There were several small teas on board the Crescent last week. There is a very decided charm about having tea on board ship as it is so entirely different to the ordinary tea. The chief charm I think is in having a man to play the part of hostess if I may use this expression. He has such an unso." phisticated way of doing things in general that no matter how much one may admire him they can't but secretly be amused at his well meant efforts.

On Wednesday afternoon the officers of the King's gave a very enjoyable tennis party and as the weather was very fine indeed every body was out in their very best clothes, so that the gathering was a very smart one indeed. Very many new and becoming gowns were worn. Among the most striking I noticed were: Mis. Haitiey, the skirt was of brown corded sink, made perfectly plain. The bodice consisted of brown chiffon over a peculiar shade of green satin, with green satin crush collar.

Miss Uniacke wore a very pretty dress of cream, figured with pale pink.

Mrs. Geoffrey Morrow wore a very smart gown of pale mauve, with seams outlined with black, with black hat.

Miss Nagle wore a lovely shade of pink, which was most becoming.

Miss Cameron, who has nly just returned from England, was wearing a very smart gown of pink. Miss Lyde looked weil in white, with large white ture hat.

Miss Tremaine wore a very pretty dress of one the new shades of blue, with large black hat. Miss G. Tremaine looked well in a combination of fawn and pale blue.

Mrs. Cady was looking remarkably well in blue. There were a number of white ducks worn, and very refreshing and cool to the eye they looked on such a hot day.

Miss Lucy cady looked very well in a white duck with yellow front, and hat to match with yellow roses.

It was not really a tennis part though of course tennis was the excuse for the gathering. During the most of the atternoon only one court was cccupied-that it need not be said, was the shady one. The music by the band was excellent-indeed I don't think I ever heard better music. The officers of the Kings make splendid entertainers and no one ever feels neglected or slighted in any way and the retreshment rooms were delightfully cool and a variety of ices were particularly a welcome on so hot a day as Wednesday happened to be. Straw berries and creata, peaches and all sorts of fruits and refreshing drinks were provided and served very daintily.

General and Mrs. Montgomery Moore, Captain Colburn and Miss Colburn have returned after a quite lengthy trip and once more the hospitable doors of Bellevue will be thrown open. Mrs. Montgomery Moore is looking much better than when she left.

Mr. and Mrs. Cameron have also returned from an extended trip to England.

A wedding took place recently in Plainfield, N. J. in which Rev. Frank St. John Fitch, a son of Dr Fitch of this city, was one of the happy principals. The bride was Miss Amy Green. Miss Margaret Fitch was present at her brother's marriage as was also Dr. Fitch, of Orange, a brother of the groom, and Mrs. Fitch. The groom was graduated two weeks ago from Crozier university in Pennsylvania. About the beginning of July Mr. and Mrs. Fitch will go abroad for a year where the groom will purue his studies at Regents Park college, in London. The marriage took place in Kaye street methodist church on Monday afternoon between William T. Short of Dartmouth and Minnie J. Howe daughter of Mr. Philip Howe; the cerem ny was performed by Rev. Arthur Hockin. The bride wore a lovely cream gown with hat to match and her bridesmaids were similiarly attired. J. B. Mitchell of Dartmouth supported the goom while Miss Barnaby of Kentville and Miss Short were bridesmaids with little Miss Regan as maid of houor. The bride re cieved many lovely and useful gitts from her friends. Another interesting wedding took place this week and St. Mary's catheral was the scene of the event. The principals were Mr. John Power and Miss Sophie M.ller, with Rev. Dr. Foley to perform the marriage ceremony. The bride who was attended by Miss M. Duffy, wore a gown of the new shade of blue with hat to match, while the bridesmaid was attired in a costume of prown with hat to match; both carried elegant boquets. The groom was supported by his brother Mr. E. W. Power. Among the numerous and elegant presents received was a very substantial check from the groom's employers. Mr. and Mrs. Power are enjoying a trip througu Annapolis valley.

On Tuesday morning Pro'. Murray of Dalhousie college, Halitax, was united in matrimony to Chri tian Cameron of Fredericton in which city the marriage took place. As no particulars are at nand up to the time I can do nothing more that give it a passing notice.

Among the prominent matriages announced loc next month is that of John Sheriff of Chatham N. B. and Miss Troop, daughter of G. J. Troop of Dartmouth, also Mr. Percy Summonds and Miss Allen of Dartmouth.
