Dr. Mason's method of treating cancers and tumors without knife or plaster is simple and plainly explained in a small pamphlet, which we send free to all who ask for it.

There are some cases of cancer so far advanced that no human power can cure them. Other cases yield rapidly to the invigorating and purifying influences of this truly marvelous method of treatment. If you desire to know which class of cancer you have, send 6 cents for symptom blank and we will then get Dr. Mason's advice for you free of all charges.

Dr. Mason has probably treated more cases of cancers and tumors than any physician on this continent, and his advice should be valuable to you. One thing is sure, his advice will cost you nothing, and he will be frank with you if he considers your case hopeless. He only advises the use of this treatment when he has reason to believe the patient will receive satisfactory results and be able to recommend it to friends and neighbors.

He often suggests simple means for relieving the pain and making life more comfortable to those who are incurable, but these suggestions are free of all cost, and no one need feel under any obligation to use Dr. Mason's treatment, unless they think it is suited to their case after getting full particulars and hearing what it has done for others. Oct. 27.—The sacred concert given in the central Methodist church on Wednesday evening in aid of the sufferers by the Windsor fire, was most successful, the net proceeds being something over a hundred dollars. The church was comfortably filled, and the programme rendered in every way excellent, the choirs from central Methodist, Wesley, Memorial, Presbyterian, St. George's, first Baptist and reformed Episcopal churches all being represented, while the citizens' band added greatly to the success of the concert, by their well chosen selections. The first number on the programme was an organ solo by Mr. F. H. Blair, organist of St. John's Presbyterian church followed by the chorus "Radiant Morn" by the choir. A selection by the Citizens' band was followed by a solo by Mrs. Grant Hall, "Palms," which was well received. Mr. Blair then played a Fugue and Fantasia by Lux, in grand style. "Egypt's Bondage" overture by the band, was the next number on the programme, after which Mr. W. H. Watts, with an appropriateness very touching under the circumstances gave a beautiful rendering of "Home Sweet Home" on the organ. The next number was the chorus "There is a Holy City," with solos by Mrs. Dernier, and Mrs. W. H. Watts, organ selection "The Storm" by Mr. F. H. Blair, solo by Mr. Harry Twigger, chorus "Praise Ye," and "God Save the Queen," by the band. Mr. Watts who filled the difficult post of accompanist and leader of the choruses, is entitled to great credit for his energetic action in organizing the concert at such short notice. Mr. J. H. Wetmore was prevailed by a severe cold from carrying out his part of the programme.

Amongst them was a very beautiful star, from the teachers of Victoria school, where Miss Crossman had been a teacher, and a wreath from the Baptist Union People's Union, of which the deceased had been a member. The services at the house and grave were conducted by Rev. W. B. Hinson, and were most impressive. The pall bearers were, Messrs. KING MENELIK'S BANQUET.

By Some Abyssinians is Described as Europe in the Middle Ages.

Europeans who have lately visited the court of the victorious Negus, or so-called Emperor, of Abyssinia, Menelik, the Ruler of Shoa, agree in describing life in that country as peculiarly like what we suppose the life of the nations of antiquity to have been. By some it is spoken of as a reproduction of Europe in the middle Ages; others go much further and call it 'Homeric.' What they mean may be inferred from an account which the French prince,

One loaf of bread may be light, sweet and digestible. You may use the same materials for another and have it heavy, sour and soggy. The knack is in putting the ingredients together just right. A substitute for Scott's Emulsion may have the same ingredients and yet not be a perfect substitute, for no one knows how to put the parts together as we do. The secret of "how" is our business—twenty-five years of experience has taught us the best way.

Two sizes, 50 cts. and $1.00. SCOTT & BOWNE, Belleville, Ont.

Henry of Orleans, has given of a banquet which he attended.

It was the day after the great Abyssinian festival of St. Rague, and the prince and his suite were invited to dine with the Negus at the palace. Menelik sat on a raised platform above his guests, who were served somewhat in the European manner,—which was a discordant note, out of harmony with the mediæval surroundings—with various kinds of food and with hydromel,—a wine of honey,—and araki, another Abyssinian beverage.

But this meal was only a prelude to the real Homeric scene. After the king and his European guests had eaten, a curtain of rude tapestry was drawn, disclosing the main part of the king's hall; then the Europeans saw a strange and antique spectacle—all the king's officers, even the subalterns entering to partake of a feast to be offered them in real Abyssinian fashion.

They marched in in groups, clad in their barbarous military attire—swarthy and most picturesque warriors, who seemed to be issuing from the midst of a solemn antiquity. They formed in circles about a great number of hampers containing cakes of gingera's—an Abyssinian food. This they did without any form of salutation to the Negus, whose guests the officers now were; this attention from a salute to the Negus was also an Abyssinian custom, which Prince Henry notes as a curious one.

The king's musicians blew a long blast on their trumpets, and the guests sat down. And now really Homeric viands were brought in—great quarters of beef roasted whole, and similar quarters of mutton. The servants who brought them held them aloft with the sticks on which they were impaled, and the guests, drawing long and short knives, cut off pieces, and proceeded to eat them; at the same time large cups made of the horns of cattle were passed around and filled with hydromel for each guest.

