SMOTHERING SENSATION.

A Kingston Lady's Experience with Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills in Relieving this Distressing Condition.

"I have suffered for some years with a smothering sensation caused by heart disease. The severity of the pains in my heart caused me much suffering. I was also very nervous and my whole system was run down and debilitated.

Hearing that Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills were a specific for these troubles, I thought I would try them, and got a box at McLeod's Drug Store. They afforded me great relief, having toned up my system and removed the distressing symptoms from which I suffered. I can heartily recommend those wonderful pills to all sufferers from heart trouble.

The Brightest Flowers must fade, but young lives endangered by severe coughs and colds may be preserved by Dr. Thomas' Eucalypti Oil. Croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, in short all affections of the throat and lungs, are relieved by the steaming preparation, which also remedies rheumatic pains, sores, bruises, piles, kidney difficulty, and is economical.

"Why didn't you save it for me?" he asked.

A Cure for Rheumatism.—The intrusion of uric acid into the blood vessels is a fruitful cause of rheumatic pains. This irregularity is owing to a deranged and unhealthy condition of the liver. Anyone subjected to this painful affliction will find a remedy in Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. Their action upon the kidneys is pronounced and most beneficial and by restoring healthy action, they correct impurities in the blood.

"We got an ugly boarder so my daughter wouldn't take an interest in him."

"Well?"

"She took an interest in him because he was so ugly!"

Impurities in the Blood.—When the action of the kidneys becomes impaired, impurities in the blood are almost sure to follow, and general derangement of the system ensues. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will regulate the kidneys, so that they will maintain healthy action and prevent the complications which certainly come when there is derangement of these delicate organs. As a restorative these Pills are in the first rank.

A Blind Girl to a Rose.—

I've heard them praise thy beauty,—precious flower!

And though I cannot even tell thy hue Nor note thy grace, as blooming in thy bower Each blushing petal tempts the morning dew;

Yet I can touch thee, and from this can tell, Some form, most beautiful, my lips doth press, And read thy deeper secret in the smell, Like incense, breathing back to my caress.

There is a world no darkness can obscure, And voids more vast than outward sense may fill, To the fond eyes of love, a test more sure,— A beauty that to mind is visible!

—John Toland.

The Autumn Walk.

We're-a-walkin'—me and you down the old wood path, 'e know When the world was younger, Marthy, and our love was y'nger, too' Where you told me soft and low, as we wandered 'o and so, That through life you'd walk beside me wheresoever I might go; And the birds were bu'stin' fair, and the spring was in the air And the world was full of promise and our hearts were free from care

Now it's in the autumn days and the woods are all ablaze, And the leaves so golden yellow are a carpet on the ways, Like the clink that fellers spread, in the book we have read, D. W. before the Queen be loved so, fer her pretty foot to tread; And you're still my queen, you see, same's you alers used to be, Though old Time has brought the summ'n of our lives ter you and me.

Yes, it's autumn with us dear, and the winter's gettin' near, And our days are fallin' swiftly like these 'leaves a-fallin' here; But the're golden days are bright, though our heads are gritted white, Fer we've ro'd the road together through the darkness and the light, And we've faced the bitter blast, and we've seen the clouds drift past, And the'rey rainbow shinin' when the sun came out at last.

But through foul days and through fine through, the shadow and the shine, You have been my 'sister' beside me and I've felt your hand in mine, And as now once more we've strolled down this path-way paved with gold, Why, I'm all your lover, Marthy, same as in the days of old, And I shall be fill the swing of Time's pendulum shakin' and bringin' Round the day that turns my autumn to everlasting spring.

When Betty's Churning.

She stands within the dairy door, A comely maid, When I go to preach would fain be bold, Yet am afraid; Piles she the dasher valiantly, My ardor spurring— A picture in a rustic frame Is Betty churning.

Within her reach the roses droop, All enay-laden At seeing the red cheeks that grace This perfect maiden, While at her feet the violets, With fine discerning, Look up to watch the blue eyes of My Betty churning.

Nor is the stub am that athwart The'rey is gleaming More golden than her smoothed hair— 'Tis no vain seeming; The milk that fills the polished pans To cream returning, Is no whit whiter than the arms Of Betty churning.

With sleeves up to the elbows tucked In careless fashion, And piteous apron hung about In fear of spilling, She plays the dasher up and down While I, a-burning, Feel that my heart is being hit When Betty's churning.

Ah me! I can but sigh and hope— For heart's a-dashin'— That she will yield and let me help, To make the butter, That she will pity me and heed My fervent yearning, And let me call her mine—my own— My Betty churning.

New York Millionaires.

Only a few people reading advertisements of bankers and brokers, saying that money could be made through speculation, realize that the richest men in America have come to life in a humble way and have made their fortune through stock exchange speculations.

Men like Jay Gould who worked as a dry goods clerk in a small town at $10.00 a week up to his twentieth year, and commenced to operate with his small saving of $300.00 in Wall Street left at his death 70 millions of dollars; Russell Sage who worked as a grocery boy at $4.00 per week and whose present wealth is estimated at 100 millions of dollars is still operating the market, although 80 years of age, and so are thousands of others who are enjoying all the luxuries are can offer, which is due to their success in speculations.

To the shrewd speculator the same opportunities are open to-day as to others in the past. The smallest lot which can be bought and sold is 10 shares on 3% margin, making 30 dollars.

Anybody interested as to how speculations are conducted can get information and market letter free of charge upon application by letter to,
