very enjoyable concert at Golden Grove on Monday evening.

On Friday last, the death of Mr. John Tapley, one of Indiantown's most highly esteemed and respected citizens occurred. Mr. Tapley came to St. John when a very young man, and for the last fifteen years has been a vestryman of St. Luke's church. The funeral which took place on Sunday was very largely attended. The pall bearers were, Mr. John McMulkin, Mr. David McLellan, Mr. Thomas Hilyard and Capt. Brannen. The remains were taken to St. Luke's church where service was held by Rev. E. W. Sibbald. Among the floral tridutes was a large pillow, from the congregation of St. Luke's; a cross, from the vestrymen; and a bunch of wheat and roses from the Sunday school, and numerous other floral remembrances. Mr. Tapley leaves a widew, four sons and one daughter, for whom very much sympathy is expressed.

BE TREATED.

Remarkable & Remedy Discovered by a Montreal Physician.

Dr. J. G. Laviolette, a well known Montreal physician. in recommending to the public his re-markable remedy for Caronic Bronchitis, Coughs, Colus, Croup, Whooping-Cough and other diseases of the respiratory organs, SYRUP of TURPEN-TINE, desires to call their attention to a tew scientific facts, as to how these maladies are caused, the truth of which will be acknowledged by every medical man Coughs' Colds, Bronchitis and other maladies of this sort are diseases of the Mucous Membranes, with which most of the internal organs of the body are lined; they are usually caused by the absorption of uric acid into the blood, owing to its secretion through one of its natural channels, the pores of the skin, being suddenly checked or prevented. For example, a person in a profuse perspiration, overheated, gets into a cold draught, the sudden child drives the urea, contained in the perspiration, back into the system, and thus, evercharges the blood with uric acid. The consequ ses of this acid in the blood may vary according to the state of the individual's constitution; it usually affects that organ of the body, which is most delicate, and thus most exposed to attack; in some cases it produces rheumatism or neuraigia or kidney troubles, but in the majority of cases it attacks the delicate mucous membranes of the lungs, bronchial tubes, or throat; congestion and inflamation of these organs ensues and cause coughing, sore throat, sneezing, or the many well known symptoms of a cold. In other words the person has "caught cold." It has been for many years the custom to treat affections of this sort with preparations of opium, morphine, paregoric, calorotorin or other narcotics, NOT to cure the disease, but to relieve the spells of coughing, produce rest or sleep, and trust to NATURE TO EFFECT THE CURE. These oplates are the principal ingredients of almost every cough medicine, but as they do not touch the cause of the malady, merely soothing the symptoms or effects, they NEVER of themselves cure.

N me cough Syrups out of every ten are composed of these deadly poisons, they not only cause headache, drowsiness, or loss of appetite, but by paralyzing the lungs more or less, diminish their contractility and really prevent consumptives of asthmatics, for instance, in getting rid of the secretions which oppress them. Besides a preparation containing chloroform is most dangerous for persons who may be suff ring from heart disease. Heart failure may be the result.

Poysicians know this and have long sought for a cough remedy which would act directly on the diseased mucous membranes, and enable them to discard the old system of narcotic treatment, but hitherto with little success.

Pre-eminently over all others turpentine has long been recognized by the medical profession as an almost intallible remedy for affections of the mucous membranes, but its use has been prevented as a general rule by its unpleasant taste, and the ir-ritation it causes on the kidneys and the intestinal tubes, and here comes Dr. Laviolette's great discovery, he has succeeded in what the medical world had despaired of, in making Turpentine palatable and harmless. After many years experience as a physician and practical chemist, and after humer-ous experiments, he has at last succeeded in combounding a syrup, most palatable to take, and as armless to the system of an infant in arms as to that of the robust man, yet possessing all the BALSAMIC AND ANTISEPTIC qualities of this invaluable remedy and thus for ever doing away with the objections to the use of Turpentine.

Syrup of Turpentine contains no morphine, opium, chloroform or other narcotic or poison, it immediate-ly stops spells of coughing, soothes the nerves and produces natural sleep without drugging the patient, it attacks the seat of the desease, goes right to the ore spot, drives aric acid from the blood through its natural chappels and effects a permanent cure where all other remedies fail or only give temporary relief. It has cured cases of Chronic Bronchitis of twenty two years standing; it has cured infants of a month old of Whooping Cough, of Colds, and of Bronchitis, and it has had the same wonderful effect on old mep and women of 70 and 80 years. It has now been in use about five years, chiefly in Montreal, where it is prescribed by all the leading physicians, and is daily used at all the Hospitals. No remedy has ever before, in so short a time, sprung into such universal layor and demand. No remedy has ever produced such remarkable cures. In cases of Coughs, Colds, Bronch.tis, Grippe, Croup, Whoop-ing Cough, Asthma, Influenza, Consumption, Chronic Inflammation of the Bladder, etc., etc., Catarrh, whether of the Bronchia, Lungs or Bladder, it is an almost infailible remedy. In each issue of this paper will be found a few of the hundr ds of ussolicited testimonials daily received attesting to its wonderful efficacy. What it has done for others, it will do for you. Beware of count-erfeits and always ask for DR. LAVIOLETTE'S Syrup of Turpentine at your druggist's. See that the maker's signature, "J. Gu-tave Laviolleite," is across the wrapper in red ink and take nothing else, and you will be more than satisfied at the results. The price is 25c. and 50c. a bottle.

FEB. 21 .- On Tuesday Mrs. Andrews entertained the faculty and their wives, and with so much concentrated wisdom it was a very profitable as well as pleasant evening. On Wednesday her little daughter had a valentine party, and for a five year old she played the part of hostess very prettily. She even carried her hospitality so far as to offer to go home with one of the young gentlemen, if he was "'fraid to go alone."

Mrs. Hunton gave a very enjoyable little dinner party on Thursday, but unfortunately the snow prevented several from getting there. It drifted so fast during the evening that the guests who were brave enough to face the elements almost needed, on their FEB. 21.-Miss Polly Quigley, who has been the way home, a St. Bernard dog to rescue them from the snow.

Dr. Allison's lecture on Friday evening had a small but very appreciative au lience. The subject, "Great preachers I have heard," was one that did not appeal to the interest of most young people, and a large party took away a number of the town-people, so this probably accounts for the hall not being filled.

On Saturday evening at seven, was held the sen--owing to the vacancy of the lieutenant governor. | back to Bathurst after her long visit to friends in | ior's At Home, which is always looked upon as the chief social event of the season. All of the rooms of Memorial Hall were thrown open for the accom dation of the guests, and yet it was most decidedly crowded. The "four hundred" were certainly all there, and were received by Miss Olive and Mr. Webb. The rest of the class were untiring in their efforts to make it pleasant for everyone, and they succeeded most theroughly. A programme of music was given, all the numbers of which were listened to with ex treme pleasure. There was to have been a violin solo by Mr. R. C. Archibald, but he was prevented by illness from fulfilling his engagement, much to the disappointment of every one. Miss Lachs, who looked charmingly, sang very sweetly, and the string quartette quite kept up their high reputation The college songs made a fitting close for a strictly college entertainment. Between the pieces everyone promenaded in the hall, both up-tairs and down.

There was a dainty supper of cake, fruit and ices served at ten o'clock, and then the walk home in the moonlight was not the least pleasant part of the whole affair, at least to several of the young people.
