The opening day of the Royal Nova Scotia Yacht Club was quite a success last Saturday, both from a racing and fashionable point of view. The finish between the Wym a d Youla was certainly a pretty sight, even to a landsman's eyes, and the idea of numbering the yachts is a most excellent one, and very convenient, both for spectators and sailors. The ladies and the bicycles turned out in force. In fact there was quite a bicycle meet, and after tea a great many went for a spin around the park. Mrs. Erskine was becomingly dressed in a cycle habit of feather mixture, with Norfolk jacket and pretty sailor hat. Mrs. Crabbe, who was also on a wheel. wore a navy serge tailor-made skirt and coat. Mrs. Harry Trocp, fawn tweed habit.

The ladies not yachting were somewhat more (elaborately dressed. Mrs. Fitzherbert wore white surah, with a bodice of sherry silk; she carried a parasol to match. Mis. Creighton had on a beau () tiful shot green poplin, with a small covert coat of fawn cloth. Mrs. Drew Moir wore a very well made violet box cloth gown, with white revers. Mrs. Fred Jones was in dark green, coverting a bodice of accordion pleated green chiffon over red silk, collar, cuffs and belt of jewel embroidery. Mrs. Stairs Duflus was in black with a white surah bodice. Mrs. James Stairs in grey, with a brocade vest. Mrs. Geoffrey Morrow wore a very becoming costume of black and white check, with whit waistcoat and smart walking hat. Mrs. W. A. Henry was in gendarme blue. Many other ladies were present, all wearing more or less new and pretty gowns, but the wind was so cold that on the 0 veranda of the yacht club wraps were soon the order of the day.

Os Wednesday evening the amateur theatricals in St. Mary's hall were quite successful, if not very brilliant, and a not too critical an audience spent a very pleasant evening. Miss Uniacks looked very tall and graceful, and Miss Oliver made a charmingly bright Little Sentinel.

Miss Lily Norton Taylor is the guest of Mrs. Moren. The marriage of Capt. March, Royal Artillery, with her sister, Miss E. Norton Taylor, is arranged for the early autumn. At the yacht club on Saturday, Miss Taylor wore a very becoming cos tume of blue and black.

A very fashionable audience greeted the amatene on charity bent at St. Mary's hall. The house was packed and the audience certainly an appreciative one. The little Sentinal is somewhat of an antique; its humor belongs to an age not quite in harmouy with the present; its characters are drawn with an exceedingly blunt pen, in strong lines, the typical characters of farces. It is thus a very easy task for amateurs, but at the same time full of pitfalls, very easy for the unwary beginner to fall into. I regret the cherry smile and hearty handshake of "Bob" Davis. Some fifteen years ago Mrs. Davis removed to Ottawa and here on Sunday last at the ripe age of 76 she passed peacefully away, surrounded by her sorrowing children and grandchildren. Rev. J. M. Snowdon, Rector of St. George's church held a short service at the house at three o'clock on Monday morning and the remains were then taken to Halifax N. S., for interment. Deceased was the mother of Mr. R. G. Davis secretary of the Chief Justice of the supreme court, who accompanied the remains to their last resting place."

Monday evening was very well attended in spite of the disagreeable weather and certainly those who ventured out were well repaid as a more delightful entertainment has seldom been listened to here. Mrs. Waltherwas mexcellent voice and Miss Lock harts fine violin playing was a surprise to the audience. The other performers are too well known to make mention here necessary. The annual Encoenis Cricket match for the Cogs.

well bats took place on Monday on the collegiate school grounds, the contestants being the College C. and a team from the Blue Jackets of the town. The former won the victory and captured the bats. Rainy weather prevailed and the ground was in a very bad condition. The Cricketers lunched together at the Kings College dining hall.

The entertainment by the Parish Guild on Tuesday evening last was one of the best of the season and was fairly well attented although the night was very unpleasant. Great credit is due the ladies and gentlemen who took so much pains to prepare such a varied and enjoyable programme, a goodly sum was added to the piano fund.

The many friends made by Miss E G. Roberts during her visits to Windsor congratulate her on her marriage to Mr. T. A. R. McDonald, which took place at Fredericton on the 11th. June. Mrs. McDonald is a sister of Prof. Roberts, so long a enough to admit of its being used is a much needed addition to the already large and handsome buildings of this institution, the dining room which answers its own purpose perfectly, Lot being large enough to accommodate the number of friends who attend the closing exercises and the various entertainments given ouring the year. The programme was slighlty different from that usually followed, the concert taking place in the afternoon and the distribution of prizes in the morning. The young ladies acquitted themselves with their usual grace and proficiency.

better opportunity. The palm was certainly carried off by Mr. Neave as Spiggot, but Mr. Hill was almost as good as Hopkins. The ladies in this piece had not much to do, but certainly did it very well. Miss Burns was very good as Rose, her housemaid'e costume being most becoming. With such a lot of new talent added to what already exists, there ought to be no trouble in getting up the best of amateur theatricals. I hear that a movement is on foot to form a Dramatic club, to give three or four performances during the winter. Major Brady is in Halifax, the guest of Col.
