Feb. 4.—The carnival on Wednesday last week was a highly successful affair. The number of young people in costumes was large. The ice was in good condition, and the band directed inspiring music. The best of order prevailed, and a very large number of spectators filled the building. Some of the costumes were excellent, showing much originality of thought and skill, in the execution of ideas.

Miss George Agnew, as "Daisy Bell," had a most picturesque costume, which could not fail to suggest the character portrayed, in its unmistakable accuracy.

Miss Ethel Baird, as "Baronet Lamp," had a very pretty, artistic and original costume, composed of the fancy paper of which lamp shades are made.

Miss Gussie Connel, costumed as a "Japanese," had the most accurate representation of the real. Her dress was of a pink and gold Japanese fabric, and was perfect in detail.

"Two Little Girls in Blue," Miss Maud Wright and Miss Vera Connel, looked very pretty in their dainty blue dresses and caps.

Miss Lena Gilfill, as "Starry Night," wore a most effective costume.

good. Master Harry Dunbar, as a "Highland Lad" was "awfully cute." Mr. Fred Hay looked well in his "Highland costume." George Gibson, as Edward, wore a striking costume. Mr. C. J. [Progress is for sale in Chatham by Edward Johnson.]

Feb. 5.—A large number of Mr. and Mrs. Warren C. Winslow's friends surprised them at their residence on Monday, evening the 4th inst., the occasion being the tenth anniversary of their wedding day; each person carried with them a present in tin, which together made quite a large and useful collection of articles of daily use in a household; a committee of ladies consisting of Mrs. Pierce, Mrs. Hutchinson, Misses Hocken, Pierce, and Winslow prepared, and took with them a large supply of dainties, which served to give those present a recherche repast during the evening, and the table when spread presented a handsome and inviting appearance, and the repast was done ample justice to by all present; the centre piece was a large cake, inscribed on which was "1885-5th Feb 1895," and which Mrs. Winslow was requested to cut, but on doing so, it proved to be but the outward semblance of a cake, the interior was found to consist of tin, the joke was immensely enjoyed by the lady and all present. The table was strewn with roses, and decorated with other flowers, emblematic of the wife of the company, and the host and hostess, a truly married life, may be as cozy and happy as the first ten years have been. After the many good things had been partaken of, Mr. Will Park of Newcastle, proposed the health of the bride and bridegroom, which he did in a few well chosen remarks, wishing for them on behalf of those present, a long life of continued happiness and prosperity together. The sentiment was heartily joined in by all; Mr. Winslow made a suitable reply. Mr. Winslow's lower son, whose name had been mentioned by Mr. Park, also replied. Previous to supper progressive euchre and dancing and turned the evening into a merry one, and the company dispersed at the late hour, having spent a most enjoyable evening. Among those present were: Mrs. Allen Ritchie, Hutchinson, Pierce, Russell, Neale, Desbriay, Brown, and Dean, Misses Hocken, Pierce, C. Winslow, Connell, A. Winslow, Debon, and Marshall, and Messrs.
