WOODSTOCK.

[Progress is for sale in Woodstock by Mrs. Loan &amp; Co.]

JULY 11.—The entertainment given by the young people of St. Luke's church in Graham's opera house on Wednesday evening was eminently successful.

The programme consisted of two dramatic pieces entitled "A Game of Cards" and "Ted on Parle Francois" with a May Pole dance and tableaux interspersed with instrumental music and singing.

The play "Ted on Parle Francois" was most laughable. The acting was really good. Mrs. Spriggins as personated by Miss Georgie Angerton was very cleverly delineated. Mr. James, as Victor Dubois, the amorous Frenchman was excellent.

His acting is splendid. Mr. Norman Loane as Mr. Spriggins, Miss Lena Griffin as Anna Maria, a mail of all work and Mr. Charles Appleby as Major Regulus Rattan brought down the house with applause.

Miss Hilda Bourne as "The fair Angelina" and Miss Cora Smith as "Mrs. Regulus Rattan" completed the cast of the play.

"A Game of Cards" was well put on with Mr. Grenville James as Chevalier de Rochefort, Mr. Le Baron Dibblee as Anatole, Mr. Harry B. Smith as Monsieur Mercier and Miss Kathleen Bourne as Rosa.

The May Pole dance was very pretty. Some fifteen young misses, daintily dressed in white with colored sashes, danced gracefully through the various movements. The scene made by the brilliant and numerous bright ribbons attached to the poles, was remarkably brilliant and pretty. The Misses Lily and Bessie Sanderson, Maud Dibblee, Beatrice Angerton, Jennie Hay, Gassie Connel, Vera Connel, Maud Wright, Jennie Townshend, Bessie Neales, Maude Collins, Nellie Gables, Bert a Williams, Dollie Griffin and Ethel Stewart took part in this feature of the entertainment. The tableaux were most effective. "The Artist at work" was Miss May James of Washington, who posed as a model for the picture of his model to canvas, made a pleasing picture.

"A Century Ago" made a very natural and delightful picture, Miss Josephine Jenner and Mr. Irvine Dibblee formed this picture. Songs were given by Mrs. Ernest Holyoke and Miss Maggie Ross, and were warmly applauded. Two instrumental pieces were also given.
