The dance given last evening by Mrs. J. F. Kenny was certainly the dance of the season; everything was as it should be, the floor perfect and the music good, and at no time was the room too much crowded. Supper was served in the dining room. One could not but notice the large number of pretty and new dresses; seldem has Halifax turned out so well. Of course we have had a scarcity of dances this summer and that makes a vast difference. Mrs. Kenny looked extremely we.l in a very handsome gown of yellow satin, with pearl embroidery. Miss Howard, her neice wore a very becoming and pretty dress of white.

Mrs. Er kine, whom everyone was glad to welcome bak, wore yellow, while her sister had a very hardsome dress of dark shot green silk, which was perhaps the handsome dress in the room. Mrs. O'Dwyer was in yellow; Mrs. Cromlene wore a very becoming gown - dark green velvet skirt with a pale salmon pick bodice with for trimmings; Mrs. Fred Jones' dress was also trimmed with fur; Miss Daly locked very well in blue. One of the handsomest dresses was that worn by Mrs. Harry Troop- pale blue satin I roccde-which w: s very becoming. Mrs. Clarkson looked extremely well in a very fashionable dress of black silk with jet; Mrs. Duffus also wo:e a black; Miss Townshend wore white; as did Miss Ethel Stairs. Mrs. Bell wore her very handsome wedding dress of corded si k; Mrs. James Morrow looked very well in Miss Gerirnde Kent, mantle vase; Miss Clara yellow; Hon. Mrs. Alexander wore black, as did Mrs- Lange. Miss Eullock was very becomingly dressed in grey and pink; Miss Wickwire were yellow and black; Mrs. Geoffrey Morrow looked extremely well in a very handsome grey satin brocade, most fashionably made; Miss Lawson wore white; Miss Bessie Troop was in yellow; Miss Abbott locked very hancsome, wearing a and antique china, Mrs. Geo. Donkin; handsomely very trying blue; Mrs. Trotman wore black and white; Miss Eleanor Stairs locked very pretty in white: as also did Miss Rita Almon, two of the debutantes of the season.

Miss Johnson, the talented Indian authoress, at which she recited one of her best poems.

The crescent arrived last week greatly to the delight of many in Halifax. The summer is so short that we can ill sflord to have the flagship absent from us for long; without the fleet we are without gaiety. I hear rumors of a large dance to be given by the navy and also another at one of the barracks, the latter to come off very soon. I also hear rumors of a small dance to be given corjointly by half a dozen of the young married women; this is to come off at the end of next month.

In a few weeks all Halifax will be attacked by the "football fever." The contest for the anything but beautiful trophy, over which there has been as much trouble as the America's cup, will commence

All society will be discussing at the numerous teas the composition and ability of the rival teams. There are a few ladies who are really experts and know the game and all its technicalities thoroughly; to those the football season must be a boon, for they are looked up too muchly by their more ignorant sisters, who have never yet been able to master the difference between a punt and a I hear that the Garrison and Navy will play separately which seems a great pity; it onl spoils one good team by making two average ones, neither of whom have a chance for the cup. On Wedresday atterneon the efficers of the R.

A. were fortunate in having such perfect weather for the'r sports; and the new cricket ground presented quite a festive appearance. The slope of the hill within the grounds was dotted with tents, the principal ones being gaily decorated with flags. Refreshments were served inside the tents on quite an elaborate scale; besides the large tables d zens of sm: ll ones were arranged at the opening of the tents, where one could sit and gossip comfortably; drink tea, and watch the sports, at the same time. The sports themselves were good and interesting to watch; the obstacle races being especially amusing. The King's band, of course, supplied the music and played a number of pretty selections.

Mrs. Crawford gave a very pleasant dance on Thursday evening at her residence on Morris street Miss Salter, who resides on Inglis street, gave a very small one for young people also, on the same

The engagement is announced of Miss Jennie Wickwire, daughters of the late J. L. Wickwire, of Canning, and Mr. Gregor Mitchell, son of our esteemed fellow-citizen, George Mitchell, E q.
