

THE MEADOW CLAIM.

By the rough pine table within Lightsty's cabin, at the head of Tamarack Gulch in the Coeur d'Alene Mcuntains of Idaho stood Lightsey himself, dark, broad slouldered, and bearded, drying the tin plates and cups with a flour bag. Crackling flames in the wide stone fireplace illumir ed the rude log walls, the bunks piled with blankets and bearskins, and the shimmering array of picks and shovels.

prospect. He listened with intense interest is stiff enough to walk on." to the conversations of certain guests.

of man.

one tract. It narrowed about eighty rods below, and a knoll covered with pines and underbrush intruded on the flat. Beyond this knoll they could see that the bottom land widened again into a similar tract. In all there was probably about a quarter section of ground, just enough for one | dexterity. homestead claim.

to the other end and see it all. No need his name, but you heard him call the boy Lightsey was a miner, wintering on his of snowshoes. This snow has settled, and Mitre. Take notice of him, If he kills delighted at every step. A forest of down and see him hanged.

"Hullo, stranger!" he said, looking at

"Hullo, yourselt !" replied the miner

He looked about him. Neither on the knoll nor on the meadow was any sign of habitation. He believed the woodchopper

"What are you doing on my land ?"

"Is this your land ?" he queried.

The tall woodman eyed Jack Byers keenly. He was weather-beaten and toil-worn, but his shrewd glance and Roman

The woodchopper stepped aside where

"Where are your improvements?" he

This query staggered Jack Byers. He had often heard that the man who first put improvements on Government land

Quick came the response : "There lies the first log for my foundation. Show me

"H'm! I have one, too, in my boat."

the lake. "When did you get here ?"

he could look out over the meadow. He shaded his eyes with his hand and scrucontinued, with a confident air.

Jack Byers, and suspending his work, in set the cabin.

far away.

in dismay.

tallen pine,

evident surprise.

gent character.

tinized the tract.

answered with composure :

where you have cut any."

"Yes, sir, on shore."

"How long ago?"

"On shore?"

"My house ain't built yet."

"I have a tent," said Byers.

early-I came today," he said.

on his rifle.

demanded.

that the meadow was untrodden by the foot the tree. His lips closed firmly together. He did not stir from his tracks; but he Some sixty or seventy acres lay in this asked quietly, "What is your name, stranger?" "Never mind my name. You get beyond yonder pine, Mitre."

Byers noted with secret concern that the woman had dropped her trying-pan and was handling the shotgun with remarkable

"There's going to be trouble here right "This is tip-top! It's a fine timothy field now," said the woodman, turning anxiously as a man could strike. Come on, let's go to his wife. "This stranger won't give me go to my brother's folk in Walla Walla. They tramped toward the knoll more They've got the money. They'll hunt him Chinook jargon, I guess. I never understood it." "Ke quilly !" repeated the Indian.

"What does he mean, Mitre ?" "Don't know," replied Mitre. "Except that word keequilly. You remember the Rogers told me it meant below."

Byers shook his head. "He's talking feeling well and turned against work of its liking, a steam rotary picks up the offending snow and hurls it into the next town-

The rotary carries its own operating plant, but is propelled by a locomotive coupled on behind. By means of a whistle claim of Rogers's at the bottom of the the man who handles the fan signals the washout? You never could remember its engineer when to back or fill or break name. The name was Keequilly, and away. The combination of noises which greet the visitor boxed up inside the ro-"Keequilly ! Um ! Yes; I remember. | tary is something appalling. An earth-Bad sign. I worked a month there, and quake on wheels would be a mild comparinever got a dime for it. The claim wasn't son. There is a hiss of steam, shrieking worth the powder he wasted. Keequilly !" of whistles and the rumble and rattle of Byers turned excitedly, struck by a machinery which causes the entire fabric startling thought. "Mitre, can he mean to tremble and dance on the rails. Then, HAS AN ANNUAL SALE OF 3,000 TONS. there is gold underneath? This meadow as the whirling knives carve their way foot is nothing but wash from the hills. Look by foot into the frezen drifts, there comes here, granger, I take this flat as a placer | a horrible, crunching, crumbling sound, as claim! And, let me tell you, miner's rights if some strong-jawed man somewhere in leads farmer's rights in these mountains, the fan was eating dry toast with his mouth by a long ways." He clutched his rifle open. Small rocks click once as they strike the metal and then go whizzing "And I shall hold it as a ranch until through the funnel and strike the opposite you show the gold," rejoined the settler bank before the snow in a graceful arch of dissolving views can cover half the distance.

with Pastes, Enamels, and Paints stain the hands, injure the iron, and burn red. The Rising Sun Stove Polish is Brilliant, Odorless, and Durable. Each package contains six ounces; when moistened will make several boxes of Paste Polish.

