In Advanced Years

The strength and pure blood necessarv to resist the effects of cold seasons are given by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I have for the last 25 years of my life been complaining of a weakness of the lungs and colds in the head, especially in the winter. Last fall I was again attacked. Reading of Hood's Sarsaparilla I was led to try it. I am now taking the fifth bottle with good results. I can positively say that I have not spent a winter as free from coughs or pains and difficult breathing spells for the last 25 years as was last winter. I can lie down and sleep all night without any annoyance from cough or pain in the lungs or asthmatic difficulty.' E. M. CHAMBERS, J. P., Cornhill, N. B.

The Editor's Pass.

Many incidents, bumprous and path tic, come to the desk of the busy railroad man. Advertising Agent Lowes, of the Big Four received in his Saturday's muil a singularly pathetic communication. The letter was written by General Agent E. E. South, at Chicago, and he in losed an additional editor al mileage book on the Big Four lines that had been sent one George Washington, Esq , editor of the Afro-American at Terre Haute, Ind. He wrote that the o'd gentleman bad died a few days before, and in commenting thereon, said: "In the meantime he has gone to join his illustrious namesake in the land beyond the skies. where there is no smoke, no tunnels, it is to be hoped-consequently he can't use his pass, and his paper died with him." Agent Lowes remarked that the road had sent the old colored gentleman an editorial book every year for many years, an annual event which the old fellow always celebrated in person, visi ing all the offices and officers, withdrawing with a profound bow and "Bress you, honey .- Cincinnati
