The Albani concert on Friday evening called out the entire smart set and the opera house was crowded. The ladies as a rule were very brightly and prettily gowned and the effect in the lower part of the house was exceedingly pretty when viewed from the balconies and gallery. This concert has had the effect of making society rather quiet this week and only one or two quiet little events have taken place.

On Thanksgiving evening there were the usual number of teas, suppers, etc., all of which were followed by the inevitable "programme." One or two of these latter were somewhat above the average programme in order in connection with these events and in one case at least the care and attention displayed and the real excellence of the numbers made a larger attendance desirable. Those who were present enjoyed a veritable treat.

St. Peter's high tea and sale of fancy work opened Tuesday afternoon in St. Peter's hall, north end. The ladies have undoubtedly outdone all previous efforts and a big success was the result. The decorations were very extensive and the general effect one of beauty. The platform at one end of the hall was tastefully draped with curtains and flags. Extending across the whole length of the rear end were large Canadian ensigns, Union Jacks and other flags. The sides and windows were tastefully draped with curtains and hung with many handsome works of art. The tea was served at two large tables distinguished by the color of the decorations and designated as the pink and blue tables. Both were pretty and attractive. Over the centre of the pink table was a large bell made of delicate pink ribbons. From this to the ends of the table was draped many yards of narrow pink ribbon, supported at the end by some fine specimens of pink chrysanthemums.

One of the greatest attractions of the fair was a handsome picture, the work of Miss Janne de Bury, and contributed by her to the sale. This picture gained a prize for Miss de Bury when exhibited by her at Florence. The subject is a basket of fruit.

The ladies in charge of the various tables were: Blue table—Miss Mary Driscoll, superintendent; Mrs. James Quinn, Miss Minnie Bradley, Miss Laura McCormick, Miss Fannie Gallagher, Miss Bird McCormick, Miss M. McMahon, Miss Kate Buckley, Miss Maggie Kelly, Miss Bessie Dalton, Miss Alice Harrington, Miss Clara Maloney, Miss Lizzie Maloney, Miss Nellie Driscoll, Miss Mary Collins. Pink table—Miss Louise Harrington, Miss A. Carlin, Miss J. McCarthy, Misses Maher, Miss M. McCluskey, Miss Pauline Delaney, Misses Quinn, Miss L. Bradley, Miss T. Leonard, Miss M. Cavanaugh. Ice cream—Miss Sarah Lynch, Miss M. Carlin, Miss A. B. Harrington, Miss M. Hagan, Miss Annie McDade, Miss Mary Murphy, Miss Maggie McMillan, Miss Jean de Bury, Miss Laura Burns, Miss Teresa Quinn, Miss Rose McDade, Miss Nellie Murphy, Miss Minnie O'Brien, Miss Agnes McPeake, Miss Crowe, Mrs. Thoms McCann.
