SEPT. 21.—The marriage of Miss Annie L. Fleetwood, daughter of Mr. Thomas Fleetwood of the C. P. R. to Mr. L. G. B. Lawson deputy city clerk, to which I referred briefly last week, took place at a quiet party on Oct. 13 last Wednesday afternoon in Central Methodist church, in the presence of a large congregation chiefly composed of relatives and friends of the bride and groom. The members of the choir under the direction of Mr. H. W. Dornier had decorated the church beautifully in honor of the wedding of two of the most valued of their fellow members, the pulpit being most artistically veiled with flowers, and the spot where the bride and groom stood during the ceremony spanned by an arch of ferns and foliage dotted with sweet peas, and surmounted by a true-lover's knot of white asters. The ceremony was performed by Rev. William Lawson of Richibucto, professor Watts organist of the church presiding at the organ. Prior to the appearance of the wedding party Professor Watts played the Wedding March from Lohengrin and as the bride entered the church leaning on the arm of her father the sweet strains of the beautiful nuptial hymn—"The voice that breathed o'er Eden," stole softly forth to greet her, and throughout the ceremony the organ played a steady accompaniment in the manner for which Professor Watts is noted, and which is so effective and enduringly great to the impressiveness of the service. During the ceremony, "How Welcome was the call" was rendered very effectively by the full choir, and at its conclusion the grand music of Mendelssohn's Wedding March filled the church. The bride looked very handsome in a tailor made traveling suit of Prussian blue broadcloth, with hat to match, and was unattended. She received a large number of beautiful and useful gifts, amongst which were a dozen solid silver spoons, and a handsome parlor table from the Central Methodist choir. Mr. and Mrs. Lawson left immediately after the ceremony on the C. P. R. train for a bridal trip to Boston, followed by the hearty good wishes of their numerous friends, a goodly number of whom gathered at the station to see them off.

There never was, and never will be, a universal panacea, in one remedy, for all ills to which flesh is heir—the very nature of man's curatives being such that were the germ of other and differently seated diseases rooted in the system of the patient—what would relieve one ill in turn would aggravate the other. We have, however, in Quinine Wine, when obtainable in a sound unadulterated state, a remedy for many and grievous ills. By its gradual and judicious use, the feeblest systems are led into convalescence and strength, by the influence which Quinine exerts on Nature's own restoratives. It relieves the drooping spirits of those who with a chronic state of morbid despondency and lack of interest in life is a disease, and, by tranquillizing the nerves, disposes to sound and refreshing sleep—imparts vigor to the action of the blood, which, being stimulated, courses throughout the veins, strengthening the animal function of the system, thereby making activity a necessary result strengthening the frame, and giving life to the digestive organs, which naturally demand increased substance—re-urges improved appetite, Northrop & Lyman of Toronto, have given to the public their superior Quinine Wine at the usual rate, and, gauged by the opinion of scientists, this wine approaches nearest perfection of any in the market.
