Our Opinion Confirmed.

We have always claimed that our "UPTODATE" was the best wheel made in Canada. The following speak for themselves:—

UNIONVILLE, Ont., July 25th, 1895.

"I take great pleasure in giving my opinion in reference to the satisfaction given by your 'Uptodate' purchased from your agent here. I have ridden upwards of 1000 miles at times subjecting it to very hard usage and have many times seen wheels of other makes go down while the 'Uptodate' would be as sound as ever. The treatment received by me from your firm has been highly pleasing, making business with you a pleasure rather than a task."

C. C. EAKIN, Agent G. T. Ry.

TORONTO ONT., July 31st 1895.

"I have been riding one of your 'Uptodate' wheels for three months over country roads of every description and it has given complete satisfaction. I could not desire an easier running machine and believe it equal in every particular to any wheel in the market."

LITTLE LEAFY.

HAS A PRECIOUS VIOLIN.

It Was Picked up by Sig. Fachutar While Travelling in Italy.

A violin made by the famous Joseph Guarnerius del Gesu in the third period of his work, which was prior to 1745, is now in the possession of Sig. Fachutar, the well-known Milwaukee musician, and was inspected by a Wisconsin representative at the signor's rooms, 207 Grand avenue, the other day. This great prize, which is but one of four or five of the Guarnerius make, known to be in existence today, one of which is owned at Geneva, and once belonged to Paganini, and which is consequently supposed to be worth about $11,000, was secured by Sig. Fachutar during a recent visit to Italy, where he spent six months. He was roaming about the mountains in that sunny land and happened to tarry over night in the hut of a poor peasant family of the most ignorant and poverty-stricken kind. He espied an old fiddle hanging against the wall, and a hasty inspection convinced him that it was a prize in the shape of an ancient instrument. He at once entered into a bargain for it, and succeeded in purchasing it for a mere trifle. Taking his prize to Naples, "still in doubt as to its real worth," as the signor explained in speaking of it, "I was soon surrounded by men famous as musicians and men of learning in the matter of instruments. They tried hard to get it away from me, not even telling me what it was really worth. But I held on and slept with it until I left for America. While I am not an expert on the violin, I propose to keep this great prize for my own benefit, unless someone has enough money to buy it," he added. If there is no question as to the genuineness of this instrument, and there seems to be none, Sig. Fachutar has indeed a valuable instrument. Joseph Guarnerius, the best workman of the family of Guarneri, surnamed del Gesu, was born in 1698, and worked from 1725 to 1745. The third period of his life was probably his best, as he afterward degenerated greatly. Sig. Fachutar also secured a "cello of the make of 1676 during his visit to Naples, purchased it from a widow whose husband had been a great musician.—Milwaukee Paper.

Making Birch Oil.

A very large quantity of birch oil is manufactured in the wilds of Connecticut, and with a simplicity equalling sugar-making in the Vermont forests. Birch twigs are cut into even lengths of five inches, and thrown into water-tight tanks having copper bottoms; a coil of steam pipes is arranged in the bottom, and three feet of water poured in, the tops are hermetically sealed, steam turned on and the water kept boiling for six hours. Into the side of each boiling tank a steam pipe is inserted and runs in the form of a worm into a barrel of cold water, and cold water is flowing continually into this barrel; the steam rising from the boiling birch twigs passes through this pipe and is condensed in the warm, while the oil drops from the end of the pipe into a small receiving jar or pail. The oil as it drops down, being a dull brown, is clarified until of a very light green; and instead of chemical processes, clarification is accomplished by simply spreading a heavy woollen blanket over the wood inside the tank. In the proper kind of mill, however, the oil now drops out pure and ready for market; one ton of birch yields four pounds of oil, and the oil is worth three dollars or more per pound.

Weak, Tired, Nervous

Women, who seem to be all worn out, will find in purified blood, made rich and healthy by Hood's Sarsaparilla, permanent relief and strength. The following is from a well known nurse:

"I have suffered for years with female complaints and kidney troubles and have had a great deal of medical advice during that time, but have received little or no benefit. A friend advised me to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and I began to use it together with Hood's Pills. I have realized more benefit from these medicines than from anything else I have ever taken. From my personal experience I believe Hood's Sarsaparilla to be a most complete blood purifier."
