PROGRESS, SATURDAY, AUGUST 19 1899

The return match between the Algorquins of St. Andrews and the St. John Golf club took place on Wednesday and resulted in a victory for St. Andrews. The day was perfect for golf and as the links were in excellent condition everything seemed to favor the enthusiastic players. The Algonquin club was represented by Mrs. W. Hope, Miss Allen, Miss Wilder, Miss Sparks, Miss Sweetland, Messrs. W. Hope, Geoffrey Whee'ock, Gordon Wheelock, R. Allen, W. Underwood, W. Wilder, C. Curtis and Kenneth Sills. The ladies match came first and 18 holes were played, the score being reckoned by holes won instead of numbers. The game resulted as follows : Miss Thomson, St. John, vs Miss Allen, Algonquin. Miss Thomson won 3 up. Miss Burpee, St. John, vs Miss Sweetland, Algorquin, Miss Sweetland won 6 up. 1 Miss H. S. Smith, St. John, vs Miss Bethune, Algor quip, Miss Smith won 1 up.

Miss Grace Skinner, St John, vs Miss Wilder, Algenquin. A tie.

Miss Mona Thomson, St. John, vs M ss Sparks, Algor quip, Miss Thomson won 4 up.

Mrs. G. W. Jones, Et. John, vs Mrs. Hope, Algorquin. Mrs. Hope won 9 up.

At one o'clock luncheon was served by the ladies of the St. John club, and to the dainty things provided the players did full justice. The table was prettily decorated with pink and disroses. The ladies who white pensed hospitality were : Mrs. George F. Smith, Miss H. S. Smith, Mrs. J. H. Thomson, Mrs. D. B. Lawson, Mrs. L. R. Harrison, Miss Burpee, Mrs. F. H. J. Ruel, Mrs. W. L. Busby, Mrs. George McAvity, and Miss Mabel Thomson.

Old Fashioned Hollyhocks.

Mr. Miles,

Good old fashioned flower that seems Linking us to bygone dreams, Calling back the days long gone When our lives were in their dawn. Other floral gems may bear Softer tints of beauty rare. But there's none that seem to talk To us like the hollyhock.

Seems to lead us once again To a farmhouse, old and plain, Hid a way among the trees. And we hear the honey bees Singing at their work, as they Sip the hidden sweets away From the flowers that line the walk Shadowed by the hollyhock.

Once again we see a face Touched with sweet maternal grace Bending o'er the flowers she

Those who are anxious to learn the game of golf without all the violent exercise and immense smount of tramping up hill and down dale which the real thing calls for will welcome the new game of lawn gol'. Lawn golf is played with a small siz ed golf ball and implements something like golf clubs. The course can be laid out on an ordinary lawn, or even in a drawing room, and constantly altered at will. In place of bunkers little fences provide the necessary obstructions, and instead of the holes of an ordinary putting green there are saucers of tin with holes in their centres. The saucers are turned upside down in any desired position, and, as might be imagined, it is no easy matter to get the ball into them.

The question of the relative continuance of golf as a popular game enters seriously into consideration when improvements are being planned for the grounds. It is unlikely that golf will prove as popular as it is today for many years. No game ever could hold popular approval beyond a certain length of time. It will cease to be a fad among the smart set, and many will drop it. But the game is the attractive and enjoyable for it ever to die out entirely. It will always appeal to a certain number, and it is wise to approximate this number ag nearly as possible before contracting too heavy expenses in building golf links and club-houses.

Two teas were added to this weeks list of gaieties one of which was given by Miss Gladys Mc-Lauchlan on Wednesday and the other by Miss Daisy Fairweather on Friday. Both were bright and enjoyable functions and largely attended by the girl friends of the youthful hostesses.

No flaw in its claim ' be ABSOLUTELY PURE bure concentrated Watched and cared for lovingly. See a mother old and gray Moving 'round in quiet way, White her venerable locks As the whitest hollyhocks.

And we see another there At a neighbor farmhouse, fair As the sweetest flower that grew Neath her watchful eye of blue, See her flittting to and fro In her gown of C lico, Rosy cheeks that seem to mock E'en the crimson hollyhock.

In the harvest time when we Gathered for the annual spree Cradling down the ripened grain Rolling like a billowy main. I could see the winsome Kate Watching us across the gate As we piled the golden shocks Just outside the hollyhocks.

There amid the flowers we Sat one summer evening, she Blushing as the rose to hear What I whispered in her ear. There I crowned her as my queen 'Neath the moonlight's silvery sheen. Placed upon her sunny locks Just a wreath of hollyhocks

His Wonderful Parent.

Papa went a-fishing With his pockets full of bait; He went all by his lonesome, And the luck be had was great.

He came home, bringing with him A string of fish that weighed Just twenty pounds he told us, And a lovely meal they made.

Papa went a fishing Upon another day, And mamma she went with him-He couldn't say her nay.

They came a-trudging homeward All tired out at night, And mama told us papa Had never had a bite.

My papa's broken records Of nearly every kind— A greater man than he is It wou d be hard to fiad.

He's always doing wonders,

But here's what bothers me; He never seems to do them When folks are there to see.

A Voyage 'Round the Horn.

Oh! for a Yankee clipper ship, And a voyage 'rouad the Horn, Where flapping ropes sing a reveille In the cool November morn! When the night comes far from morn. And the low down sun sets late, And the shellbacks sing with joyiul swing, For they're bound for the Golden Gate.

Oh, Pet, with your brogue, and Scotty true, When I think of you I sigh
For your cherry lays in the dear dead days, And I hear your proud 'Aye, Aye,'
In the dark your loud 'Aye, Aye'
To the thundering bully mate—
'Lay aloft, my boys, make all things snug, We are bound for the Golden Gate '

Ah! the Yankee ship and the motley crew And the glory—all have passed, And the reckless crowd on the trackless waves

And the tapering towering mast-Yes, the spindle, pitch-pine mast! Yet the galaxy of States Will flaunt our flag o'er the sun kissed waves That roll to our Western gates.

On the Trolley.

The red is melting in the river. The red is dying in the sky, The evening star begins to quiver, Belated hirds go darting by; Come, let us follow, follow, follow, And find how fine it is to fly.

By pine woods where, when noon was sunny, The air with spicy balsams gowed. By gardens tull of sweets and honey Where summer-long the rose has glowed

Was only two weeks old.

Come, flash along the river road. The forest wall across the river Darkens with in the curling tide, The fragrant winds about us shiver, We rock we race, we rush, we ride, Thrilled with the sweep of airy notion And glad because the world is wide.
