THEY ARE NOT FIREPROOF.

Reviewing the various attempts which have been made in the past to realize an adequate method of fireproof construction, a writer in the Engineering Magazine declares that so inefficient in result have been these attempts that very few of the socalled fire proof building erected previous to 1890 are actually fire proof; on the contrary he asserts that while in many cases suitable materials have been employed in these buildings, they have not been suitably adapted or disposed-insignificant fires in such buildings have resulted most disastrously, aud in some cases have utterly wrecked the buildings. Careful investigations, however, of the physical properties of structural iron and steel when subjected to heat, and close observation on the effects of fire and water on different materials, have within a comparatively short time, it is admitted, developed efficient and economical methods of fireproofing Further, the constant and increasing demand for fireproof buildings has resulted in the development of nearly fitty different systems of construction, designed to serve the purpose of the clay products, at a reduced cost, some of which, based upon correct mechanical principles and contemplating the use of none but suitable materials unquestionably produce fire proof buildings in the broad sense in which the term is now used. The opinion held by many scientific men that ether is a very attenuated form of matter has recently been combated very ably by Prof. DOLBEAR. He based his position on a comparison of the quality of matter with those of ether; in seventcen particulars this comparison was made, his purpose being to show that matter has definite structure, the parts of which are different, that there is a certain calculable quantity of it in the universe, that it is heterogeneous, that one particle attracts another, that it is subject to friction, has inertia, is also chemically selective, heatable, elastic and a transformer of energy; in all of these particulars it differs from ether, which is structureless unlimited in quarity and homogeneous, all parts being like all other parts-nor is it attractive or else it would have gathered in denser masses near the sun and other large bodies, nor has it any enerted or themical relations; does not absorb heat and is not a transformer of energy. Finally Prof DOLBEAR points out, ether receives wave vibrations and delivers them without loss at their destination; and, again, matter appeals to the senses which ether do:s not. It is somewhat unfortunate that an ASTOR beiress should be revealed in the lcnely garb of a chambermaid in a Missouri hotel. at a time when one of the illustrious heads of the family is making such conspicuous headway among the crowned heads of Europe. It cannot fail to be disquieting to WILLIE WALDORF just as he is about to assume the responsibilities of a British subject and while he is enjoying the lordly distinction of a pronounced case of gout, to learn that one of his cousins is engaged in the extremely democratic work of charging pillow cases for the detectation of chance travellers who may "put up" at the Thostelry in question. The young woman has the presumption not to be ashamed of her occupation and says she prefers to earn her own living until she can obtain her fortune rather than depend on the charity of her family. But this can bring no consolation to WILLIE. He will be able, happily, to sever himself from any formal relation with the United States, but there is no way for him to escape formal relationship with the chambermaid, unless by some special edict, he is permitted to start an entirely new Aston family with no entangling ancestry.

ernment has ordered its Generals to put a telegram from Mr. Gault that the army on a war footing and the government of Peru awaits the foe. The quarrel is over a question of boundaries, Bolivia demanding back the territory which Peru seized during the civil war. Peru doesn't want to fight, but is determined to retain the territory in dispute. Bolivia is the most pugnacious republic in South months to secure. America. It is on bad terms with every country upon which it borders. It bas A standing dispute with Chili and one with Brazil besides the one with Cru and another with Argentine. It has been licked repeatedly by its neighbors but is always ready to try again. It deserves to be thrashed into a peaceful state of mind. Perhaps a reason for Bolivia's pugnacity may be found in the circumstance that it has more generals and colonels for its little army than any other country of its size. Then again every private in the army is anxious to become a general or a colonel, so as to get big pay and have a chance at the spoile of war.

The prevalence of that troublesome malady, the grip in all parts of the country this winter gives special interest to a remedy much in vogue in the Southern States, and which is declared by its inventor to te a specific. The prescription, as written out by the discoverer, an aged colored man reads thus: "Castroil, turpentine, and hog-huf tea." These simple remedies are readily procured in any family, the "hoghuff tea" being obtained by parching and pulverizing the hoots of a swine from which the decoction is made. If the hog is born in the dark of the moon and has two heart shaped spots on its left leg the remedy will be much more potent. The largest liberty as to the dose is left to the p ;tient.

