No Cross No Crown.

Sometimes I think when life comes drear,
When hope's bright star forsakes my skies,
And sorrow o'er my pathway lies,
I would be woe, it would be best,
That I was dead, hands and feet;
But then, God sends an angel down,
Who whispers out, "No Cross, no Crown."

Last night I heard the river moan
With sad and melancholy tone;
I saw its waters lancing free
And dashing onward to the sea,
I would have plunged beneath its tide,
And on its friendly bosom died,
But then, God sent the angel down,
Who whispered still, "No Cross, no Crown."

Then turned I from the river's shore,
To seek the lonely world once more;
With aching heart and burning head,
To battle for a crust of bread,
And fainting by the way I fell,
But still the angel fluttered down,
And weeping, said, "No Cross, no Crown."

"No Cross no Crown!" As standing there,
The cross too heavily seemed to bear;
And for the crown—I could not see
The reason of my hands and feet;
The words I could not understand
Even when I clasped the angel's hand;
But still he locked with pity down,
And still he said, "No Cross, no Crown."

Back to the world I turned again
To seek the lonely world, to bear its pain;
But all the sweetness that it gave,
I followed, we plied, to the grave,
And from the cold and quiet sod
I lifted my pale hands to God,
And saw the angel coming down,
And in his hands a golden crown.

Then did I laugh at earthly loss,
And kneeling, lifted up the cross;
Though all at once made life so sweet
I slept beneath the lilies at my feet;
A radiance from the realms of light
Eshes for a moment on my sight;
"A still small voice," came fluttering down,
The cross had then become the crown.

The Potter to His Wheel.

Turn, turn, my wheel! Turn round and round
Without a pause, without a sound—
So spins the flying world away!
This clay, well mixed with water and sand,
Follows the motion of my hand;
For some must follow, and some command,
Though all are made of clay.

Turn, turn, my wheel! All things must change
To some one new, to something strange;
Nothing that is can pause or stay,
The moon will wax, the moon will wane,
The met and cloud will turn to rain,
The rain to mist and cloud again—
Tomorrow is today.

Turn, turn, my wheel! All life is brief;
What now is hid will soon be leat,
What now is least will soon decay;
The wind blows East, the wind blows West;
The blue eyes in the row of teeth,
Will soon have wiles and beak and breast,
And flit and fly away.

THINGS OF VALUE.

All the land above sea level would not fill up more than one-third of the Atlantic Ocean.

The creature most tenacious of life is the common sea polyp. One may be cut in two and two creatures are the result. One may be split lengthwise into half a dozen sections, making as many animals. They may be burned inside out and enjoy themselves just the same as before.

Why will you allow a cough to locate your throat, or a pain to run the risk of filling a countess grave, when, by the timely use of Bickle's Anti-Croupy Syrup the pain can be allayed and the danger avoided. This Syrup is pleasant to the taste and unobtrusive for relieving, healing and curing all affections of the throat and lungs, coughs, colds, bronchitis, etc.

Dyspepsia and Indigestion.—C. W. Snow & Co., Syracuse, N. Y., writes: "Please send us ten gross of Pills. We are selling more of Parmelee's Pills than any other Pills we keep. They have a great reputation for the cure of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaints." Mr. Chas. A. Smith, Lindsay, writes: "Parmelee's Pills are an excellent medicine. My sister has been troubled with severe headache, but these Pills have cured her."

Gun cotton is a cotton wool, washed, then soaked in one part of nitric acid, washed in water, pulp and dried.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion is occasioned by the ill action on the bilious organs, loss of vitality in the stomach to secrete the gastric juices, without which digestion cannot go on; also being the principal cause of heartache. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills take in a few going to bed, for a while, never fail to give relief and effect a cure. Mr. F. W. Ashdown, Ont., writes: "Parmelee's Pills are the best I have used against ten other marks which I have in my stomach."

THE PHONOGRAPHIC CLOCK. Evils and Benefits of an Invention Just put on the Market in Germany. Some modern inventions are a boon to humanity and others are not. The phonographic clock which has just been launched upon the market in Germany belongs to the latter category. One must admit the alarm clock in the theory of modern life, but a phonographic alarm clock adds insult to injury. If one must be awakened, one must; but how can one turn over and take the final luxurious forty winks when the depressing programme of a busy day has been shouted into one's ears? Things that seemed natural and practicable the night before present an appalling front in the early morning; and the breakfast hour, announced in strident tones, is much more insistent than when suggested by an impersonal metallic clang. Some valuable possibilities the new invention does possess. The housewife needn't laboriously explain breakfast details to the servant at night, and find the next morning that all important points have been conscientiously forgotten. She sets the phonographic alarm for an early hour, talks directions into it, and the next morning the cook is awakened by a stern voice telling her exactly what is expected of her in regard to breakfast preparation. Paterfamilias, too, can work the combination. No more will he sit up until his pretty daughter's caller goes home and resort to time honored hints to hasten the departure. He will not slam shutters and noisily lock doors and bid the other members of the family good night at the top of his voice and drop his shoes on the bedroom floor with a force that shakes the parlor chandeliers, and call down to the daughter that she must be careful about turning off the gas and locking the door. He will never be goaded by a sense of parental duty into walking into the parlor and making a scene and reducing the daughter to a point of tears. Oh, no; he will simply set the phonographic alarm for the hour when he thinks young men should end their calls. Then he will go serenely to bed; and when the fatal hour strikes a specimen of the old gentleman's finest irony will be hurled at the offending guest. Exit young man. The maiden wrathfully weeps alone.