These were Jack Byers and his son Mitre from the prospect adjoining, and Devendorf, of Condor Peak.

Devendort had just come from Spokane, and had stopped here overnight on his way home. His report of affairs in the outside world was heard with special zest.

Supper being finished, Devendort filled his pipe; and as he pressed the tobacco into the clay bowl he launched forth on a new theme.

"I tell you, b ys, there will be many a fine farm picked up within the next week on the Coeur d'Alene reservation. Lawyers say the act of Congress provides for no proclamation by the president, so that settlers can settle down at once in safety. Most of the river bottoms are taken alground on the lake front Saturday that will be worth $5,000 within a year, and I'd have taken it but for my property on the Peak."

"Where was it ?" ask. d Jack Byers, a heavy-set and muscular man, about forty years ot age, who sat mending his snowshoe with rawhide.

"A mile west of Graff's Landing just behind the stony point. I saw it from the trail. All the trails in the reservation are open. The Indians are travelling more gruffly. than common this winter. I'd say there was a hundred and fitty arres level as a thoor. It lies behind a tringe of cottonwoods. No one would ever notice it from the lake, and it was by accident I saw it from the trail, for it is in sight at one point only."

Here Devendort plucked a pitch splint: thrust it against the coals, and with it lighted his pipe.

For halt an hour he stood narrating to his friends the varied gossip he had picked up on his trip; then Jack Byers arose and buckled on his greatcoat.

"Any mail to go out, Lightsey, or any errands? I may run down to Wallace tomorrow, now the roads are open again." "Why, father, I thought"-cried Mitre, in a tone of surprise. At a gentle push of his father's toot against him the lad stopped. Then Jack Byers held out his snowshoe

"Here, Mitre, find the pair and lay them both at the door."

Sc Mitre went forth beneath the gaunt tamarack, under a sparkling wintry sky. He was a boy of sixteen years sinewy, active, and eager. He could hardly wait until they had tramped on their broad snowshoes beyond earshot when he queried :

"What are we going to town for ?"

"Speak low, Mitre. Did you note Devendert's story of the timothy land on the lake? It's just the chance I've wanted. We must have that land. We'll go down there, and I'll appropriate it. We can throw up a cabin, do some ploughing in the spring. build a tence, and live there wi. ter until I can sell the right. If it's a good timothy meadow, it will bring nearly $5,000." "When shall we start?"

