THINGS OF VALUE. A smart advertiser doesn't write "smart" ads. Some odds cannot be overcome by the best of ads.

There never was, and never will be, a universal panacea, in one remedy, for all ills to which flesh is subject. The nature of many curatives being such that were the germs of other and differently seated diseases rooted in the system of the patient—what would be the result, in any one would aggravate the other.

We have, however, in Quinine Wine, when obtainable in a sound unadulterated state, a remedy for many and grievous ills. By its gradual and judicious use, the feeble system is led into convalescence and strength, by the influence which Quinine exerts on Nature's own restoratives. It relieves the drooping spirits of those with whom a chronic state of debility and despondency and lack of interest in life is a disease, and, by tranquilizing the nerves, disposes to sound and refreshing sleep—imparts vigor to the action of the blood, which, being stimulated, courses throughout the veins, strengthening the healthy animal functions of the system, thereby making activity a necessary result, strengthening the frame, and giving life to the digestive organs, which naturally demand increased substance—result, improved appetite, Northrop & Lyman of Toronto, have given to the public their superior Quinine Wine at the usual rate, and, gauged by the opinion of scientists, this wine approaches nearest perfection of any in the market. All druggists sell it.

It is as easy to spoil a good ad as it is difficult to write one. Genial warmth in the ad will draw out the purses of readers.

It may be only a trifling cold, but neglect it and it will hasten its length in four times, and you will soon be carried to an unquiet grave. In this country we have sudden changes and must expect to have coughs and colds. We cannot avoid them, but we can have a cure by using Rich's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, the medicine that has never been known to fail in curing coughs, colds, bronchitis and all affections of the throat, lungs and chest.

Poor advertising succeeds oftener than good advertising fails. Can Recommend It.—Mr. Enos Bornberry, Tuscarora, writes: "I am pleased to say that Dr. THOMAS' ELECTRIC OIL is a lot that you claim it to be, as we have been using it for years, both internally and externally, and it always relieves me of my ailments. It is our family medicine, and I take great pleasure in recommending it."

Change the ad often and each time let it be a change for the better. AS PARMELEE'S VEGETABLE PILLS contains Mandrake and Dandelion, they cure Liver and Kidney Complaints with unerring certainty. They also contain Roots and Herbs which have specific virtues truly wonderful in their action on the stomach and bowels. Mr. E. A. Cairncross, Shafespeare, writes: "I consider Parmelee's Pills an excellent remedy for Biliousness and Derangement of the Liver, having used them myself for some time."

Time is economy, but the people who have most time have least money, and those who have most money have least time; so concentration is necessary in the ad. A DINNER PILL.—Many persons suffer excruciating agony after partaken of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach and instead of being a healthy nutriment it becomes a poison to the system. Dr. Parnelee's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open secretions and convert the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with indigestion or Dyspepsia.

An Atchison man is writing a novel in which the villain is avenged by his rival marrying the heroine. Mrs. Celeste Coon, Syracuse, N. York, writes:—"For years I could not eat many kinds of food with out producing a burning, excruciating pain in my stomach. I took Parmelee's Pills according to directions under the head of "Dyspepsia or Indigestion." One box entirely cured me. I can now eat anything I choose, without distressing me in the least." These pills do not cause pain or griping, and should be used when a cathartic is required.

Dress Dreams... Often had—seldom realized. Whose fault? Modiste perhaps; material probably. The nearest approach to a "dream" of a gown is made of PRIESTLEY'S "EUDORA." With its soft, rich, dustproof surface; with its qualities of easy fitting and graceful draping, it possesses a charm and refinement of its own, which it lends to the wearer. Wrapped on "THE VARNISHED BOARD." Priestley's name stamped on every five yard. Eudora The Ideal Dress Fabric.

PHILOSOPHY AND FOLLY. Gold can purchase pleasure, but not always happiness. Happiness necessarily is pleasure, but pleasure may be far removed from happiness. When adversity stares one in the face, it is generally with both eyes at once. Insinuations, and imputation of motives, backed by opinion, are capital mediums for detecting the utter smallness of those addicted to the habit. "Two hearts with but a single thought," should take lessons in mental telegraphy in order to multiply that thought. Death is kinder to some than others, and is not discretionary in his dealings. A man need not fear dog days if his pup's tax be paid. Could one foresee the result of affliction, one would sometimes be enabled to bear them better. A contemplation of the future has ruined many. Much suffering accrues through bigotry, that might be diverted by the exercise of that God given trait called common sense. That is not education that finds within its narrow scope an inferiorly existing, wherein others are the objects as seen through the large end of the telescope. "Many men of many minds" is probably the reason that so many men mind other than their own business. Mouth kindness is dross, while heart kindness is pure gold. Pity savoring of affection, is less desirable than envy. Peace must be the future watch word of all nations before the height of civilization be reached. "All is fair in love as in war" except where the parties are brutes. A crank on one virtue is apt to be more severe on others who may digress in that particular line, than he would care to have others think of him in other directions as the eye he keeps on that, loses its sight in contemplating those virtues in which he does not excel. The victim of misjudgment may need pity, but those who do the misjudging decided, yea. It is a mistake to think that gold is always capable of paying a debt of gratitude. Where Love is strongest, there also is Hope in its maximum. "As the tree falleth so shall it lie"; As the man lieth so shall he fall." How many could retain an erect attitude were the principle enforced. He who judges the future of the departed, may be mistaken in his judgment, let the circumstances be what they may. JAY BEE.
