APRIL 21.-Miss Effie May Morehouse died at the residence of Mr. B. B. Manzer on Tuesday morning at 3 a.m., after a very painful illness of some weeks. Miss Morehouse, who was a charming and brilliant young American lady, was spending the winter here when attacked by the illness which resuited fatally. Mr. John Morehouse, of New York, cousin and guardian of Miss Morehouse, arrived a week before her death. During her severe illness, which was a rapid consumption of the stomach, Mr. and Mrs. Manzer lavished upon her every possible care, kindness and attention Sincerest sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Manzer in their sorrow. Her remains were taken to Newburgh, N. Y., on the express Tuesday night. Funeral services were held at the house by Rev. Dr. Chapman at 9.30 p.

Mr. Donald Peabody is decidedly better this week and some hopes of his recovery are held. Miss Peabody returned from Boston Wednesday, called by the ilmess of her brother. Canon Ketchum spent a day or two in Woodstock last week. The sewing circle of Christ church held an Easter sale and supper in the parish hall on Thursday evening last. The hail was prettily decorated with bunting and evergreens and the young ladies in waiting looked wonderfully charming in their dainty white caps and cuffs to match. The display of 'ancy work was lovely, artistic trifles, and much beautiful work was lovely, artistic trifles, and much beautiful needle work was displayed at prices which defied competition. The supper table was gaily decorated with bright flowers and sumptuous fare, making a most attractive spot. The refreshment booth did a lively trade in ice cream and cake. A goodly sum was realized. Those taking part were Mrs. Carman, Mrs. Bedell, Mrs. Wetmore, Mrs. Byron Bull, Mrs. DeVeber, Miss Minnie Carman, Miss Slipp, Miss Gertrude Dibblee, Mrs. G. Stirling Peabody, and Miss Dibblee, Mrs. Charles Perkins and Miss Grif-fiths were in charge of the fancy tables; Miss Dora fiths were in charge of the fancy tables; Miss Dora Dibblee and Gertrude Stephenson presided at the ELAINE. ice cream booth.

OTTAWA.

The readers of PROGRESS will be interested in many of the handsome costumes worn at the open. ing of the house in Ottawa. Some of them were described as follows:

The Countess of Aberdeen wore a magnificent gown of brocaded satin, which in some lights took a bluisb grey and in others a pink. It was made with a very long though not a court train and flounced around the edge of it. The bodice was much trimmed with exquisite lace and IIer Excellency wore a handsome diamond necklace and tiara of the same gems in her hair. She wore long gloves to match the gown and carried a large bouquet. Lady Tweedmouth, Lady Aberdeer's sister-inlaw wore a gown of thick mourning silk much trim. med with jet. Bodice same as skirt and heavily ornamented with jet; black feathers in the hair and black gloves completed the costume. Madame Thibadeau, of Quebec, wore black vel vet trimmed with lace, white feathers and diamond ornaments. Mrs. Gordon, of Ellon, wife of the military se cretary. wore black silk, much trimmed with lace and jet and a diamond comb in her hair. Miss Wilson, secretary of Her Excellency, wore blue silk and chiffon. Lady Caron wore a French gown of black, bro caded in blue, with a moderately long train. The short bodice was effectively trimmed with silk velvet of an unusually pretty pale blue. Black gloves were worn with this costume, and feathers to match the blue trimming were placed in her hair.

Lady Tupper wore a gown of rich black brocade, the skirt being handsomely trimmed with jet. Bodice of same material as the skirt, and trimmed with jet and lace, with sleeves of the same. Lady Tupper wore no ornaments but carried a magnificent bouquet of pink roses, and wore a few in her hair. The whole costume was most effective.

Hon. Mrs. Herbert wore an exquisite costume of black satin of Lyon, skirt and bodice both trimmed with jet. Round her neck were six strands of beau-

Lewis Pickett. The ceremony was performed by were present, also a large number of people from adjacent districts. The strangers were hospitably entertained by the citizens of this village.

Mr. Fred E. Law, of St. John, spent last week in town visiting friends at "Floral cottage." Mrs. Willis Danfield and Mrs. Chris. Smith spent Saturday in Petitcodiac, the guest of Mrs. Thos.

Fairweather. Mr. Hort. C. Price, of Campbellton, is visiting Messrs. Davidson on "Apple Hill." Miss Julia Smith spent part of last week in Hampton visiting her parents. Mr. Clifford Price, of Havelock, spent Sunday

GRAND MANAN.

APRIL 22 .- The children of St. Paul's church Sunday school gave a very pretty concert Tuesday evening. The programme, consisting of a short play, recitations, songs and tableaux, was very good. The play "The Easter Wreath," was especially well done; the tableaux, too, were very pretty. After the entertainment ice cream and cake were served. The affair was a financial as well as a social success, and much credit should be given to its managers. Miss Alice Cheney spent the last week in Lubec. Miss Carrie Levy is slowly recovering from her severe illness. Mrs. Covert entertained her Sunday school class very pleasantly at the rectory on Thursday evening. Mrs. S. R. Watt and Mrs. H. Bancroft went to Eastport on Thursday, returning next day. Mr. Arthur Covert returns today to Rothesay collegiate school, after spending the holidays with SEAWEED. his parents at the rectory.
