Life's Less m.

Through summer woods we walk in shadows cool, And looking up see close above our heads The low spanned arch of foliage deeply green, But catch no glimpse of heaven's o'er-arching

In winter woods the verdant arch is gone, But looking up through pencillings of dark boughs We see the heaven's blue dome o'erspanning all, And learn life's lesson.

Youth's sweet world is small, O'erhung with boughs that give protection, shade, And glorious promises of fruitage sweet; A little world that centres all in self. But when in years's maturer we look up And see no dome of verdure o'er our heads. When b ughs are bare, and promises have failed, Behold, the world has widened to our view, The earth spreads far, is full of teeming life, And heaven's vast arch bends lovingly o'er all.

Father's Child.

My little girl to-night with childish glee, Although her months had numbered not twoscore, Escaped her nurse, and at my study door. With tiny fingers rapping, spoke to me:-Though faint her words, I heard them tremblingly Fall from her lips as if the darkness bore its weight upon her: ' Father's child!" No more I waited for, but straightway willingly brought the sweet intruder into light With happy laughter .- Even so some night. When, from the nursing earth escaped and free, y soul shall try in her first in fant flight To seek God's chamber, these two words shall be Those that will make Him ope His door to me.

A Death Song.

Lay me down beneaf de willers in de grass, Whah de branch'il go a-singin as it pass, An w'en I'ze a-layin low I kin hyeah it as it go

Singin, 'Sleep, my honey, tek yo' res' at las'.' Lay me nigh to whah hit meks a little pool, An de watah stan's so quietlak an cool,

Whah de little birds in spring

Ust to come an drink an sing, An de chillen waded on dey way to school. Let me settle w'en my shouldahs draps dey load

Nigh enough to hyeah de noises ln de road, Fu' I t'ink de las' long res' Gwine to scothe my sperrit bes' Ef I'ze layin' 'mong de t'ings I'z) allus knowed.
