'The Band at Home' an organization of the younger members in connection with St. Pauls church gave a 'Pink Tea' in Graham's building on Tuesday, Mr. Graham very generously placed several rooms at the disposal of the girls who were efficiently aided by the ladies of the congregation. The supper room presented a very pleasing appearance; three long tables were placed bountifully spread with good things and artistically decorated with pink mats d'ojleys and flowers, over all a rosy hue was cast by the pink shades on the electrics. The dainty Hospital, London, England, says: maids in attendance looked very charming in coquetish caps and aprons of pink crepe paper, each wearing a bunch of pink chrysanthemums. A room on the pposite side of the hal was tastefully arranged with fancy work, candy and refreshment booths, presided over by dainty maidens in caps The fancy table was draped with silk and many pretty useful articles were on sale. The candy booth was a very attractive feature. The band played during the evening in the building. The girls are to be congratulated on the success of their entertainment. It is not our intention to interfere with the domestic relations of any couple, says the Chicago News; on the other hand, we would have every home on this earth a haven of unlimited joy and unrestricted felicity. But against the crime of snoring we herewith enter a loud and earnest pro-

Snoring should be made a capital offense in every civilized country. The man who will deliberately lie prone on his back and roar through his nasal organs is an enemy of society and a menace to law and order. And the ancients so considered him. In his 'Commentaries,' the late Mr. Cæsar

'I would rather a man would wallop the daylights out of me than snore in my neighborhood. I would have overcome the barbarians it I had not lost sleep by reason of one of my aides-de-camp sighing through his nose. It I had not been done up by Brutus and his gang I should have made a law which would have discouraged this form of relaxation.'

Prof. Ebers, the well-known Egyptologist, says that the real cause of Cleopatra's early death was nervous prostration brought on by attendant's snoring. Rather than spend any more sleeplese night she grabed

At St. Helena Nopoleon told his doctor that Waterloo was lost by Grouchy falling asleep under a tree and snoring so loud he couldn't hear the guns at Waterloo Napoleon had no sympathy with a person who would sleep with his nose open.

Other authorities could be quoted to prove that the babit of hurrahing through one's nose has not only disturbed great persons, but has made history and changed the world's map. The Boston man would better remain where he is; he is near a lenient judge.

Not a Practised allor.

A lady who lives in an inland town in New England went to the last convention of the Christian Endeavor societies at Washington, and travelled from Boston to Baltimore by steamer. She had never been on the ea before.

After her first night on the steamer a friend observed, when she made her appearance on deck in the morning, that she looked very much fatigued.

'Why,' said the friend, 'I'm afraid travel by water does not agree with you. Didn't you sleep well? The sea has been pertectly calm.'

'Sleep !' exclaimed the lady. 'I didn't sleep a wink. I am tired all out, and I shall never travel by water again.' 'What has tired you out?'

'Why, trying to sleep in that thing. I read the card in the state-room about how to put on a life-preserver, and I thought I understood it all right, but I suppose I didn't, for I couldn't get a wink of sleep with the thing on!'

Frederick T. Roberts M.
