DEC. 11 .- A number of the amateur musicians of the city are engaged in preparing for a concest which is to take place either the week before Christmas, or Christmas week, I am not sure which. The entertainment is under the direction of Prof. J. H. Watts, and the Moncton Amateur Orchestra will assist. I understand that a very attractive programme is being prepared, and that the bill of fare will be of a dramatic as well as musical nature, some of the best amateur talent in the former line, having been secured. It is scarcely the best time of year to select for a concert, as everyone who is not to busy with Christmas work to think of attending a concert, will be sure to be saving and feel too poor to indulge in any amusement. Perhaps the interval between Christmas, and the coming in of the New Year's bills, would have been a wiser choice, but I hope the affair may meet with the success it deserves.