Somerville. Mass. March 4, Mary A. Ca 'n, wife of Frank Carlin and daughter of Lang in A. Cullin, Halifax, N. S., 37. luctantly he answered: "Halt an hour "About midnight. After the moon rises ieel at home, here at Keequilly." Liverpool, N. S., March 4. by Rev. Z. L. Fash, M. A., Robert Leander Buuller to Margaret Labra-dor. glittering black eyes, and long braided ago. -Must hot del y a minute. First on the Merrily they took their midday meal to-"You hear that, Abby," said the woodhair. ground wins. Devendort has told this to gether ere they separated; the miner for Tamarack Gulch, and the woodchopper to man, turning to a short, stout woman, The Indian advanced with much dignity. Windsor, March 14, by Rev. J. L. Dawson, Wil-liam J. Howe of Halitax to Alice Maud Bolehalf a dczon men, for all we know. May who now came from the underbrush, bear-At a distance of fitty feet from the strangers EWARD tell it to a halt a dozen more to-morrow. his covered wagons across the lake. ing a frying-pan, a basket and a shotgun. he hung his Winchester to the saddle-horn, man. We'll take the axe and rifle, and what Maple Ridge, March 6, by Rev. John M. Allan, M. A., assisted by Rev. Wm. Dawson, D. D., John S. Belcher to Amanda Jones. "This man claims the land. He says it is half an hour since he arrived." dismounted, and dropped the bridle-chain. He said "How ?" holding out his hands provsions we can pack, and if our canoe on LIKE AN EARTHQUAKE ON WHEELS. the river has not been stolen we'll reach is half an hour since he arrived." with the palms upward, and nodded cour-Falmouth, March 5, by Rev. John Murray, M. A., Capt. John McDonald to Janie Lockhart, of Falmouth. I'be woodman pulled a watch deliber-RE that timothy meadow day after tomorrow. ately from his pocket, and showed it to his | teously. Thus Seems a Rotary Snow Plou 51 True to this prediction, in the forenoon Man Inside of it. wife. "See? We landed here at 11 o'clock We are informed The miner scrowled and made no reof the second day Jack Byers and his son that unscrupulous dealers are in the habit of selling Jacksonville, N. B., March 10, by Rev. J. B. Mor-gan, B. A., John N. Harper to Mrs. Mary Hannah. exactly. You remember that. It is now For the benefit of those who have never sponse. The woodsman waved his hand rounded the stony point west of Graff's twenty minutes to 12. We got here ten in triendly salutation. seen a rotary snow plough it can be simply Landing in the reservotion, and approached the fringe of cottonwoods in their dusty minutes ahead of you, stranger, and have described as an elongated box car carryplugs and parts of plugs of inferior Thereupon the Indian put an interrogation in the deep gutterals of his native ing a windmill on the front end. This dugout. They had paddled down the the witnesses to prove it." Coeur d'Alene River, and crossed the lake. "My tent is on the p Tobacco, representing them to be the genuine wheel is about ten teet in diameter and "My tent is on the place," rejoined tongue, and motioned up and down the level land. Evidently he was making in-DIED. fitted on its face with knives or fans set at Tying their canoe, and spreading their spatter d tent over a bush in the sun to Jack Byers steadily. an angle like the fans of a windmill. The JMvrtle The woodman buried his axe to the eve quiry as to their quarrel. Halifax, March 17, Joseph Starr, 50. backs of these knives are turned over in "This place is mine, and I intend to hold Halifax, March 14, McCormack, 70. in the butt of a soft pine near. thaw, they passed the scrawny cottonwoods, Navy the form of a trough, slightly curved, and as the snow slides in through the cutter it "Here goes for the second log of my Halifax, March 13, Mary Hinds, 68. it," said the miner, loudly, with an auand with exclamations of delight stood on The genuine plug is stamped with the letters 'T.&B.' in bronze. Purchasers will confer a favor by look-ing for the trade mark when purchasing. Halifax, March 11, James Mills, 20. thoritative motion. foundation," he said. the on the edge ct a beautiful tract behind. Halifax, March 12, Anne Walsh, 51. is carried up and thrown from an opening Jack Byers cocked his rifle, and thrust "If you stay here you will have six fee It w.s as Devendorf described it, level as A reward of One Hundred Dollars will be given to anyone for information leading to the con-viction of any person or persons guilty of the above-fraudulent practices, or infringing on our trade mark: in any manner whatsoever. just back and above the rim of the wheel. Tennycape, March 3, Marie Hill, 88. it torward ready to shoulder. Long of the meadow, and no more," retorted the a floor, and not much higher than the sur-Any one who has seen a blower pumping | Baileyville, March 6, Mary Robb, 57. used to the rough and ready habits of the woodman grimly. face of the lake itself. Although harsh winds had buffeted their miners, he concluded to make a show of Gaspereau, March 8, Chas. Allen, 84. air can understand the working of the ro-The Indian smiled. He stamped on the rude boat during that chilly passage on the water, here the air was still under shelter of the towering pine clad mountains. A bright sun glinting on the snow, disclosed Take your axe and go! This land 'Hi-as The wood-chopper drew his axe from chopper. Brookfield, March 7, Wm. F. Cox, 68. tary. They both operate on the same principle. In the latter snow instead of snow and pointed down. Shag Harbor, March 7, Philip Crowell. "Hi-as keequily chuck !" he exclaimed. The Geo. E. Tuckett & Son Co. Ltd. air is drawn backward between the jaws Port Elgin, March 8, Mary Sprague, 73-aud projected from the tunnel. When Kingman, March 4, James Murray, 72. "What does that mean ?" said the wood-HAMILTON, ONT.

large pines came down the hillsides to the "I'll never give him the chance," replied edge of the lowlard, assuring firewood and the woman. Her face was very pale, and lumber. At one point a brook tumbled her breath came hard, but she managed from the declivity, and disappeared be- the shotgun like an expert. "If he shoots neath the snow. Jack Byers called atten- you, father, I'll shoot him first and the boy tion to this as a suitable spot on which to atterwards."

