The week opened as usual with a bicyc'e tea, but as Monday was as wet as it could possibly be, Mrs Cameron's party turned out a tea without the preliminary bicycling. It was a v ry pleasant p rtv however; not large as it was strictly limited to bicy cling prople, but very welcome and cheery on a wet, datk af ernoon.

On Friday after: oon Mrs. F. Jones gave a similar party for which she had a passably fine day and good going Society, by the way, is growing to be divided into bicyclists and non bicyc ists, though the ranks are growing every day in the former division. There is no coult that every woman who can possible : flord a bicycle shou'd have one. It is so much easier to be independant; so much easier to be cut alone and have an afternoon of good exercise and fresh air, than it is to go out and take a duty walk Then the short skirt is an excelient thing and any woman who learns the comfort of it will never return to the unsuitab'e long one for house use. Halifax women too have taken up bicycling from a very sensible stand point, and it is a very rare thing indeed to see any lady stooping or round shouldered on her machine, 'bicycle face' is certainly a fable so far as they are concerned.

Tuesday afternoon was delightful, and peop'e Eng'and play Canada at the Wandeters' grounds. The enthusiasts of course would have gone if it had rained in torrents, for it was a match every one or them was keen to see. There was a good deal of excitement, too, in a quiet way, and it was funny to see the champions of opposing teams playing in amity on the same side, and their supporters for once united instead of ready to rend one another to pieces. There was great excitement and j y on the Canadian site when Canada wor, but, as some one else has said this is Canada's year as regards sports. After the match there were several small teas, but no big par'y.

Mrs. Erskine will be much missed, especially in bicycling circ'es, the meets of the Crescent Cycling club at Admirality house having been most pleasant teatures all summer

With the departure of the ships the last fl cker of our sutumn gaiety dies down; from now until after the Christmas holidays there will be very little going or, except in the way of small teas and card parties. Halifax is so essentially a summer place that we have all grown accustomed to duliness in the winter in a way which would appall the residents of almost any other Canadian city of the same size.