It is anticipated that the supplies of in the morning." petroleum from Peru will in the near future be phenomenal in their abundance. Estimates have been made as to the principal area yielding the oil, one of them putting it as high as 7,200 square miles. The Peruvian promise is vast, the official statement showing that of forty nine wells bored during the last four years, forty-four have been productive a number of them yielding to the extent of 30,000 gallons a day. A London company has been working some of the wells with favorable results, and crude oil has for some time been used on the locomotives of all the Peruvian railways also in several manufacturing establishments and in the gas works.

Hon. Mr. Longley read in the house, stating that his company were quite willing to accept $25,000 for all the land which the commission desired from the cotton company. This about settled it. and now the commission practically hold the land they have been fighting for six

It is said that the conference between Ald. Redden, City Engineer Doans, and Mr. Gault was quite interesting, and that the statements made by the Halifax men regarding Mr. Harrington's reasons for acting in the case would be worth reproduction. However, this may be, it appears that Mr. Gault telegraphed to Halifax for a confirmation of what he had been told, and when a confirmatory reply was received, he at once wired the message to Hon. Mr. Longley, already referred to.

The exhibition, therefore now has an ample site, for buildings, race track if they make one, and every thing else required. It behooves them to go to work with vigor and give us the best exhibition ever seen in Halifax. They intend to do this.

JOE WAS NOT INSANE.

But His Jaw was Dislocated and His Actions Were Very Strange.

HALIFAX, March 4.- A rather amusing ncident occurred to a South Park street doctor a few nights ago. It was about two o'clock in the morning when a loud ring was heard at the physician's door. Hastily dressing, the doctor came down-stairs where he was met by a resident from near the North-West Arm, who said :

"Come quickly, doctor, to our house; I have a team here. My brother Joe has gone out of his mind and we want you to see him and give us a certificate so that we may have him sent to the asylum first thing

The doctor without delay, and probably with some trepidation jumped into sleigh and drove off On the arrival at the house he found t e members of the family gathered in one room, -a woe-begone company. They told the doctor how their brother had been muttering. holding his head and trying to say something of which they could not comprehend a word and appeared to be in sgony. Hitherto the poor fellow had been as intelligent as any of them but now they believed him to be a raving maniac, and the doctor was besought to take measures for their safety and the brother's care, if that were possible. The physician was then ushered into the room with the upposedly crazy man. He had set the room in great disorder, had broken articles of furniture, and was indeed a ting very like a lunatic. Not a word that he said could be understood, but the doctor, who may have had some emotions of fear as he entered the room was at once reassured on a glance at the sufferer. He saw that the man was no more a lunatic than he himself, and that all that was wrong was a dislocated jaw, which prevented speech and caused pain. Without much ado the jaw was got into position and directions given to prevent a recurrence

One of the results of the Indian plague has been to flood the London market with pearls. The native dealers in the marts of Bombay have been in such haste to quit the stricken city that they have eagerly disposed of their wares at far below the customary market value.

It is stated that young SEELEY, the host of the famous New York dinner is a descendant of P. T. BARNUM. This being so Mr. SEELEY may have felt that he had a right to run the greatest show on earth.

THE FIGHT WAS UNAVAILING.

And the Exhibition Commission has Secured the Much Desired Site.

HALIFAX, Murch 4.-Lawyer C. S. Harrington has made a long but an unavailing fight against the exhibition commission for the securing of the site on which the commission had set its heart. The lawyer left no stone unturned to gain his point, raising the cry of hardship to families who had lived there all their lives and did not want to be removed; trying to defeat the commission by saying that all they wanted this particular property for was because it was suited for a race track; and lastly, that the expropriation proceedings were irregular. Whether Mr. Harrington would have succeeded in the long run or not is perhaps a question, but it is pretty certain that there could have been no exhibition this year had not the legislature stepped in. Attorney-General Longley brought into the house a bill vesting the disputed property in the commission, thus summarily ending the tedious controversy. Mr. Harrington, using the cotton factory as a backer, had made a pretty good figh', but he was not in it when pitted against men like those in the commission, assisted by Ald. Redden. Mr. Harrington half adof the dropping out process. So Joe was saved from the asylum and and the doctor and the comforted family hid a good laugh over the incident. The doctor's plaasure was increased when he received his fee.
