The dance given at Bellevue on Tuesday evening by Lady Seymour was, of course, the leading social event of the week. It was a charming night for dancing, the air cool and clear. When all the guests were assembled, the ball room presented a brilliant appearance; many of the ladies' costumes were very beautiful, while the brilliant uniforms of the naval and military officers contrasted well with the softer textures of silk and lace, chiffon and tulle.

The garden and grounds were brilliantly illuminated, while within doors cosy corners and other charming spots had been arranged with exquisite taste, so that those who, instead of dancing, preferred listening to the music and enjoying the 'fartientes' could do so. Dancing was continued until after 1 a. m., and so thoroughly was the dance enjoyed that every fair damsel said adieu to Bellevue with more than slight regret that the most successful dance of the season was so soon at an end.

Our latest bride, very charming in a gown of fern dotted muslin and a chiffon trimmings, over silk. Miss Lillian Grant, her bridesmaid, who received with Mrs. Mader, looked very sweet in pale blue.

The Wanderers sports, the first of the season were fixed for Wednesday, and just as everything was all ready down came the rain. It was a distinct

ST. GEORGE.

JULY 4.—The school concert which came off on Friday evening in Con't's hall was a brilliant success and quite the prettiest event that has been given for some time. The programme was a fine one and introduced many novelties.

The Scarf and Fan drills were exceedingly well put on. A song, Buttercup, by Estella Parks a dainty little maiden was sweetly sung. A recitation by Miss Phoebe O'Brien, "Courtin'" was a musing and well done. A Motion Drill by six little girls who look daintily sweet was one of the attractions. There were three choruses and they were well sung. The Shadow Fantomime where thirty-nine old maids were after one man caused roars of laughter. Miss Hibbard of St. Andrews, sang very acceptably "The Day Is Done." Miss Bessie O'Brien was the accompanist of the evening and was quite at home.

Ice cream and cake was sold at the close of the programme. Fifty-seven dollars were realized from the entertainment which will be used for a school library.
