The largest and best dance of the year has adorned this week, and redeemed it from any charge of dullness. Mrs. Daly always gives very pleasant and pretty dances, but the magic wo d "poudre" on the card of invitation for this one made a wonderful addition in brilliancy to the affair. It is not too much to say that a large proportion of ladies invited were much cast down when they saw that little word on the card, for oddly enough very few women fancy that p wered hair is becoming to them, and thoroughtly dread the ordeal to their complexions. However, it was an ordeal out of which nearly all the ladies at the dance came out ciumphantly, the really pretty women n. ver looked better and their plainer sisters were marvellously altered for the better, by their powdered heads rouge and patches. Rouge, by the way, is a necessity when the hair s whitened artificially, and a curiously tell tale thing it is to go to a poudre ball. Those ladies who habitually aid their complexions by a little bit of "make up" look precisely their every day selves, while those who never rouge or power are often altered quite out of recognition. It is fatal 6, in order to witness their annual sports. Should also to redden the lips and darken the eyes without the weather prove fine, the citadel will be crowded rouging the cheeks, as it fends a hard expression to even the prettiest tace; as to patches, round ones are not half so becoming as those shaped like a crescent, a fact particularly noticeable on Tuesday The whole of the house was of course thrown open for so large a dance, so that there was no crowding-except perhaps in the ballroom before supper-and any amount of comfortable sitting out room was to be found. The decorations were, as usual at government house, very artistic and wel, designed; there were flowers everywhere, quantiof maidenhair fern, and palms in every practicable corner. The ballroom was especially pretty, th mantelpiece decorations being really works of art. Supper was served upstairs, and a really model supper at that, with plenty of hot soup to refresh dancing people; in addition to an excellent menu of more solid fare and the usual sweets and fruit. For energetic people the supper dances were the pleasantest of the evening, as the ballroom is left quite clear and a good dance is certain.

In the way of gowns Tuesday night was an exceedingly smart turnout; everyone was well dressed -with a very few exceptions-a d the new and fresh trocks worn by most of the ladies were seen to great advantage. Mrs. Daly, who was looking very well and handsome, wore peacock blue satin trimmed with steel embroidery, while Miss Day looked charming in one of the prettiest dresses in the room; her gown was of eau-de nil Chine si k with bunches of blurred pink flowers on it, and was quite lovely in every way and most becoming to its wearer, whose pow dered head by the way suited her admirably. Mrs. Erskine wore a very striking dress of a lovely shadebetween pink and flame co'er which was very noticeable and effective; Miss Corstable, her sister was looking very well in white, Mrs. J. F. Kenny wore a very handsome dress of black satin brocaded with small heliotrope flowers, and trimmed with a yoke of yellow lace and beautiful jewelled embroidery, which was very becoming.

Miss Kenney looked well in yellow, as did Miss Bulleck, while Miss Wood looked very well in white and black. Mrs. James Morrow wore perhaps the prettiest and most artistic gown in the room; it was indiscribable brocade of various pale colors and was very well and simply made; both it and the whitened hair was most becoming to the wearer. Mrs. Twining looked nice in very pale blue chine silk, which fashionable fabric was also worn by Mrs. and Miss Moir, the former choosing white or very pale pink, and the latter blue with b'ue velvet. Miss Wickwire and Miss Uulacke both were wearing black which is effective with pow dered nair if not so becoming as white. Mrs. Geoffrey Morrow was also in black, and Mrs. Trotman in black and white

A very effective toilette of white was worn by Mrs. Clarkson, who looked very well indeed. Miss Harvey wore a very pretty white dress, and Mrs. Bell was also in white. Mrs. Grant wore coral chine silk, and Miss Devon was in deep pink. A pink gown, which was much admired, was almost verging on heliotrope, and was arranged with small diamond clasps on the bodice. Miss Kinnear was in white, as were Miss Townsend and Miss L. Stairs, the latter looking particularly well. Misss Kehoe wore a pale mauve satin dress, with white lace, which was very pretty, and a beautiful pale blue gown was worn by Mrs. Troop. Mrs. Fred Jones wore white and heliotrope with crystal emproidery. and Miss Oliver a pale primrose dress with blue sleeves, which was very becoming. Mrs. Heyman wore an odd aud pretty dress of a peculiar shade of pink, and Mtss Henry a very pretty yellow dress A large proportion of the very young ladies wore white, but there were two or three very pretty blue dresses and a brilliant orange, which was very noticeable. Among the handsome brocades was that worn by Miss Keith, and Mrs. Hodgson also

Dancing went on till a late hour for Halifax, and a more thoroughly successful ball has seidom been given here, certainly not one at which people locked

The last cricket match of the season took place on the Garrison ground on Wednesday atternoon, when a very pretty game resulted. The Garrison toam is an excellent one this year, and it is a pity that it has not gone abroad this summer to score a few victories with neighboring teams.

There was to have been a polo match on Friday afternoon, with the usual accessories of band and tea, but the weather was so unfavorable that it was postponed. Old St. Paul's, or historic old St. Paul's as it is now generally termed, was the scene of yet another wedding on Thursday last, the occasion being the marriage of Miss Katherine Payzant to the Rev. C. G. Abbot, of this city, at present rector at Sydney Mines and North Sydney. Never before, I think, has St. Paul's been so crowded at a wedding. The gallery not being open to the public as formerly at weddings, no doubt helped to swell the crush down stairs The bride looked lovely in a white corded silk with court train; her bouquet consisted of white carnations and maidenhair fern. The bridesmaids-three in number-were also attired in white, with white hats, trimmed with wnite wings relieved under the brim with pink roses. Their bouquets consisted of pink and white carnations All the chancel and immediately above it was bril' liantly lighted and decorated with palms and plants of all kinds. The light of the chancel falling on the bride and groom and the attendant bridesmaids sen from the back of the church, made a very pretty scene. The presents were numerous and costly. Mr. and Mrs. Abbott left by the evening train for New York, followed by the well wished of a unusually large number of friends and acquaint

This may seem an impossibility but it can be explained. The RIGBY process renders the fabric a non-absorbent and a repellent to water. Colonel Stone and officers of the Kings' have issued cards for a large "at home" there on Friday next, from 3 till with the youth and beauty of the place, and should there be a suspicion of cold to the air, no doubt some new autumn gowns will make their appearance. General and Mrs. Montgomery Moore, Capt. Colborne and Miss Colborne have returned from their visit to Montreal. Mrs. Cory, Mr. George and Miss Mabel Cory
