Mr. and Mrs. George M. Ryan, of St. John, spent Sunday in town the guests of Mrs. Ryan's mother, Mr. Weldon, Main street. Mr. Ryan's many Moncton friends will be pleased to learn that his health was much benefited by his trip to the South. The death of Mr. Arthur Robinson was heard yesterday by his friends with deep regret. Mr. Robinson left in September, 1893, for California for the benefit of his health. He was accompanied by the benefit of his health. He was accompanied by his wife. For a time his health seemed to be much improved and his friends were astonished when wo d was received here on Monday that he was rapidly sinking. His brother, Mr. C. W. Robinson, left at once for Mocrobia, Los Angelos Co., Cali-fornie, but he only got as as far as Montreal when fornia, but he only got as as far as Montreal when word was sent him of the death of his brother. Mr. A. G. Robinson was a son of the late Wm. J. Robin son, and was a native of Moncton. He was 30 years son, and was a harve of aboleton. The work of your of age, and was a graduate of Mount Allison cellege Sackville and an LL. B. of the Boston Law school. His wife was Miss Gussie Parlee of Sussex. Much sympathy is expressed for the widow and family of deceased who was a very exemplary young man. For some time past we have been living in antici-

Mr. Calixte Gallaud has been housed for the past week with an attack of la grippe. Rumor says that Dr. and Mrs. White will remove to Moncton in May. Their departure will be greatly regretted by their host of friends.

Mr. Ellsworth Hamilton, accompanied by his bride, returned from his wedding tour on Monday. "The boys" demonstrated their hearty welcome. by a rousing charivari. I understand they are going to take up housekeeping and make Shediac their future home.

Rev. W. Balderston has gone to Charlottetown, P. E. I., his former home, for a few weeks' rest. I hope that he will he will return very much improved in health. Mr. Borden, of the People's Bank of Halifax, spent Saturday in Moneton. I hear that a number of weddings will take place

I hear that a number of weddings will take place in the near future, proving plainly the truth of the well known couplet "In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love." The deepest sympathy is felt for Dr. White, whose sister's death occurred at his home Sunday morning. Miss Wolte, a young lady very much esteemed by all whose privilege it was to know her came here from her home in Newfoundland to spend the winter and be under the medical care of her brother. The dread disease consumption could not be fought against, and on Sunday after the most train to Halifax, and from there by steamer to Newfoundland to be interred at her home. The floral tributes sent by triends of the deceased were beautiful, testifying to the great esteem in which she was held. VICTOR.

brated their 76th anniversary of their order. Today the "navy of the three links" on both sides of the harbor number 705, about one in 60 of the population. There are over 4,500 oddfellows in the maritime provinces, and abont 30,000 in Canada, compared with nearly 900,000 in the United States. The city of Portland is the greatest off the waste which they accumulate during the prohome of oddfellowship on the continent, cess of digestion, and which reaches the Kidneys by for it is said every third adult male belongs to the order. Halifax's proportion of 1 in 60 of the whole population is a good showing when it is remembered that the proportion for the maritime provinces is not more than 1 in 222, and for Canada 15, 27 and 30, are the result. They open the clogged 1 in about 170. The order is growing in Halifax and Dartmouth, not in number of lodges but in the strength and efficiency of the four which have long existed. They own a beautiful temple in this city. The celebration took place in the aca demy of music on Sunday. Rev. D. W. Johnson preached the sermon, and another methodist minister, Rev. J. A. Rogers, also officiated in the services. With those strictly orthodox clergymen present how absurd it seems for a few prominent members of the order to say that they would not attend the celebration because it was held in a theatre. A friend of the order but not a member, when he heard of this objection, quoted the Lord's words when speaking of the scribes' and Pharisees' hair-splitting distinctions. "Whether is greater the gold or the temple that sanctifieth the gold." (Matt. xxiii, 17.) On the other hand, at tormer celebrations there held in a church. The academy celebration has come to stay. 3.1.8 3.1.8

Couldn't Have Hurt Him Much.

"If I were you I'd get rid of that fellow there !" said a burly contractor to one of his toremen recently, when on walking round a building in course of erection he came upon a man who seemed to be doing the talking for the whole gang.

"What?" said the foreman, "sack Joe? Not me! Why every man on the build ing would strike instantly if I sacked him. He's the very life of the place, and, although he's talkitive, he get's through quite as much work as any of the rest."

"Oh! he's the tuning-fork, is he?" grunted the contractor. "Keeps them all in tune,

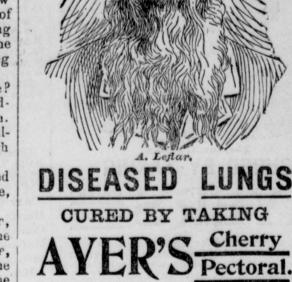

"Yes; and he'd keep you in tune, tor, if you had to work with him!" answered the foreman. "Why, only today, for instance, a careless fellow dropped a brick from the scaffolding above. which, falling on to the head of a man at work below, set him swearing fearfully. 'Don't carry on like that, man !' shouted Joe. 'Why, it couldn't have hurt you very much, for it wasn't there a second.'"

