WHAT THE PRESIDENT SAID. The Clear and Pointed Address Made by Mr. Pitfield at the Exhibition.

Ladies and Gentlemen .-I would feel ungrateful did I not here publicly acknowledge that during my twenty-three years residence in this grand old city of St. John I had at all times been treated with the greatest consideration and courtesty by my fellow citizens. It was on this account that I accepted the Presidency of the Exhibition Association of the city and county of St. John. Had I considered my own private interests I would not have accepted that position, for my business interests are large and require all my care and attention, but believing as do that every citizen should willingly give a portion of his time for the interests of his city and country at large, I accepted the unanimous voice of the Association and the position of President. To my mind it is a position of which fany man might justly feel proud for the reason that the Association has amongst its members some of the leading citizens and most enterprising men

I take as a tribute to my business career that notwithstanding my faults, that my actions had been such that the Associa'i n had confidence that I would discharge the duties of the important office of President to the best of my ability.

When the Exhibition Association of the city and county of St. John was first inaugarated in 1890 they made the serious blunder at the the fir t exhibition of erecting the cattle and live stock sheds at Moosepath. It was only a short time before the mistake was apparent, and they concluded that the Agricultural, Industrial and Stock exhibits in order to make a success ful show must all be near to each other. This experience depleted the finances of Association about four thousand dollars.

The second exhibition under the auspices of the association was held in 1891 without Industrial and stock exhibits, and the association then realized that it was necessary to combine Agricultural, Industrial and Stock exhibits in order to make a success. At the annual meeting of the association this year it was decided to erect stalls, sheds and all required for stock on the Barrack square. It has also decided to erect an Agricultural building and l draw your attention to these buildings, particularly the magnificent Agricultural building as an evidence of the wisdom of the association in this particular, and leave them to speak for themselves. I wish here to state on behalf of the association that I thank the attorney general and his government for the liberal manner they treated our request for a grant and guarantee. I also desire on behalf of the association to thank the mayor and common council for their generous grant and guarantee, for without the assistance of the provincial government and city, we would not have the magnificent show we open for inspection today.

As to the exhibits I need say litt'e as they speak for themselves, and it is a wise man, either farmer or citizen, who cannot add something to his stock of already acquired knowledge. The special attractions are of such a nature that they cannot fail to please. My desire is that this may be the most successful exhibition ever held in the maritime provinces. The directors have spared neither trouble or expense to do their part. It now remains for the public at large to give us a generous support, as I think they should, and after the exhibition is over I teel that we will all insist in the years to come that the exhibition of 1895 was the Banner Exhibition ever held in the Maritime provinces. If successful it will induce the Association to make it an annual event, which all I think, will admit will be beneficial to the country at large. Personally I wish to thank the executiv of the advisary Board, and particularly the managing director, as well as directors and and all committees and employes who have worked so hard and faithfully to place the grand exhibition in its presen high state of perfection.

Your Honor, and Ladies and Gentleman, on behalf of the Exhibition Association of City and County of St. John I ex-May we all be pleased and benefitted, and yards ahead, he exclamed excitedly, "It's after seeing the exhibition in its entirety I our daily lives.

Then introducing the governor the president gave way to that gentleman who opened the exhibition in a formal manner, and a well chosen speech, to report which for this issue was impossible

There were plenty of bright uni'orms about. The owners of them looked happy and as proud of the occasion as the occasion was proud of them.

Dresses of Wood.

A process has been discovered by which material closely resembling silk may be manufactured out of wood. Even now women are walking about the streets of some continental citys in most elaborate gowns of silk in the manufacture of which the worm is likely to lose its occupation.

The palm for this valuable discovery in chemical science must go to Sw tzerland, for a native of Zurich, Dr. Lehner by name, is the inventor of the process.

In the manufacture of the new fabric the principal ingredients used are sprucewood pulp, cotton or jute waste, combined with a large quantity of alcohol. The use of the substantial or solid materials mentioned creates a market for what was hitherto of no use whatever, being burned in factory furnaces to get it out of the way.

The material in its raw state is so much like the coccon spun by the silk worm, that when the two are put side by side in the finished state it takes an expert to determine which is which. This artificial silk has been spun in Bradford and worked up into a large variety of fabrics. In the dyeing, weaving and finishing of this no special treatment has been found necessary. It has been dyed in all imaginable shades and colors, and owing to the peculiar qualities of the material, it takes a dye more readily and gives a more brilliant effect than the natural article .- Exchange.

No One Should Miss it.

One of the features of the fair which no one should miss is the exhibit of Messrs. Dearborn & Co. which consists of a very large and complete collection of all the different varieties and grades of whole spices and the finest collection of green coffees ever shown here and probably the best ever shown in Canada, A great deal of taste has been displayed in the arrangement of their manufactured goods which includes all the different kinds of ground spices and condiments, in pack. ages, tins and bottles, Flavoring extract attractively put up in a variety of styles, Fruit syrups, Lime juice and Frnit cor: dials, in all the different flavors. Perfectly cleaned Currants ready for immediate use put up in 1lb. packages, Bird seed, Tapioca, and S go all in convenient 11b
