The bridesmaids Miss Maude Ingraham and little Miss Rutledge looked particularly well in dresses of nile green silk crepon. Master Rutledge assisted in the happy event by acting as page. Miss Ingraham is one of our most popular young ladies and will be very much missed by her large circle of friends. She was the recipient of numerous and valuable

Notwithstanding the dullness of the season Sydney has been rather gay.

Mrs. (Capt.) Morgan recently entertained a number of young people and Mrs. E. F. Morsely also gave a pleasant dance. The first carnival of the season took place last Thursday the costumes were pretty and the ice was in good condition, much credit is due to those who decorated the rink for the occasion. The Sydney cornet band rendered very effective music during the evening. Generally speaking the carnival was a great success I think that our citizens should en courage the band by sending in donations to assist in adding to their collection of music.

ORIGIN OF A PHRASE.

How "I Acknowledge the Corn" First Came to be Used.

Indian corn, the chief product of the Middle West, sometimes attains a great height. They remind a recent writer of the origin of the phrase. "I acknowledge the corn", so much in use by people gen-

A Western man and a son of New England fell into conversation on a railway train. They passed some sturdy-looking corn, and the New England man remarked: "That is fine corn." Whereat the Westerner replied: "That? We don't think much of corn no higher than that out where I live. It may be good corn for New England, but not for the West."

The eastern man could not believe that corn grew to be more than six feet high in the west. His companion took his name and address and promised to send him a few stalks of big western corn. A few weeks passed away. The New England man received a long box by express; in it were several stalks of corn more than seven feet high. He wrote to his companion this concise sentence : "I acknowledge the corn."

"Sound quality, thoroughly & & matured and free Watson's from deleterious ingredients."

HOW BABIES SHOULD SLEEP.

Not Upon the Back, but Preferably on the Stomach. Sound, restful sleep, both by night and by day, says a writer in Harper's Biziar. is more easily induced if from the first the child be taught to lie on its stomach and face. The only necessary precaution against suffocation is the provision of a smooth, flat, somewhat hard hair mattress without a pillow. The advantages of this position are many. Some one has said that half the diseases of infancy result from keeping the stomach too cold, and the other half from overheating the spine. By adopting the position suggested as the uniform one during the hours of sleep, the stomach and abdomen are kept so warm as to prevent colic and stomachache, and materially to aid the digestive process, while the spine and back of the head are no longer overheated by the increased temperature of the sleeping child. It may be a coincidence merely, the children the writer has known to rest downward have been unusually sound sleepers, and have enjoyed more than average good health.

It is surprising to see how early a child will discriminate and show perference for the face position, and how readily it accommodates itselt to this attitude. A child Miss Doherty and Miss Gladys Irving have re- from eight to ten weeks old will readily have learned to turn its head from side to side to obtain the relief of a change of

A young baby on its back is as helpless as a turtle in the same position; its one possible motion is the throwing out of legs and arms, and each such movement uncovers the child and exposes it to draughts. Placed on its face, a babe two or three months old will not only rest itself by frequent changes of the position of al portions of the body, but since it is powerless to reverse itself, it cannot get uncovered or lapse into any unwholesome cramped position. It is quite otherwise when the infant is lying flat on its back. This position not only invites indigestion, but it also causes bad dreams and night frights, and promotes the dangerous habit of mouthbreathing.

Grecian Beauty.

The loveliness of the women of ancient Greece has been famed in song and story through all succeeding ages, yet the secret of their beauty seemed till recently to have been buried with them. From Ovid we learn that they employed Oesypus as an emollient. This was a crude fat from sheep's wool, used as a safeguard against wrinkles, and as a stimulant to the growth of the hair. During the more degenerate days of the Roman Empire this natural product was gradually supplanted by more harmful preparations, such as pigments, powders and dangerous cosmetics. It was not until the present century, when a distinguished chemist produced a purified fat from sheeps' wool under the name of "Toilet Lanoline," that the fair sex was again able to utilize the favourite unguent of the beautiful women of ancient Greece. "Toilet Lanoline" is certainly a delightful cosmetic, and beautifies and softens the skin in a surprising way; being similar to the natural fat of the human skin it forms an effective soothing and protective application.

HOW HE GOES TO CHURCH.

Simple Fact Elaborated Upon by the Gov. ernmente Organ.

The Sultan of Turkey goes to church every Friday. That is a simple way of stating a simple fact. The following is the way it is recorded by the Ikdam, the Turkish government organ, which is revised by the 'Shadow of God on Earth' before it goes to press:

The sun lighting up the firmament of the Caliphat and of the sovereign power, the sublime moonlight of prosperity. The Caliph most divine, the head of all believers, yesterday, a day full of bliss, attended the mosque dazzling with holy light, which bears his august name, and which is one only of his lustrous and renowned works: in the elevated desire, which pleases God, to render the homage due to him.

Our august master, who is himself the source of immeasurable goodness, who wears the crown of charity, and who was seated in a wonderful carriage, which was a model of honor and of dignity, without parallel, and hallowed by the shadow cast upon it by his Majesty-arrived at the said mosque dazzling with holy light, and there acquitted his debt of homage, gaining by this means renewed holiness and bliss, which are added to his rare qualities, and then returned again with everything most majestic to his palace, which is unique on this earth.

The cries of Long live my "Padishah"prayers worthy of him-may God prolong his life eternally-rise toward the heavens, uttered by the imperial army to which victory is already promised—and by his faithful subjects during this passage of onr august master.

About fifty foreigners who had come with introductions from their Ambassadors, admired from the appartment in the palace prepared for them the magnificent spectacle. His Majesty condescended to send certain of them who were worthy of such his greetings and drowned them in a sea of compliments.

AWFUL HEART DISEASE.

Death Charmed Away Under the Spell of Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart-More Wonderful Than a Fairy Tale is the Story of Mrs

Readhouse, of Willscroft, Ont. Where disease has effected the heart the remedy to be applied must be speedy in its effects, or all may be lost. Mrs. Roadhouse of Willcroft, Ont. says: "Cold sweat would stand out in great beads upon my face, because of the intense suffering from heart disease. I often felt that the death struggle was at hand. No medicine gave me help until I used Dr. Agnew's cure for the Heart. In thirty minutes the severe pain was removed, and after taking little more than one bottle the trouble bad vanished. I know nothing of it to-day."

Obedient To The Call

The editor of Thierfreund relates the following story, drawn from his personal experience of the high training of military horses. In the year 1872, during a skirmish with the Sioux Indians, the Third Cavalry Regiment had formed an encampment in a valley on the southern border of

At nightfall the horses were tethered to the ground by a long line. Toward daybreak a violent storm of rain and hail burst over the valley. The unsheltered animals, terrified at the violence of the storm, broke loose, and tore away in a wild stampede up the steep sides of the valley, their fear driving them right into the territory of the

Without horses the soldiers would be at the mercy of the enemy, yet it was impossible, in the half-darkness, to go after them into an unknown region probably full of Indians. Everything seemed lost, when the captain, as a last resource, ordered the stable call to be sounded. In a few minutes every horse had returned to the encampment, and the men were saved.

Wore Greased Gloves Seven Years. John Siron, mason, Aultsville, Ont., had Salt Rheum so severe that for seven years he wore greased gloves. He writes: "I used a quarter of a box of Chase's Ointment. It cured me. No trace of Salt Rheum now." Chase's Ointment cures every irritant disease of the skin, allays itching instantly, and is a sterling remedy for piles. Avoid imitations. 60c. per box.
