

The marriage of Miss Mary Isabel Christie and Mr. George Bentley Gerrard was an event that occurred too late in the week for an extended notice in last week's PROGRESS. It was one of the most brilliant society functions that has taken place for some time, the young people being launched upon their matrimonial career with all possible eclat.

The guests were met at the door by the ushers—Mr. D. R. Jack, Dr. T. D. Walker, Dr. Stewart Skinner, Mr. Alex. McMillan, Mr. J. G. Harrison and Mr. A. George Blair—and escorted to the pews reserved for them. Promptly at the hour appointed the bridal party arrived. The bride was escorted to the chancel by her father, preceded by the ushers and followed by her maid of honor, Miss Alice Christie, the bridesmaids, Miss Florence Schofield and Miss Wiggins of Windsor, N. S., and the flower girls, Misses Frances Simonds and Silver Harvey. The bride looked charmingly radiant in a beautiful bridal gown of white satin, with duchess lace and white brocade satin train. Her white tulle veil was thrown back and caught with orange blossoms. She carried a large bridal bouquet. The bridesmaids' and maid of honor's dresses were of white silk, covered with muslin de soie, trimmed with white ribbon. Their hats were of white chiffon with pearl trimming, pink feathers and white tips. They carried large shower bouquets of pink roses, and from their gowns several small bouquets of rose buds were hung by pink ribbons. The little flower girls looked very charming in dresses of pink spotted muslin, with pink hats, trimmed with lace and pink ties. They carried pink and white flower baskets filled with pink and white carnations, trimmed with pink ribbon. As the bridal party left the church the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march rose joyously from the organ, and the bells rang out a merry peal. The bridal party and guests drove to Dr. Christie's residence on Wellington Row, where a wedding luncheon was served. Mr. and Mrs. Gerrard then took the afternoon train for Montreal and from there will proceed to Kaslo. A large number of friends assembled at the depot to wish them a safe journey, and the young couple were given a hearty send-off to their new home in the far West.
