About one thousand people were present at the Exhibition rink on Monday evening at the children's carnival. The rink was tastefully adorned with flags, etc., and many pretty, gay cost imes worn by the little ones made the scene a pretty o e. The prize for the best boy's costume was awarded to Master Alfred Jones, who represented a Valentine, and that for the girls to Miss L. Davidson, who was in the character of "Water Lily." The ice was in excellent condition and perhaps for this reason, the dancers appeared to much better advantage than they did last week. Music was rendered by the King's regiment band, and also by the band of the 66th P. L. F. The programme of music was

Rev. Father Daly entertained the altar boys of St. Joseph's church on a sleigh drive on Monday afternoon. They drove out as far as Bedford.

An altogether new and very interesting event for this city was the Jewish wedding which was solemnized at the new synagogue, Starr street, on Tuesday evening of last week. The contracting parties were Mr. H. Glube and Miss Sarah Cohen, sister of Mr. Samuel Cohen, of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Rabbi Schwarts assisted by Rabbi Friedlander. The bride was dressed in white with long veil, and two of the bridemaids, Miss Carrie Michaels and Miss Bella Cohen wore cream dresses. Miss Sadie Elham wore a gown of pink, and Miss Goldman a blue costume. The ceremony consisted of a chant in Hebrew by the Rabbis. The bride and groom then each took a sip of wine, accompanied by a blessing. The marriage certificate, which was in Hebrew, was then read, and the groom placed the ring upon the bride's finger saying, "Witness, with this ring I betroth thee unto me as it is the law in Israel," and again the couple sipped from the goblet of wine. A long and practical aidress was then read by the Rabbi, and a glass broken on the floor at the feet af the newly mirried couple, symbolic of the destruction of Jerusale:, and of the fact that the marriage tie just completed could not again be broken, no more than the broken goblet could again be un'el to its former shape Mr. and Mrs. L. The day was perfect, and the sleighing could not have been better, and all enjoyed themselves thoroughly. The party drove in two sleighs, and dinner was served at Wilson's at seven o'clock. The usual toasts were proposed and responded to, and about midnight the company started on their homeward drive.

NORTH SYDNEY.

[PROGRESS is for sale in North Sydney at the store of Messrs. Copeland & Co.] FEB. 26 .- Through an evident lack of space last week, my letter came to such an untimely and anonymous end that an account of the carnival was rudely crowded out. I was sorry for that although perchance my pen can scarcely do justice to the tair damsels in their brilliant masquerade. There were quite enough skaters on the ice for comfort and convenience many of them in very pretty costumes with the usual sprinkling of the grotesque and things both fearful and wonderful. Miss Annie Ingraham and Miss Mabel Ross looked charming and dainty as "Two little girls in blue." There was a second edition of this much be warbled sisterhood represented by the Messrs. A. Purves and Harry Archibald jr., to whom the azure garb proved most becoming. Miss Bak r, as "Portia" wore a bandsome gown and cap, and Miss Bedwin was dressed as "America" with a bright and pretty effect. Miss Mullins made a piquant gipsy while Miss Peppett as "Sweet Volets," Miss Copeland, "Milkmaid" Miss McPherson, "Red Riding Hood," Miss Maggie Thompson, Miss Flora McDonald, Miss Grace Ingraham, Miss F. Ingraham, Miss Treen, Miss Minnie Partridge, and Miss McKinnon, as members of a snowshoe club appeared to special advantage. Miss Vought, Miss Crewe, Miss Nellie Partridge, Miss Musgrave, and many others also looked very nice but there is a limit to my memory, yet, among the gentlemen I remember Mr. Davidson, Mr. E. MacKa, Mr. H. Cann, Mr. C. Ross, Mr. E. Christie, Mr. Stan Earle, and Mr. Boak who appeared in festive array.

Mrs. Purves who was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. William Purves at "The Hermitage" received on Fri. day and Saturday and looked very pretty in a hand-some silk gown of an exquisite shade of green with corsage triumings of white lace.

Thursday at the Literary was a Tennyson night when excellent papers on the port's life and works were given by Miss Grace Ingraham and Miss Robinson. There were also several readings by members of the club.

The North Sydney minstrel troupe made a brilliant bow in the hall on Mon ay night which was liant bow in the hall on Mon ay night which was rewarded with hearty and continuous applauses. The company were vocally efficient and their responses to numerous encores lengthened the programme considerably. The local hits were mirth proving if so nething less than kind and many were the hapless victims of this unenviable distinction. The gem of the evening was Mr. C. B. Ross' song "Sweet Geneviev", the solo by Mr. J. C. Robertson, the circle, Mr. Gentle's character song and the selections from the repertoire of the Jubilee singers in which Mr. D. W. McKinnon distinguished him. self as Mrs. Corter Pole) deserved especial com.

Those who took part in this were: Mrs. O'Brien, as Mrs. Jobstock, Mrs. A. E. Shaw. as Fanny her niece, Miss Garvie as Lucy a maid. Dr. Ryan as Mr. Jobstock, a broker, Mr. V. Gray, Chief of the brigade with a gold ring, the meeting was called to order by Mayor Miller, who explained the object for which it was held. He next called on Mr. Gray and after passing a high eulogium on his valuable services, as chief, intimated the great pleasure he had in behalf of the brigade and cit zens in presenting him with a flattering address, and ring, as a memento of the appreciation of his successful reorginization of the Fire brigade, at a critical period in its history. Mr. Gray then responded is a very neat speech in which he expressed his deep teling of appreciation, for the very flattering address and souvenir, which the citizens and firemen of his native town had honored him with, while he would always cherish their valuable gift for it: intrinsic value, he would much more so for the pleasant associations for which it was connected, he expressed the pleasure that it gave him to ac cept the position of chief of the organization, the members of which he had always found ready and members of which he had always found ready and willing, to do their utmost to advance the interests of the town.
