BALIFAX NOTES.

PROGRESS is for sale in Halifax by the newsboys and at the following news stands and centres.

The South-end Tennis Club is in full swing once more, and any one passing along Young Avenue any day this week saw a pleasing picture. The level tennis court in all the freshness of its new velvet cost-dotted all over with fair ones looking as they tripped after the balls, so alert and fresh in shirt waist and sallor hat. There was a fair sprinkling of thesterner sex who in his new tennis flannels looked very "fit."

The first day of the "leafy month of June" begnn as it should, with a very pretty wedding. In Fort Massey churce on Thursday ofternoon Miss Eva Waddell, one of our farest daughters were married to Antony J. Mader, M. D. Though the wedding was quiet, only the immediate relatives being invited, old Fort Massey was filled with spectators. What girl would miss seeing her friend married? As the first notes of "The voive that breath'd o'er Eden" rang out, Miss Waddell entered the church on her father's arm. The young bride looked very charming in a travelling suit of fawn cloth, with cream satin bodice; her hat was a similar shade and its trimmings were creamy satin ribbon and ostrich feathers. She carried a bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Lilian was the sweetest of bridesmaids. Her gown was nile green silk and black chiffonher hat was large with clusters of pale pink roses. Her bouquet was also pink roses tied with long loops of satin ribbon. Dr. Murray was best man and the ceremony was preformed by Rev. P. M. Morrison. As the bridal party came down the aisle the strains of the wedding march pealed forth. The groom impressed us that, at any rate, on that day, he did not consider there were many men in Halifax quite so happy. Dr. and Mrs. Mader left in the afternoon express to spend the honeymoon among the Oanadian cities. Dandy Dick was the event of the week, and "Georgina" and "the Dean" carried off the honors both evenings. Mrs. Ricketts, as "Georgina," was really first class; she caught the interest of the audience from the first moment of her appearance, and held it throughout. She was easy, graceful and natural-her "Derby" was perfect. The daughters were very charming, and 'Hannah Topping' was all that could be desired. The men were splendid, and after the 'Dean,' who was the centre upon which all the wires pulled, came the dyspeptic Major, whose clever acting elicited much applause. Altogether, 'Dandy Dick' was a thorough success. Wednesday being patronage night, the players had a bumper house. On Tuesday the audience was slimmer. The interest of a large number of out Society people just now is concentrated in the forthcoming charity ball, which is fixed for the 20th of June, in the new drill shed. A long time to look forward to, you think-but, please remember, time goes apace, and after you have selected a new ball dress, you will find, when your dress-maker sends it home, that the eagerly anticipated evening is close at hand. On Menday evening a large and fashionable audience assembled in the Academy to listento the last of the Symphony subscription concerts, which have given such pleasure during the winter season to the mu sical people. At quarter past eight the orchestra made their appearance and were in a moment in their places, ready to begin. The ladies looked very graceful and charming, and were dressed uniformly in white. The music was entirely classical-Wagner, Schubert, Gounod and Nachez-probably the highest class compositions ever before presented to a Halif ax audience by amateurs, and no amateurs could have rendered it more accurately. This we have no hesitancy in saying, it being the opinion of the best musical critics who were present. Miss M urphy was in excellent voice and sarg, in the firs part, three "Arias." At the corcusion she was greeted with much applause, but she would not consent to sing again. Her song, in part second, was from Gounod's Queen of Sheba, and was rendered with full or chestral accompaniment; at its finish she was enthusiastically encored. This time the "artiste" had to respond, which the did very graciously. The annual engagement of W. S. Harkins begins on Monday next and during his stay in the city the popular manager will present some of the lates, New York successes in the way of farce comedy by that inimitably clever and funny writer, Broadhurst. Mr. Harkins has been playing two weeks in St. John and the papers are all most enthusiastic over his company and the way in which the plays have been presented. A lady writing to a friend here says. "We went last week to see Harkins in "Why Smith left Home" and really it is aupremely funny although very ridiculous. I haven't laughed so heartily for a year. Since then we have also seen the company in "The Butterflies" and Brown's in town." The former is John Drews piece and is one of the most charming society plays I ever saw. Mr. Harkins plays the leading role and is good in it. Be sure to see Harkins this season if you possibly can for he brings a splendid company and one well worthy of patronage. Mabel Eaton with whose lovely face and divine acting we were so enraptured last year is still with the company and is as beautiful as ever. Her gowns are superb too.