"Think twice before you fire." said the When near the knoll the father laid a woodchopper calmly to Byers. "We've heavy hand on his son's arm, and both lived on the border a good many years. came to a halt. The stroke of an axe She has shot more wolves than you ever sounded suddenly in the winter air, not heard howl in Idaho. Ho, girls! Chatr away. ETTERTE Florence! This way. Here's a man claims "Somebody is before u!" cried Mitre our land. If he shoots, don't let him get away."

The miner's face grew dark, and he Jack Byers locked around. Two tall, gripped his rifle resolutely. Long ac- robust young women, carrying utensils customed to the frontier, he was not dis- and blankets, and one bearing a rifle, ready, but I saw an extra piece of timothy posed to yield possession without evidence were coming up behind him. They seemthat his rival hao been first in the field. He ed much trightened and were plainly not pushed up the rise and through the grove. of as resolute character as their mother : A small tree fell beneath the vigorous yet Byers had an instinct that if he made strokes of the axe as they came down the them desperate they were capable of farther slope. Here stood a tall, slender, troublesome hostilities. elderly man, trimming boughs from the

Byers went over to his son. "Well have to give it up. Mitre. I thought I could bluff 'em off, but they've got too much nerve. Besides, I don't like to scare the women."

"We'd better go," rejoined Mitre, who was much agitated by the turn of affairs. "She is liable to fire off that old shot-gun any minute."

"Wee-oo-ooo!" rang out a sonorous, was, like himselt, newly arrived. He relaughing cry from the woods above. They solved to drive him off if possible. So he looked up. On an edge of rocks, where the trail crooked like an elbow around the hillside, there sat an Indian on horseback. He was clad in bright buckskins, with a red blanket swinging from his shoulders. He brandished a Winchester, and waved nose bespoke an enterprising and intellihis hand mockingly as he looked down on their defiant attitudes. While they al. regarded him, he made a gesture to de-"Yes," rejoined Byers, boldly leaning note that he was coming, then vanished from view.

He was followed by a squaw, her head bound in a scarlet cloth, and girt with gay, bright shawls. The squaw, too, looked down on them as if amused. Even at that distance they could see the sarcastic smile which broadened her tawny face.

Byers looked at the woodchopper curiously, and the latter gazed with distrust upon the miner. At first each teared that had the first right of possession; but he the other was about to receive an ally. Then each concluded that the Indian was not a reinforcement for either, but was coming upon an independent errand-perhaps to assert his own claims. They awaited his arrival uneasily. Soon the Indian broke from the timber and rode out on the level. The whites went out on the flat to meet him. He was a man of massive build, his attire a mix-The tall woodman waved his hand toward ture of Government uniform, tanned skins and gaudy blankets.

Again Jack Byers faltered. "I came Behind him came the squaw, and after her came a long train; first a horse drag-ging lodge poles, to which were lashed Under pledge to his dead wife, Ryers the rolled mats of a tepee, then half a had taught Mitre to tell the truth. He dozen glass-eyed pack pintos, each beardared not flatly lie before his boy. Reing bundles strapped in buckskin hides. Both the natives were of middle age, with with an air of exultation.

sternly.

Still armed with the axe, he was formidable by virtue of his own firm temper, the brave wife who accompanied him, bearing her shotgun so handily, and the stout daughters in the background. He secretly overawed Jack Byers for all the miner's bluster and bravado. The Indian stepped between them. 'Chuck! Chuck! Keequilly!" he cried, and scraped in the snow with his moccasin. He reached imperatively for the axe, and with its keen blade cut out the snow for a space a toot square or more. Ice showed beneath. Into this he chopped for some minutes, when the water gushed into the narrow cleft at the bottom Then drawing a slender lodge-pole from the packborse near a straight fir stick about nine feet long, he thrust a smoky end through the cleft. D.wn went the lodge-pole its full length, and came up dripping from its soundings. "Hi-as Keequilly chuck !!" repeated the Indian, grinning wider than ever. "Keequilly ! I should say it was kee-quilly !" cried the miner in disguist. He dropped the butt of his rifle to the snow. A cold sweat of disapointment stood on his brow.

