Certain Cure For Gatarrh Found at Last

For two years I have been suffering horribly from a severe attack of catarrh, and, atter having tried many remedies without success, one of my friends recommended to my notice Dr. Laviolette's Anti-Catarrhal Balm. To-day, thanks to this excellent remedy, which I used in conjunction with Dr. Laviolette's Syrup of Turpentine. I can say that I am perfectly cured. I recommend it to all those who, are troubled with catarrh as the best and most efficacious preparation that exists, and I have to efficacious preparation that exists, and I have to thank you, doctor, for the great good and perfect cure your remedies have effected in my case.

There never was, and never will be, a universal panacea, in one remedy, for all ills to which flesh is heir—the very nature of many curatives being such that were the germs of other and differently seated diseases rooted in the system of the patient—what would relieve one ill, in turn would aggravate the would relieve one ill, in turn would aggravate the other. We have, however, in Quinine Wine, when obtainable in a sound unadulterated state, a remedy for many and grievous ills. By its gradual and judicous use, the frails st systems are led into convalescense and strength, by the influence which Quinine exerts on nature's own restoratives. It reheves the drooping spirits of those with whom a chronic state of morbid despondency and lack of interest in life is a disease, and, by trangulizing the terest in life is a disease, and, by tranquilizing the nerves, disposes to sound and refreshing sleep—imparts vigor to the action of the blood, which being stimulated, courses throughout the veins, strength ening the healthy animal functions of the system, thereby making activity a necessary result, strengthening the frame, and giving life to the digestive organs, which naturally demand increased substance—result, improved appetite. Northrop & Lyman of Toronto, have given to the public their superior Quinine Wine at the usual rate, and, gaged by the opinions of scientists, this wine approaches nearest perfection of any in the market.