PROGRESS. SATURDAY JUNE 10 1899.

Devout priests frequently mortify their flesh and voluntarily force themselves to undergo great bodily hardships and deprivation. They are enabled to do this and escape serious injury to their health by reason of the purity of their lives and the fact that they deny them-selves the pleasures of the table. An ordinary man who lives in the ordinary way cannot long endure hardship, deprivation or overwork, unless he takes the right remedy to reinforce nature. The average man when he is in good health eats too much. When he gets a little out of sorts he pays no heed and keeps right on "making a hog of himself." In some instances he gets thin and emaciated. In others he gets grossly corpulent, and weighted down with flabby fat. In the first instance he is a candidate for dyspepsia and nervous prostration. In the second for kidney trouble or heart failure. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery enables the average man to undergo a great deal of hardship, deprivation and over-work, in spite of the life he leads. It causes the food to be properly assimilated. It builds firm, healthy flesh, but does not make corpulent people more fat. It cures dys-pepsia, nervous troubles, kidney disease and 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption. It prevents weakness in any organ of the body.

"In August, 1895, I was taken down in bed with a burning and severe pains in my stomach and under my shoulders, and dizziness in my head," writes Ira D. Herring, Esq., of Emporia, Volusia Co., Fla. "My home physician said my symptoms were like consumption. Nothing that I ate would digest, and I had great distress in my stomach. J. wrote D. Pierce for advice and took stomach. I wrote Dr. Pierce for advice, and took four bottles of his 'Golden Medical Discovery' and three of 'Pleasant Pellets.' I am now able to do my work and eat many things that I could not touch before I took tnese medicines

Mrs. Bligh received in blue silk, bodice of blue and black silk arranged with white satin and lace. Miss Bligh were a very becoming and chic gown of pink organdie trimmed with black valenceinnes, sash of blick ch flon. Miss Winnifred Bligh wore very gracefully a charming gown of white muslin. with valenecinnes lace. Miss Bligh, Halifax, wore an effective and eminently becoming toilette of pink silk and mousseline de sole with corsage bouquet of pink roses and maiden hair fern. The belle of the e vening was undoubtedly Mrs. J J. Taylor in a simple gown of white muslin, with valenceinnes lace and insertion, and devoid of further embellishments save a few pink and white carnations in the corsage. A lovely gown and one most becoming to the wearer was worn by Miss McKay, composed of pink sik with graduated flounces of pink mousseline de soie. Mrs. J. H. McKsy wore a rich gown of cream satin brocade, with guimpe and sleeves of pearl grey chiffen embroidered in pink. Mrs. Wetmore was in white satin with flonnces of yellow satin corsage bouquet of white and yellow roses. Mrs. Fulton were a rich gown of pink silk, very becoming. Mrs Philips wore black mousseline de soie over black silk and was as usual looking exceedingly well. Miss Seamen wore white slik crepon, en train, the bodice arrange d with white satin. Miss May Smith looked unusually well in a charming toi ette of pink and white organdie with embroidered chiffon trim-

Mrs. Hill presided at the piano, the spacions drawing rooms, on which a canvas had been stretched though affording considerable space, were very crowded at times, occasioning much good natured jostling. The charming grounds, dimly lit by chinese lanterns, where a tent and pumerous comfortable sitting-out places, were to be found proved a source of much comfort and were well patronized, by the heated dancers altogether the whole day was a delightful one, bringing many handsome rememberances from friend and relatives both near and distant and many letters of kindly congratilations. It was well unto the small hours ere final adieux were said and the last guest gone.
