Social and Personal.

Were it not for the diversion of the holiday the [ first of the week and the little gaieties attendant upon it the social notes would be confined almost wholly to personal notices. Society is erjoying quite a long rest. Cycling is taking up a great deal of time just now, the early part of the afternoon being devoted to riding. "In Old Kentucky" at the Opera house his been the great attraction for many of the society people during the week and all were delighted with the minner in scenic effects were splendid and though no was in excellent taste, some of the dresses worn by the ladies being made after the company's arrival in St. John. Several of the members are old favorites here and were given a very flattering reception at their first performance on Monday, while others are strangers to St. John thestre goers. Among the latter is Miss Gertrude Dion Magill a bright, winsome young lady who plays the part of Barbara Holton; though small, the part is made very effective in Miss Magills hands, and in a more sympathetic role she would with doubt be charming. She has a pleasing presence, a clear sweet voice and has won very many admirers here, who hope in the future to see her in a chartacter better suited to her abilities. The other ladies and gentlemen were also excellent in their various representations and received a great deal of
