

A WISE MOTHER

Should learn all about those ailments peculiar to her sex in order that she may be able to prevent and successfully cure them. She should learn the construction and functions of all those delicate organs in order to properly instruct her daughters on this important subject. Such a knowledge can be obtained from Mrs. Richard's latest book "Woman in Health and Disease." It treats of all the ailments peculiar to women and tells how to avoid and cure them. This book contains over 100 pages of interesting reading matter and is profusely illustrated. It is a true mother's guide. By the wise counsels it contains many a woman's life will be saved and much needless suffering avoided or relieved. Every woman in the land is welcome to a copy. It will be sent free on receipt of 10 cts. (stamps or silver) to pay cost of mailing.

A Valentine.

The north wind is a-cold,
Sneezing behind the hill;
The world seems white and old,
For the wind hath its will;
And there is no thrush in the hazel-bush
To flout with a silvery trill.

The pale dawns come and go,
And the chill auroras flare;
While the spirit of the snow
Moves writh-like through the air,
And we know that Death of the icy breath
Is about us everywhere.

And yet, and yet, and yet,
Why should we grieve or pine?
Or have a gloom-eyed regret,
Your hand, dear heart, in mine?
We've all the vernal mirth of the earth
With Love for Valentine!

THINGS OF VALUE.

"I thought marrying him would make a different man of him," she sighed. "And—it made an indifferent man of him!"

There never was, and never will be, a universal panacea, in a remedy for all ills to which flesh is heir—the very nature of many curatives being such that were the germs of other and differently seated diseases rooted in the system of the patient—what would relieve one ill, in turn would aggravate the other.

We have, however, in Quinine Wine, when obtainable in a standard unadulterated state, a remedy for many and grievous ills. By its gradual and judicious use, the weakest systems are led into confidence and strength, by the influence which Quinine exerts on Nature's own restoratives. It relieves the drooping spirits of those with whom a chronic state of morbid despondency and lack of interest in life is a disease, and, by tranquillizing the nerves, disposes to sound and refreshing sleep.

Imparts vigor to the action of the blood, which, being stimulated, courses throughout the veins, strengthening the healthy animal functions of the system, thereby making activity a necessary result, strengthening the frame, and giving life to the substance—result, improved appetite, Northrup & Lyman of Toronto, have given to the public their superior Quinine Wine at the usual rate, and, gauged by the opinion of scientists, this wine approaches nearest perfection of any in the market. All druggists sell it.

A woman whistled at a car.
It stopped with sudden jerk;
Her whistle was a failure—but
Her face got in its work.

We have no hesitation in saying that Dr. J. D. Keogh's Dysentery Cordial, is without doubt the best medicine ever introduced for dysentery, diarrhea, cholera and all summer complaints, sea sickness, etc. It promptly gives relief and never fails to effect a positive cure. Mothers should never be without a bottle when their children are teething.

Though it takes some agree,
Nine tailors to make a man,
I have found two or three
Quite sufficient to break a man.

He Has Tried It.—Mr. John Anderson, Kinross writes: "I venture to say few, if any, have received greater benefit from the use of Dr. J. D. Keogh's Dysentery Cordial, than I have. I have used it regularly for over ten years, and have recommended it all sufferers, I know of, and they also found it of great value in cases of severe bronchitis and incipient consumption."

Teacher—"What is the chief end of man?" Pupil—"The barber thinks it is the head, but the boot-black thinks it is the feet."

THE DEMON, DYSPESIA.—In olden times it was a popular belief that demons moved invisibly through the ambient air, seeking to enter into men and trouble them. At the present day the demon, dyspepsia, is at large in the same way, seeking to invade the human system by careless or unwholesome living habits. And once he enters a man it is difficult to dislodge him. He that finds himself so possessed should know that a valiant friend to do battle for him with the unseen foe is Farnie's Vegetable Pills, which are ever ready for the trial.

"Why do you keep that old candle on your desk?" "Well, you see, electric light gives just sixteen candle power, and sometimes I may want seventeen."

A MAGIC PILL.—Dyspepsia is a foe with which men are constantly grappling but cannot exterminate. Suddenly, and to all appearances vanquished in one, it makes its appearance in another direction. In many the digestive apparatus is as delicate as the mechanism of a watch or scientific instrument in which even a breath of air will make a variation. With such persons disorders of the stomach ensue from the most trivial causes and cause much suffering. To these Farnie's Vegetable Pills are recommended as most assured.

Oculist (presenting a bill)—(to king at the bill)—"I could have seen a thing as big as that before I ever saw you."

Architect—"Have you any suggestions for the study, Mr. Veritych?" Veritych—"Only that it must be brown, great thinker, I understand, are generally found in a brown study."

Recalled His Beginning.

"It was here in this old schoolhouse," mused the man in the fur-trimmed overcoat who had returned, after an absence of thirty years to the scene of his boyhood days, "that I learned my letters! It was here I laid the foundation, so to speak, of all my success in life. Even then," he continued, "I gave indications of the business career I have since followed."

"Yes," said the old school-master, with a note of interrogation in his voice.

"Yes," pursued the other pointing with his cane to the paper wads still visible on the smoke-blackened ceiling. "Do you see those?"

"Yes."

"Well, I threw them there."

"And now?"

"And now I am the owner of a paper mill."

"This 'latent heat,' said the actor, 'is a queer thing.'

"How do you mean?"

"For instance, it's the cold audience that roasts a show most."

Millionaires.

Only a few people reading advertisements of bankers and brokers, saying that money could be made through speculation, realize that the richest men in America have commenced life in a humble way and have made their fortune through stock exchange speculations.

Men like Jay Gould who worked as a dry goods clerk in a small town at $10.00 a week up to his twentieth year, and commenced to operate with his small savings of $200.00 in Wall Street at his death 70 millions of dollars; Russell Sage who worked as a grocery boy at $4.00 per week and whose present wealth is estimated at 100 millions of dollars is still operating the market, although 80 years of age, and so are thousands of others who are enjoying all the luxuries life can offer, which is due to their success in speculations.

To the slow speculator the same opportunities are open to-day as to others in the past. The small amount which can be bought and sold is 10 shares on 3% margin, making 30 dollars.

Anybody interested as to how speculations are conducted can get information and market letter free of charge upon application by letter to,
