It was surprising that so large an audience should patronize the Academy of Music, in spite of such a fearful rainstorm as that of last night. The whole of the parquetie and orch-stra was occupied, with a fair sprinkling of people upstairs, and the numerous scarlet uniforms of the officers, under whose patronage the opera was given, made the audience appear almost as bright and pictures que as the stage

"Pinafore" is most suitable for an amateur perf ormance-the music is bright and tuneful and the Scenery and costuming is very effective and not; very difficult to procure.

The curtain rose on a large crowd of good looking able bodied seamen in summer dress-white blouses. caps and trousers, the make-believe sailors of the chorus being considerably augmented for scenic effect by a contingent of real British tars, who manned the yard arms and took the watch on the bridge during the whole of the first act, and also gave an exhibition of their cutlass drill, but this was some what spoiled by the scanty space at their disposal. Immediately after one of their number delighted the ulience with a step dance, which "brought down the house." The choruses throughout were good-the mistakes that one naturally expects in an amateur performance were few and far between, indeed our amateurs would stand very favorably if compared with any professional chorus that we hear at the academy. The ladies chorus sung behind the scenes in the first act was particularly good. Their really good singing, combined with the charming costumes of the ladies against the background of the blue tackets' uniforms, made the choruses the most en joyable feature of the evening.

Mrs. Hagarty made a youthful and very pleasing Josephine. Her best effort was certainly in the duet "Refrain audacious tar" and in the dialogue preceeding it but she sang her role well throughout and was of course a favorite with the audience, Mrs. Hagarty is a very good actress, especially in the spoken parts. The others were excellent parti. cularly Mr. Foster as Sir Joseph and Lieut. Everett as Dick Deadeye. The latter was not at all amate. arish and the little singing he had to do was good. The new yacht belonging to Col. Anstruther arrived on the Barcelona. She is a beauty and will certainly be able to make things lively for the pie sent fleet of the Yacht club. The club more than ever this year will be the centre for Saturday afternoons, the number of boats being greater than in the old days, when amateur yachtmen were content to and did race anything. The new rule of the club, making it compulsory for boats' crews to wear the club uniform or boat's uniform, is an ex. cellent one. The uniform of the club is very be coming to men and to most women.

Dr. H. E. Allison of the Matteawan State Hospital, Mrs. Allison and daughter are spending a few days with friends in town. Mr. C. Blackadar of Halifax and Mrs. Blackadar were in town over Sunday. Mrs. Jamieson has returned from Halifax where she has spent the last fortnight. Itwas a great disappointment to the 78th Batt. Band who brought the Delphian Ladies quartette here to give a concert on Friday evening last, that the audience was so small. This organization certainly deserved a better reception as they rendered a pleasing programme in an admirable manner It is not to the credit Windsonians that a good company like this should perform to empty seats.

Rev. Canon Brock of Kentville was in town this Mr. Welton and children of Brooblyn, N. Y. are in town for the summer, the guests of Mrs. Welton's

JUNE 2 .- Miss A. T. McKay returned from her visit among friends in Boston last Friday. Miss Emma Stuart is home from Boston. Mrs. H. C. Blair entertained quite a party of young people last Saturday night, on their return from a very pleasant bicycle "run." Among those who participated in the pleasant evening were: The Misses M. Blanchard, C. Loughead, S. Logan, L. McCurdy, M. McLeod, McKeen, Laws, Bently, McCurdy, McDougall. Messas. S. Tobin, H. Wyman, S. Lawson, F. Burrill, J. Bently, F. Loug head, L. Murray, H. Bizard, F. Sloane.

The long expected entertainment, by the T. A. A. C. Twentienth Century Minstrels came off last night in the Opera House, and was a thoroughly first class program ne throughout. The curtain went up on the full circle, who, with the exception of the gaily and grotesquely attired end-men, were attired in the regulation dress suits. Messrs H A Bishop and J. A. Falkner on an elevated platform pre sented an imposing appearance, as "inteclocutors," and Messrs W. E. Heffernan, W. H. Buck, C. M. Smith, and W. Holes worth were inimetable endmen. The rest of the circle composed the following gentlemen, S. L. Walker, B. D. McDougall, A. Cutten, Dimock, B. McLaughlin, F. McDougall. Young "mascot," Master Charles Holesworth is youthful prodigy whose performance delighted everyone.

The jokes and witticism; were excellent and well turned. The soloists were all in good voice and forced to respond to vociferous encores. Mr. N. E. Heffernan, the star of the evening, surpassed him self in his solo, "Hold out Dat Light" with elect The concluding farce "Uncle Jeff" provoked much merriment and went off without a hitch. Mr. B. McLaughlin's exhibition of club swinging was a speciality thoroughly appreciated and warmly applauded. The orchestra gained for themselves fresh laurels and Conductor W. A. Fitch many flattering encomiums for his very clever adaptations. President C. E. Bentley previous to the commencement of the farce made a short but most felicitous speech, in which he outlined the clubs' scheme for a new club house, for which purpose the money accuring from the enter tainment, is to be devoted. The president extended cordial thanks to Mr. Gunn who donated the hall and to Mr. S. G. Chambers, for lighting and also to the public who so liberally patronized.