"Why, this is nothing but a lake here, back of the cottonwoods! There is no meadow at all! We are standing on the ice."

The Indian leaped to the saddle, laughing heartily. He headed his cavalcade back to the trail. His deep guffaws, and the musical chatter of his squaw echoed from the trees as they quickly disappeared, neither looking round again at the dis-putants they had so tully undeceived.

"Stranger, you can have Keequilly," said the woodman, sighing a little as he learned npon his axe. "This placer cliam is yours. Miner's rights leads farmer's rights amid the Idaho hills."

"Thank you," rejoined Jack Byers, with an awkward attempt at repartee. "You're a newcomer. It wouldn't be polite to interfere with you. I make you welcome to this fine ranch."

"Better both of you find out first if things are worth fighting over," said the wite, drawing a long breath of relief. Then she added gently to her husband, "Ask him to take dinner with us."

"Come in under the trees. Light a fire, Chat, and put the coffee on. Stay a bit with us, you two. We'll have some coffee and bacon. Come in; come in. Don't hesitate. We both wanted this place, and tried to hold it according to our different ways. Perhaps it's lucky the matter went no further. This way! We should all

BORN.

Moncton, Mar. 3, to the wile of H. L. Bass, a son. Alton, March 6, to the wife of L. L. Sibley, a daugh-Halifax, March 10, to the wife of Roderick McDonald. a son Truro, March 6, to the wife of Daniel McLeod, a daughter. Stellarton, March 1, to the wife of Isaac Conway, daughter. Halifax, Mar. 4, to vife of C. E. Hanson, a Dartmouth, March 10, to the wife of W. G. Lavers, a daughter North Sydney, March 11, to the wife of D. Lamie, a daughten Amherst, March 14, to the wife of B. W. Baker, a daughter. Oxford, N. S., March 3, to the wife of H. L. Hew.

son, a son. Big Meadows, March 3, to the wife of John T. Mur.

ray, a son. New Mills, March 6, to the wife of P. H. Sheehan, a daughter. Stellarton, March 3, to the wife of James D. Mc-Donald, a son. Upper Stewiacke, March 2, to the wife of H. H.

Ogilvie, a son Halifax, March 12, to the wife of James W. Woiver ton, a dauguter. Dawson, N. B., Mar. 8, to the wife of Jerome

G. Dawson, a son

MARRIED.

Southside, March 9, by Rev. B. P. Parker, Clarence Cox to Edith Nickerson.

Kentvil.e, N. S., by Rev. Dr. Brock, Gco. Hatchett to Emily Edith Burgoyne.

Moncton, March 9, by Rev. J. M. Robinson, John McLellan, to Lillie Berry.

Victoria, March 12, by Rev. Canon Neales, Chas. W. McCann to Ada Bozer.

Brooklyn, N. S., by Rev. J. McEwen, John F. Mouzar to Mrs. Ziba Smith.

Weston, March 2, by Rev. J. Craig, Emmerson Illsley to Mrs. Ruth Power.

Westville, March 6, by Rev. Dr. McLeod, Daniel McKay to Cassie McDonald.

Woods Harbor, March 7, by Rev. W. Miller, Jacob Nickerson to Emily Nickerson.

Tusket, March 12, by Rev. J. W. Freeman, John W. Parker to Caroline Babine.

Pleasant Lake, March 5, by Rev. J. W. Freeman, Fred C. Archer to Clara Wyman.

Wooddoint, March 13, by Rev. J. D. Hart, Barnham J. Tower, to Emma A. Goodwin.

Calais, March 5, by Rev. W. J. D. Thomas, Harry Olive, of St Stephen to Annie Kerr.

Bridgewater, March 9, by Rev. A. C. Sweinsburg, Wesley Crott, to Beatrice Mailman.

Andover, N. B., March 9, by Rev. D. Fiske, Samuel Ritchie to Margaret A. Golding.

St. John, March 13, by Rev. J. W. Carke, Henry Calhoun to Agnes Vail, of King's Co.

