July 22.—The members of the St. Croix club, which is now a most popular and fashionable place to find amusement, on Thursday evening last, entertained their lady friends most pleasantly.

The strawberry party given by the young ladies of Christ Church on Thursday evening last, was well attended and very successful. The school room in which it was held was prettily decorated by Miss Beatrice Vroom, with buttercups and daisies, which were arranged in a new and artistic way. Dainty slices of bread and butter, cake and lemonade were served to the guests with the strawberries.

Mrs. Frank Porter Woods gave a luncheon party on Thursday which her guests pronounced a most charming affair.

Mrs. Percy Lord and Mrs. Henry Pike gave invitations on Monday to a party of friends to enjoy a buckboard ride and a picnic at Chamcook Mountain on Thursday. Although some twenty miles distant, this is a most charming place to picnic, and much pleasure is anticipated.

A number of ladies made up a party and attended the theatre in the St. Croix hall on Monday evening. The play was "The Lost Paradise," and was most interesting and enjoyable.

The pretty little baptist church on Church street, Calais, on Wednesday at high noon, was the scene of the most brilliant and fashionable event, that society on the St. Croix will probably enjoy this season. It was the marriage of Miss Carolyn Mae Lord, only daughter and heiress of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Lord, to Prof. Franklin Winslow Johnson, principal of Colburn classical institute, of Waterville, Maine. The church was most artistically adorned with flowers, ferns and palms; green and white were the colors used and white roses, carnations and syringas were in profusion and the church looked a dainty floral bower. Shortly before noon the guests began to arrive and as the clock chimed the hour of twelve, the strains of the wedding march by Lefebvre Nelly, pealed through the church; at the same moment the bridegroom and his best man, Mr. Norman Bassett came from the vestry and stood before the altar, awaiting his bride who was entering the church leaning on the arm of her father. She was attired in a magnificent bridal costume, of white brocade silk richly trimmed with pearls and diamonds. She wore a tulle veil caught with orange blossoms and instead of a bridal wreath a tiara of pearls and diamonds, the gift of the groom. She was preceded up the aisle by her maid of honor, Miss Majorie Rideout of Lynn, Mass., who looked very lovely in a gown of white silk tulle, over white silk; she carried a bouquet of white carnations. Following the bride were two bridesmaids, Miss Lulu J. Holden, of Bennington, Vermont, Miss Elizabeth Rogers of South Sudbury, Mass., Miss Elizabeth A. Woodman, Brockton, Mass., Miss Delia M. Smith, Saxton River, Vermont, Miss Viola Evans, Haverhill, Mass. These young ladies are all Wesleyan students, class mates of Miss Lord, who was a special student at Wesley during the past two years. They were all gowned alike in dainty pink and white organdy, trimmed with pink ribbons, and wore picture hats, of pink and white tulle, and carried bouquets of Day-break pinks. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Padelford, and during the ceremony, low sweet strains of music were continuous, and Mendelssohn's wedding march was played as the bride party left the church. A reception was given at the brides home, from two till four o'clock, which was decorated for the occasion. A handsome floral arch was erected under which the bride and groom stood to receive congratulations. The decorations in the reception room were green and white, and in the dining room pink and green, pink roses being used in profusion. The wedding gifts were most elegant, and were displayed in the library. The bride presented to her maid of honor, and bridesmaids handsome jeweled pins as souvenirs. At five o'clock, amid congratulations and good wishes of their guests, the happy young pair drove to the station and left in the train for a wedding tour to be spent in different fashionable seaside watering places. The brides going away gown was of brown novelty cloth with hat to match. A number of the guests, friends and the bridesmaids drove to the station, and no bride on the St. Croix ever had a more happy leave taking, the guests remained—songs were sung, and as the train moved away the Wesleyan church was given again and again and the happy pair were deluged with showers of rice, and roses and innumerable wishes of good luck and happiness for their future.