Ravelli's Compliment.

When a certain opera company was in New York, the ladies of that city were bitten by a mania for obtaining autographs of the artists, and would send their books with requests for signatures. In one of these books Signor Campanini had signed his name, and someone had written atter it. "The finest tenor in the world." The same book afterwards reached Ravelli. whose knowledge of English was rather peculiar. He saw the addendum to the signature of his friend, and could not at first understand it. However, somebody explained the meaning to him, and when the owner of the book received it back she found written under the flattering description of Signor Campanini, "Luigi Ravelli, me, too.

pation of a great treat in the way of entertainments and last evening our best hopes were fully realized when the lady minstrels occupied the boards at the opera house.

The novelty of a lady minstrel troups and the popularity of those connected with it drew an im-mense audience; in fact it is stated that there was not an unsold seat in the body of the hall, which seats over six hundred. The talent was purely local. When the curtain went up at half past eight the sight was a very pretty one; the ladies, 36 in number, were all dressed alike and looked lovely, the stage was most tastefully arranged. As the curtain rose the company sang "Old Folks at Home" curtain rose the company sang "Old Folks at Home" very sweetly, then followed the opening overture in which the tambo and bones took part. All the choruses were bright and pretty and were sung well. Mrs. Weeks made a splendid interlocutor. The end ladies were Mrs. Daniel, Mrs. Addy, Mrs. Murray and Mrs. Evans, tambo; Miss Nellie Croasdale, Miss Annie Cooke and the Misses Metz-ler, bones. The first solo was by Miss Annie Cook entitled "Swinging in de grape vine swing" which was very pretty, then came a solo by Mrs. Benedict, was very pretty, then came a solo by Mrs. Benedict, "Now I lay me down to sleep;" solos were also sung by Mrs. Evans, Mrs. Daniel, Miss Forster and Miss McSweeney. It was one of the most taking Miss McSweeney. It was one of the most taking pieces on the programme by the company; this was received by the audience with thunderous applause. In the second part the little comedy "Academy for Young Ladies of the Colored Persuasion" the parts were well taken by Mrs. Brown as Mrs. Abigail Sloe, M. A., Miss Florence White, Miss Nellie Croasdale, Miss Hail and Miss Metzler. The farce "Topsy's Blunders" was very langhable; the parts were taken in this by Mrs. C. F. Hannington as mistress and Mrs. Daniel as maid. The perfor-mance concluded by a song by the company "Good Night." This entertainment was pronounced by sll to be one of the best if not the best minstrel show amateur or professional, ever seen in Moncton and too much praise cannot be given Mrs. Cooke who worked so hard to make it a success. The accom-paniments were played by Mr. Fred Blair. day.

A very pretty instance of Lord Rosebery's thoughtfulness must not pass unrecorded. On his way back from Cardiff to London he espied on the Swindon platform, during a ten minutes' halt, a poor little child, sobbing as it her heart would break. He got out and asked what was the matter. "I want to go to Bradford," was the piteous cry; so Lord Rosebery coaxed the grief-laden little creature till he elicited from her the tale of her woes. She h d been sent alone on a long journey, had passed the junction where she should have changed, and was stranded hundreds of miles from her destination Needless to say, she went on her right way with full purse and light heart under the special charge of the guard.

ONCE A WEEK ADVERTISING.

Its Efficacy Very Plainly Shown in th Sale of Humphreys,s "77."

(From The new York Times.)

Those business firms that have not yet learned the potency for good of printers' ink should take to heart the object lesson in advertising afforded by the phenomenal success of "77," Dr. Frederick Humphreys' remedy for grip.

To the good judgment and energy of H B. Harding this is chiefly due, and he naturally takes no little pride in it.

Mr. Harding is an old and experienced advertiser, having for years made a careful study of the art, and he declares that the Sunday newspapers are without exception the best and most satisfactory mediums for advertisers.

"The secret of the success of '77," said Mr. Harding yesterday to a reporter for The New York Times, "is the method of advertising it which we adopted. We have advertised '77' only in the large Sunday and in Canada in Saturday newspapers, particularly the New York Times, and the result has proved beyond contradiction that Weekly papers are the best mediums for advertisers.

"Everybody reads them. We receive new evidences of this fact by mail every day. Our '77' is known in every city, village, and hamlet from Maine to Calitornia and from the lakes to the Gulf of Mexico, and its fame is so firmly established that it actually leads all our other medicines in sales.

"We have sold 500,000 bottles of medicine since November last, something unprecedented, and 1 attribute it largely to our use of the Saturday and Sunday papers in advertising '77.'

"It is called '77' because it was discovered by Dr. Humphreys when he was seventy-seven years old. The two sevens