Sydney Mines, March 5, by Rev. D. McMilan. Alexander McDonald to Jean Dixon.

Hopewell, N. S., March 13, by Rev. Wm. Mc-Nichol, Jacob Otto, to Cassie Glencross.

Compbellton, March 11, by Rev. A. F. Carr, Mark McGreaw to Bessie Miles, of Wyer's Brook.

DEARBORN & CO., WHOLESALE AGENTS.

Spry Harbor, March 9, Hugh Hawes, 42. Halifax, March 10, Mrs. Ann Mitchell, 79. Wolfville, March 12, William G. Rand, 37. Dalhousie, March 12, David Ritchie, 59. Falmouth, March 9, Catherine Curry. 64. Truro, March 11, Mrs. Thomas McCallum. Militown, March 9, Matilda McGovern, 23. Halifax, March 12, Margaret Crosby, 79. Hopewell, March 2, John McDonald, 85. Folly Village, March 8, John B. West, 58. Bridgetown, March 10, James B. Kinney, 71. Yarmouth, March 10, Mrs. Joseph Harris, 37. Central Chebogue, March 10, Mrs. Haley, 78. Middle Sackville, March 9, Lizzie Dixon, 37. Port Elgin, March 8, Mrs. Mary Sprague, 78. Six Mile Brook, March 4, Bella M. Gunn, 31. Six Mile Brook, March 6, Bella M. Gunn, 31. Coles Island, March 9, Chappell S. Pinney, 25. Brooklyn, March, March 2, John Thurston, 72. Middle Mu-quodbit, March 5, Thes. Gould, 65. River John, March 8, Christine McDonald, 98. Dartmouth, March, 12, Deborah Sarah Groves. Port Mantland, March 9, William H. Goudey, 84-Deer Island, March 6, Mrs. Wm. Richardson, 26. Centreville, N. B., March 4, Dr. T. W. Lunn, 41. St. George, March 11, Kate, wile of T. B. Goss, 65. Centreville, March 6, Aona Augusta Messenger, 60 Port Morien, C. B., March 10, Kenneth McNeil, 78. St. John, March 14, Sarah, wife of James Anderson,

Granville F. rry, March 11, Capt. Jacob Robblee,

Springhill, March 14, Maggie, wife of Alexander Dick

Halifax, March 12, Rosina, wife of Middleton B. Bauer

Penbroke. March 11, Ella G., wife of Edward Cushing, 28

Gays River, March 5, Jean Rogers, wile of Geo. Gay, 2

Millidgeville, March 14, Cornelia, wife of Charles-Lamb. 27

Chebogne Point, March 11, Mrs. Mrs. Alexander Huskins.

Oxford, N. S, Elisha, son of Chas. W. and Julia. Miler.

Midgic, March 4, Ellen I., daughter of Mansfield Hicks. 10.

Hali'ax, March 12, after a short illness, Anne Walsh, 51.

Halifax, March 12, Richard Martin, of Plymouth, England, 79

Stoney Island. March 8, Caroline, wife of Samuel Atkinson, 60.

Maitland, March 9. Miss Mary Rines, daughter of Halitax, March 14, Mary Anne Dorothy, widow of the late John D. Longard, 73.

Amherst, March 8, Amos, youngest son o Amos and Typhena Kent, 7 months.

Bridgetown, March 7, Ed. J. Davies, youngest son of the late Rev. Thos. H. Davies, 53.

Fredericton, March 14, Annie J. Edgecombe-widow of the late John Edgecombe, 77.

Crouchville, March 12, Elizabeth Potts, eldest. daughter of the late Capt. Wm. Potts, 73.

Pleasant Valley, March 1, Violet Geoendoline, daughter of Geneva and O. P. Ryerson, 30.

Chance Harbor, N. B., March 5, Catherine, wife of Turner's Falls, Mass, Feb. 22, Nora youngest. daughter of Isaac Freeman formerly of N. B. 16.

Patrick Mongan, a native of Galway, Ire., 71.

Malgaretville, March 6, Gilbert Harris, son

Halifax, March 12, Frances, widow Micheal Bower, 69 Halifax, March 14, William, Elizabeth Arthur, 1.

the late Bruce Rines.

late Capt. Jos. Harris, 27.