FREDERICTON.

Feb. 13.—The university, was a blaze of light on Monday evening and presented a most brilliant appearance from the city, being nothing in beauty and brilliancy as one approached, and as the many carriages and sleighs wound slowly around the avenue under the thick shade of trees glistening and sparkling in their heavy coating of frost and snow; but it was far more beautiful within, where was gathered the beauty and chivalry of our fair capital, to do honor to the occasion, the hall given by the students of the university—which by far exceeded all former like occasions. The students had been most lavish in their extensive preparations and had beautifully decorated the College hall, which served as ball-room, with greenery, amongst which some many colored flowers and Chinese lanterns, the spacious hall being also profusely decorated with flags and bunting.

Dancing was also enjoyed in the English and engineering rooms, as they had both been thrown open as extensions to the main hall. Supper, which was handed round during the evening, was served up stairs in the reading room, other rooms being opened for promanizing. Dr. Harrison and Dr. Bridges had kindly opened their apartments for the use of guests.
