There never was, and never will be, a universal panacea, in one remedy for all ills to which flesh is heir—the very nature of many curatives being such that were the germs of other and differently seated diseases rooted in the system of the patient—what would relieve one ill, in turn would aggravate the other. We have, however, in Quinine Wine, when obtainable in a sound unadulterated state, a remedy for many and grievous ills. By its gradual and judicious use, the feeblest systems are led into convalescence and strength, by the influence which Quinine exerts on Nature's own restoratives. It relieves the drooping spirits of those with whom a chronic state of morbid despondency and lack of interest in life is a disease, and, by tranquilizing the nerves, disposes to sound and refreshing sleep—imparts vigor to the action of the blood, which, being stimulated, courses throughout the veins, strengthening the healthy animal functions of the system, thereby making a necessary result, strengthening the frame, and giving life to the digestive organs, which naturally demand increased substance—result, improved appetite, Northrop & Lyman of Toronto, have given to the public their superior Quinine Wine at the usual rate, and, gauged by the opinion of scientists' this wine approaches nearest perfection of any in the market. All druggists sell it. It is strange how long a man will remember the five cents he lends you, and how short his memory is in regard to the dollar you lend him. Always on Hand at—Mr. Thomas H. Porter, Lower Ireland, P. Q. writes: "My son, 18 months old, had croup so bad that nothing gave him relief until a neighbor brought me some of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, which I gave him, and in six hours he was cured. It is the best medicine I ever used and I would not be without a bottle of it in my house." Mrs. Niblick—You mustn't mind my husband, Mr. Von Bunker, if he swears terribly while he is playing golf. Von Bunker—And you mustn't mind me, Mrs. Niblick, if I take the words out of his mouth. The great lung healer is found in that excellent medicine sold as Bickel's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It soothes and diminishes the sensibility of the membrane of the throat and air passages, and is a sovereign remedy for all coughs, colds, hoarseness, pains or soreness in the chest, bronchitis, etc. It has cured many when supposed to far advanced in consumption. Desmond—Money is Certainly the slipperiest thing on earth. Osmond—Oh, I don't know; there's time. THE DEMON DYSPERSTIA.—In olden time it was a popular belief that demons moved invisibly through the ambient air, seeking to enter into men and trouble them. At the present day the demon of dyspepsia, is at large in the same way, seeking habitation in those who by careless or unwise living invite him. And once he enters a man it is difficult to dislodge him. He that finds himself so possessed should know that a valiant friend to do battle for him with the unseen foe is Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, which are ever ready for the trial. Mother—A boy that plays baseball on the S. b. bat never has any luck. Son [Up-to-date]—No; I know a boy can't play ball on Sunday and go fishing too. A MAGIC PILL.—Dyspepsia is a foe with which men are constantly grappling but cannot exterminate. Subdued, and to all appearances vanquished in one, it makes its appearance in another direction. In many the digestive apparatus is as delicate as the mechanism of a watch or scientific instrument in which even a breath of air will make a variation. With such persons disorders of the stomach ensue from the most trivial causes and cause much suffering. To these Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are recommended a mild and sure. 'Men are too matter of fact.' 'What makes you think so?' 'I told Mr. Jones that I had changed my mind about marrying him, and he went away without coaxing me to change it back again.'
