NEWCASTLE.

JAN. 3.-The weather has been unusually severe for several days past, New Year's day being especially so. The day passed very quietly, the few who ventured out driving being torced to return home after a few rounds. It seems a p ity that the lovely old custom of calling on New Year's has so entirely died out, and I think that if the "Lords of Creation" realized how their ladies friends appreciated the yearly visit, they would endeavour to make amends. As everything in the way of antiquity is in vogue, perhaps next year may see a revival of this pretliest of all old customs. On Friday evening a number of our young people had a pleasant sleighing party, leaving town about half past seven o'clock and driving to the handsome residence of Mrs. Robert Loggie of Loggieville. The party consisted of Mrs. Manny, Mrs. Charles Sargeant, Miss Sinclair, Miss Muirhead, Miss Aitken, Miss Sargeant, Miss Layton, Miss Troy, Miss Jones, Miss Fish, and Messrs. Harrison, Sargeant, Aitken, Crocker, Wilson, Lyster, Muirhead and Tweedie. Mrs. Loggie's beautiful home was prettily arranged. The drawing rooms were thrown open for dancing, while numerous cosy nooks and corners were eagerly sought for by those who preferred sitting out. About twelve o'clock a dainty supper was served, shortly after which the party broke up all expressing themselves delighted with the charming evening the host and hostess had given them. Among the guests were Mrs. Frank Loggie of Loggieville and Miss Loggie of New York.

Oa Wednesday afternoon the "Opportunity circle of King's Daughters" held a Christmas tree and treat at the Mission hall to which forty children were invited. The tree was beautifully decorated and glistened and glittered and radiated joy and the magical spirit of Xmas. The tea-table was laden with all sorts of confections dear to children and there was not any doubt of their enjoyment of the bountiful repast. It was a great pleasure to see their happy faces when the tree showered its bounty into their eager hands and the bright warm dresses, skirts, mufflers, mittens, along with toys, fruit and candy, filled full the measure of their joy and happiness. The circle feel very grateful and much indebted to the kind friends whose generous donations helped them to bring joy and cheer to so many hearts.
