

Social and Personal.

St. John. Just as predicted this has been an especially quiet week in social circles. About the only thing that has been going on here is the weather. The weather was made the most of while it lasted. The evenings were so clear and warm that the walk home was not the least enjoyable part of the outing. As the days grow cooler the equestrians are indulging in a canter, singly and in parties, through the city and the suburbs; I believe there are to be one or two riding parties shortly—weather permitting; it is always well to add that you know in St. John, and as a result of the remark of a Halifax lady who was here for a day this week, to the effect that before she alighted at the depot her bangs were almost perfectly straight and all her effort to make them fluff out in the old accustomed way were unavailing. She assured me she would have thought St. John's charming city, but for the fact that she looked at it through a heavy mist—and straight bangs. However I am straying from matters social though there is really so little to write that one feels like making the most of any subject that comes up. I have several weddings to take place next month, but until these really do take place we must be daily thankful for smaller mercies.

This was really a picnic week and the one given by the Messrs. Tilley at Rothersey on Saturday last is spoken of as an exceedingly pleasant affair. The city folk went out in the afternoon and returned in the evening. Tea was served and the delicacies provided were very acceptable to the picnic party, among whom were Mrs. Charles Harrison, Miss Fellows, Mr. and Mrs. Green, Miss Dover, Misses Furlong, Mr. and Miss Keator, Misses Bayard, Mr. Bob Hamilton, Miss Drinkwater, Mr. Schfield, Mr. Cinch, Mr. Timmerman, Mr. Daniel. On Monday a party of young people went to Rothersey on a drive gotten up by Misses Bayard. The afternoon was spent in boating and other amusements; the party had supper there and returned to the city about nine o'clock. The party included Mrs. Charles Harrison, Miss Fellows, Mrs. George K. McLeod, Miss Furlong, Miss Burpee, Miss Dever, Miss Harrison, Miss Albro, Mr. Keator, Mr. George Hart, Mr. Kirkwood, Mr. Gerard Ruel, Mr. George Jones, Mr. Ted Jones, Mr. Hausard.

Pokioi was the scene of the third picnic, which was held on Wednesday. It was given by Mr. Jack Warner to a few of his friends, the party going up in a tug to the Cliff, where a very pleasant afternoon was spent and a splendid supper served. Some of the party came back on the boat the others walked home, enjoying the bright moonlight stroll very much. Among those who enjoyed Mr. Warner's hospitality were Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Ritchie, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Coster, Miss Warner, Miss Bob Warner, Miss Keator, Miss Dever, Miss Burpee, Miss Furlong, Miss Bayard, Miss Hilden, Mr. Riddell, Mr. Ritchie, Mr. Keator, Mr. Kirkwood, Mr. Holden.

Miss Dorothy Armstrong gave a picnic at Duck Cove on Thursday afternoon to a number of the younger members of society. The Messrs. Skinner gave a dance at Rothersey last Saturday evening. It is not likely that there will be many more dances there as so many of the summer visitors have departed, and the remainder are getting ready for the homeward flight.

Mrs. Cushing gave quite a large reception this week, but as I have heard nothing definite about it, am unable to give any particulars regarding it. Watworth Harris was, I believe lionized by society during his stay in the city and his entertainment on Thursday afternoon, was very largely attended. No one was disappointed in the least and he swayed his listeners as will. He possesses wonderful dramatic ability. Every number was a gem in its way, though I think the best were "The Dream of Eugene Aram," "The Portrait," "The Lost Spirit," the scenes from the Merchant of Venice, and Henry VIII; a funny little sketch entitled "Kitty Treadhunter's Comforter" and "My Mother's Doughnuts." Mr. Harris goes to New York this week to enter upon his third season with Modjeska's company, which opens in the Garrick theatre next month.

Mrs. Morris Robinson spent a short time lately in Sackville, with Mrs. J. Fred Allison. Mrs. Frederick Fuller spent the week with her sister, Lady Tiller, who has returned from Rothersey. Miss Edna MacFarlane is visiting her sister, Mrs. (Dr.) Barbour at Fredericton. Miss Hattie Scott of Ottawa is visiting Mrs. John Dunn, Princess street. Miss Scott, who formerly resided here, is in the customs service at Ottawa. Mr. Allen D. rby spent part of the week visiting his Maine home.

with sincere regret. She was at one time a prominent figure in St. John society and after leaving here lived for some time in New York where the death of her husband occurred. For the last two years she has been travelling on the continent as governess and chaperone to the daughters of a New York gentleman; several St. John people met her during their travels lately and say she was wonderfully changed from the time when her beauty won so much admiration wherever she went. The news was received here with universal regret.

Miss Ethel Hall is spending a short time in Fredericton with her aunt Mrs. M. S. Hall. Miss Watson is in Sussex visiting Mrs. C. D. Davis.
