foreground. It strongly reminded one of Turner's dreamy effects. There was a very pleasing woodland scene by one of the assistant teachers, and you could fancy you saw the autumn leaves falling and carried away by the brook in it. Truly representing a different basin the glims of sun through the trees made one think of when, "Sir Laurence and the green Galloway, rode through the covert of the deer." This evening the third lecture in aid of the University library was given in Beethoven hall, by Prof. Andrews. The subject, Art at the World's Fair, was illustrated by eleven fine lantern views, which gave an excellent idea of the "Dream city." The lecturer spoke first for some length on art in general and then on the subject of the fair. He had to oratory the highest and to sculpture the lowest place. The views, showing chiefly the court of honor and buildings, supplemented the lecturer's views with a clear description, pointing out the beauties of each. The pictures were so lovely and so realistic, one could fancy oneself there in person. The lecturer had been obliged to look well up and thereby incurred the risk of the next lecture, but it made the rest of the audience feel thankful they lived in the nineteenth century and were not obliged to go driving with a mastodon or to hunt for a mammoth. The lecturer had special stress on the quieting effect the beauties of the fair seemed to have on the large crowds. It is well to be reminded that in all of his fortnight's stay there, in all that vast multitude, he never heard or saw any roughness or ill-humor, and that the same weather the same effect, for a certain portion of the audience, who usually made themselves heard more loudly than the rest, were unusually quiet and well behaved. A vote of thanks was proposed, secondly carried unanimously and suitably responded to by the lecturer. The evening was a very pleasant one, and it is understood that something equally good in this line will shortly follow.

Mr. Herman Hicks of Rochester, N. Y. Deaf for a Year Catarrh in the Head. Catarrh is a CONSTITUTIONAL disease, and requires a CONSTITUTIONAL REMEDY like Hood's Sarsaparilla to cure it. "Three years ago, as a result of catarrh, I entirely lost my hearing and was deaf for more than a year. I tried various things to cure it, and had several physicians attend to me, but no improvement was apparent. I could distinguish no sound. I was intending putting myself under the care of a specialist, when some one suggested that possibly Hood's Sarsaparilla would do me some good. I began taking it without the expectation of any lasting benefit. To my surprise and great joy I found when I had taken three bottles that my hearing was returning. I kept on till I had taken five bottles, and now over a year and I can hear perfectly well. I am troubled but very little with the catarrh. I consider this a remarkable case, and cordially recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to all who have catarrh." HERMAN HICKS, 30 Carter Street, Rochester, N. Y. Miss Annie O'Keefe left last night for a visit to friends in Quebec. An interesting event occurred at St. John's crossing on Wednesday evening, when Miss Laura Miller, second daughter of Mr. Robert Miller, was given in marriage to Mr. William B. Dawson, of Bedford, N. Y. The ceremony was performed at the bride's home, by the Rev. W. C. Matthews, both parties being unattended. The bride who is a dainty blonde, wore a sweetly pretty costume of blue-rose cashmere with trimmings of lace and satin ribbon. The happy couple set by the midnight train for their future home in Bedford, Mass. Mrs. Dawson's going away dress was brown cloth, trimmings of heavy fur, corresponding with the bride's. A large number went down by the early train to attend the wedding, as Miss Miller counted many friends in Cambridgeport having been there for some time. Of the invited guests were Rev. W. C. Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Mowat, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Myler, Mr. and Mrs. John Mowat, Mr. and Mrs. R. Parker, Miss Alice Mowat, Miss Ida Nelson, Miss Sadie Moores, Miss Bert Mowat, and Messrs. G. The entertainment and social hour, which was held on Thursday evening in the Ouelletville hall, under the auspices of Snowdrift Division No. 18, B. of L. E., was quite a success. Of the musical part of the programme, at which the band was in attendance, special mention should be made of Miss Laura Gilker's solo, "Little Sister Maiden," which was very sweetly rendered. Mr. McDonald's violin and piccolo solos were also much admired and highly appreciated. Mr. Evan Price favored the audience with one of his imitable songs, receiving a hearty encore. After the baskets were disposed of the floor was cleared and a large number remained to trip the light fantastic for several hours. James McMillan, of Halifax, lectured in St. James' church on Thursday evening. Mr. Frank Bann, of Halifax, spent the last week in town. Mrs. Mountrou, whose lectures were listened to with the greatest attention, by very large audiences last week, was prevailed upon to return here on Monday, and deliver in United church the lecture, which in the opinion of many is her grandest "Ecco Homo." At eight the large church was well filled with a truly appreciative audience, who anxiously waited for the rise of the curtain. When it did a wonderful Eastern scene was presented, which drew forth benedictions, high priests, scribes, shepherds, women of Magdala, holy women, governesses, and with, shop keeper, servants, widows, children. The costumes were all splendid, and suited the weavers admirably, from an artistic point of view, but so changed with their appearance, it was almost impossible to tell "who was who." Those who took part in the many tableaux were: Mrs. Newton Drake, the Misses Lillie, Jennie, Addie Bent, Minnie Grey, Mary Maynard, Sadie D. C. Fraser, Nina Harty, Messrs R. Maynard, C. Fitzpatrick, Frank Drake, J. A. Phipps, Crockett, Edwin Fraser, Ralph Eastwood, H. Crockett, Garfield McDonald, A. Winfield, and others I could not recognize. Mrs. Mountrou wore the costume of a native woman of Jerusalem, she is a woman of grand presence, wonderful ability as a speaker, and has the power to hold her audience spell bound for hours, in addition to this she has great histrionic talent, consequently it is almost superfluous to say her lectures were the best ever listened to here. Should she again favour New Glasgow, she can feel assured of a crowded house, as she has won all hearts. Mr. J. A. Quinn, of Halifax is here this week. Mr. Burns of Montreal, spent last week in town on a business trip. A number of our prominent citizens go to Halifax today, to hear the opera company which is attracting crowded houses. In order to settle an "accusation of untruthfulness" two gentlemen, following mercantile pursuits—one of them a representative of St. John, the other of New Glasgow, met in Quebec, and "fell out." After the third round the "seconds" called off the battle, as they considered their friends were "fore do combat." The affair will be settled in the near future. Mr. James A. Fraser is home from "Fifteen Mile Stream." Mr. H. Higgins of Moncton is expected here this week, to remain for a month. He is expected to see Rev. Mr. Stockhouse and Dr. McLaughlin on their return from a trip. Mr. G. W. Atwood of Toronto is spending this week in town. WESTFIELD. Bruce was quite seriously hurt by being thrown from his sleigh when taking the corner of Bonaccord and Main streets. Mr. Bruce was carried by some friends who saw the accident, and Drs.