'I could have believed myself,' says Prince Henry, 'back in the days of Homer; I seemed to see the companions of Achilles dismembering an ox under the walls of Troy. Soon, to complete the illusion, two birds appeared, bearing great lozenge-shaped guitars, and leaning against the central green-painted wooden pillars of the hall, their heads thrown back, they improvised wild songs of war and love to divert the company.'

KLONDIKE.

Mosquitoes are one of the vilest Pests That are seen in Alaska.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer prints an interesting talk of Prof. Henry W. Elliott about Alaska and the Klondike country. We extract what he has to say concerning its salubrity on the one hand, and its 'vilest pest' on the other.

Alaska is a healthy country, with no malaria or mountain fever. A curious fact is that any one afflicted with neuralgia or rheumatism is completely cured of it in that climate. The clear, dry atmosphere and the rapid changes of the body's tissues doubtless account for this.

One's appetite is tremendous there. A personal incident will show you what an Alaskan appetite is like. I was one of six men, who having had a good breakfast, sat down at noon to a dinner of roast goose. Six large geese, none of which weighed less than eight pounds, had been roasted and stuffed, and were served with coffee, bread, butter and pickles. At the close of the meal every bone was picked clean, and not a vestige of goose remained. We all ate a hearty supper that evening.

The talk that there is plenty of game to be had there is entirely misleading. A camp of two hundred men would clean out all the game in a tract twenty miles square, in a few weeks. Food, plenty of it, is the one great necessity, and a man to succeed must be well fed.

The vilest pests of Alaska are the mosquitoes. I have battled with these annoying insects in New Jersey and Central America, but they cannot compare with the Alaska species for venom and numbers. In May the tundra becomes a great flat swale, full of bog-holes, slimy decayed peat, innumerable lakes, shallow, stagnant, and from all places swarm mosquitoes of malignant type.

Every precaution is taken to guard against them. Netting is tied over the head and mittens are worn on the hands. Ointments are rubbed on the flesh, and attempts are made to smoke out the insects. Horses and cattle, and even dogs, die from their bites. Not until November do they vanish.

THINGS OF VALUE.

He dreamed of 'g'ory in the field' In ecstasy complete, And then he went forth valiantly And harvested more wheat.

Severe colds are easily cured by the use of Bickie's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, a medicine of extraordinary penetrating and healing properties. It is acknowledged by those who have used it as being the best medicine sold for coughs, colds, inflammation of the lungs, and all affections of the throat and chest. Its agreeableness to the taste makes it a favorite with ladies and children.

Duzzey—I know for a fact that there are lots of innocent men behind the bars. Doohey—Name some of them. Duzzey—Well, animal tamers, for instance.

Colic and Kidney Difficulty.—Mr. J. W. Wilder, J. P., Lafargeville, N. Y., writes: "I am subject to severe attacks of Colic and Kidney Difficulty, and find Parmelee's Pills afford me great relief, while all other remedies have failed. They are the best medicine I have ever used. In fact so great is the power of this medicine to cleanse and purify, that diseases of almost every name and nature are driven from the body."

"Your husband seems to be a pretty easy-going sort, eh?" "Don't you believe nothing of the kind. It is the hardest work in the world to start him going at all."

The Public should bear in mind that Dr. Thomas' Elettrolytic Oil has nothing in common with the impure, deteriorating class of so-called medicinal oils. It is eminently pure and really efficacious—relieving pain and lameness, stiffness of the joints and muscles, and sores or furis, besides being an excellent specific for rheumatism, coughs and bronchial complaints.

Prosperity Eluded Him—I thought you said you saw prosperous times ahead. "Well, I thought I did, but the heires I had my eye on wouldn't have me."

These two desirable qualifications pleasant to the taste and at the same time effectual, are to be found in Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator. Children like it.

"What is horse sense, Uncle Jim?" "I don't know exactly, but a man oughtn't to trust himself on a bicycle unless he has got it."

When all other corn preparations fail, try Holway's Corn Cure. No pain whatever, and no inconvenience in using it.

Doctor—I believe you have some sort of poison in your system. Patient—Shouldn't wonder. What was that last stuff you gave me?

No family living in a bilious country should be without Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. A few doses taken now and then will keep the Liver active, cleanse the stomach, and bowels from all bilious matter and prevent Ague. Mr. J. L. Price, Shoals, Martin Co., Ind., writes: "I have tried a box of Parmelee's Pills and find them the best medicine for Fever and Ague I have ever used."

Jabbers—Why have you and Marriam quarreled? Havers—On. he's such a perfect ass! Then I should think you'd get along all right."

Mr. T. J. Humes, Columbus, Ohio, writes: "I have been afflicted for some time with Kidney and Liver complaints, and find Parmelee's Pills the best medicine for these diseases. Those pills do not cause pain or griping, and should be used when a cathartic is required. They are Gelatine Coated and rolled in the Flour of Licorice to preserve their purity, and give them a pleasant, agreeable taste."

Counsel—What is your age, madam? Witness—I only know from what I've been told, and you just told me that hersey evidence was not valid in court.
