The afternoons lately have been quite taken up with small teas and calling upon the many brides in town.

Wednesday evening Mrs. T. E. Kenny gave a small dance at the Thornevale, her lovely residence on the Arm. The night was delightful and the grounds were patronized in spite of the dampness underfoot.

On Thursday evening the General and Mrs. Montgomery Moore gave a small dance at Bellevue only one hundred invitations being issued. The rooms were brightly decorated with autumn leaves, and the supper was excellent. The affair might almost be called a military and naval function as nearly all the male sex present were officers and nearly every one wore his uniform and the effect was very pleasing. The dresses worn by the ladies were magnificent and most of the gowns were new.

Among the most noticeable were Mrs. Montgomery Moore in a handsome black dress; Mrs. Erskine in a gown of cream and gold; Miss Colborne was in a pale blue, and Miss Matcham a beautiful pink and white; Mrs. J. F. Kenny had on a handsome yellow satin and Mrs. Hayman a black and pink satin; Miss Comelme had on an elegant gown of cream and sage green, and Mrs. Grant had a pretty and effective dress of gold and crushed strawberry with lace trimmings; Mrs. Henry wore a white and spangled silver dress; Miss Kenner's dress was of crimson and crushed strawberry, and Mrs. Long's costume was of pale blue with lace trimmings. The dances at Bellevue are never large but are always so very enjoyable that invitations are much sought after.

Mrs. Andrew MacKinlay had a very pleasant "At Home" on Thursday afternoon which was largely attended. The gentlemen were very much in evidence and so were the new brides.

Mrs. (L.) Critchton gave a dinner on Tuesday evening which was most successful. Mrs. Critchton is a daughter of Rev. Mr. Brown of St. Thomas church New York, who is to officiate at the marriage of Miss Connelo Vancouver and the Duke of Marlborough next month.

The military concert took place in Orpheus Hall on Tuesday evening and was a very brilliant affair. Among the distinguished patronage of Admiral Erskine, Gen. Montgomery-Moore and Governor Daly.

The Harmonic Quartette on Tuesday evening was pretty generally voted the best they have given so far. Mr. Walther's solos were grand and he and Miss Harvey drew forth much admiration and praise. Mrs. J. McD. Taylor and Madame Walther were flatteringly encored. It is the general opinion that Mrs. Taylor sings a better than ever.

The Gymkhana given by the Garrison Polo Club took place on Thursday afternoon at the Polo ground having been postponed from Wednesday on account of the weather. Some new and amusing features were introduced in the races the night shift and bag race being particularly ridiculous. Each competitor had to start with a night shift in a bag; the race was once down the ground and once round the gymkhana course the competitor coming in first with night shift on and buttoned and carrying bag in hand winning. It was an intensely amusing race. The orange and plate race, in which the competitor bringing in the most oranges on a plate won, proved a source of great pleasure to the small boy who followed closely in the wake of the racers.

The last race was very amusing also—the cigar and umbrella race. The competitors had to saddle and gallop round the course and the first past the post with lighted cigar won. The umbrellas were nearly all turned inside out and the riders presented any thing but a dignified appearance. Refreshments were served in a marquee, which also proved a nice retreat from the showers.

A New York paper contains the following: Captain and Mrs. Lionel Francis Barlow, nee Wallace, who were married here in the early summer, returned early in the week from their trip to England. Captain Barlow started off with little delay to join his regiment, the First Royal Berkshire, now at Bermuda, which has been ordered to Halifax. Mrs. Barlow, after a visit at her home at number fifty-five West Thirtieth street, will rejoin him in Halifax. Her brother, Mr. Thomas P. Wallace will accompany her on the trip.

[PROGRESS is for sale in Dorchester by G. M. Fairweather.] Oct. 23.—The only ripple in our unusually placid society this week was a small dance given by Miss Tait on Monday evening, in honor of her friend, Mrs. Robertson, of North Sydney. Among those present were Miss Knapp, Miss Smith, Miss Williamson, Miss S. Smith, and Messrs. Friel, Payzant, S. Tait, and others. I suppose everybody exhausted themselves during the past summer, for things seem to have settled down to wait for Christmas, the return of our young people, and the good times that generally follow. There are rumors of a large dance to be given in the future, which, I trust, may be sufficiently well grounded to permit me to give a full description at some future date.
