MONCTON.

Progress is for sale in Moncton at the Moncton Bookstore, by W. G. Standfield, S. T. Hall and M. B. Jones Bookstore.

JULY 8.—This has scarcely been a favorable summer for picnics so far. High winds, cloudy skies, rain and cold alternating with a few days of sun, of oppressive heat. There have been one or two Sunday school picnics, but the first private outing of the kind, was given by Miss Urquhart, and took the novel form of a bicycle picnic, the objective point being the Gorge, a very beautiful spot about eight miles out of town, and a popular resort for summer parties. About 20 ladies and gentlemen wheeled out on Saturday afternoon and spent some very pleasant hours amid the lovely scenery for which the Gorge is noted. Tea was served, and the party got safely home to escape the rain. How the tea got out there I am not prepared to say, as it is a problem which has been occupying my attention ever since the event, but it was not transported in sections suspended from the handles of the different wheels, as one would be inclined to suppose at first.

Mr. S. W. Iron's many friends will be glad to hear that he has recovered his health sufficiently to be about again. Mr. Irons left town last week for Charlotte county, where he intends spending the summer vacation.

Mrs. John Harris left town last week to spend some weeks with her daughter Mrs. E. W. Jarvis.

Mr. Thomas Wray of St. John spent a few days in town last week, the guest of his parents Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Wray of Bridge street.

The many warm friends of Mrs Teal of this city will be interested in hearing of the fresh honors won by her son, George M Teal, I. L. D. the well-known African historian. Dr. Teal has recently been elected a foreign member of the Royal Academy of Sciences, at Amsterdam a very great distinction, as the statutes limit the number of foreign members to twenty, and the honor has been borne by such distinguished writers as Darwin, Macaulay, and Motley in the past, while Max Muller, Professor Legge, of Oxford, and other prominent men of letters, share it at the present day. Mrs. Teal has reason to be proud of her gifted son.

The many friends of Mr. William Donald, engineer at the cotton factory will hear with deep regret of a very serious accident which happened to him early yesterday morning while attending to his duties. Mr. Donald was engaged in repairing a slight leak in the main steam pipe running from the boiler to the engine, when the pipe burst throwing him off the scaff old to the ground below, a distance of twenty feet and severely scalding his face, neck, and arms. The injuries from his fall were so severe that it is feared his back is broken, but I understand that his physicians, Drs. White, Price and Ross, entertain hopes of his recovery.
