SUSSEX.

Mar. 21-Although it is the solemn Lenten season the festivities are not quite done away with. Mrs. C. S. White gave a most charming party one evening last week at her home on Church Avenue. The spacious rooms are so suited for a large evening function that it did not seem at all crowded, though there were a great many there. Many different games were indulged in, and refreshments served about eleven. Among those present were Dr. and Mrs. Daly, Mr. and Mrs. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Dryden, Mr. and Mrs. Price, Mr. and Mrs. Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood, To call a quick halt to this process o Misses Briggs, Worden, Sherwood, White Colpitts,

Several of the young people got up a very enjoyable driving party on Tuesday evening, going as far as Apohaquai and back. Those present were Misses Worden, Maggs, Dunlap, Erb, Good, McLeod, Foster, Messrs. Kieth, Slip, Burnett, Smith. White, Carmichael and Lamb.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Fenwick left last week for prolonged stay in Western Canada. Mrs. B. A. Trites of Sackville was in Sussex last week the guest of her brother, Dr. Ryan. Mrs. J. M. Lyons, Moncton, paid a flying visit to this town on Monday. Rev. Mr. Schofield of Hampton gave a very eloquent address, on "Our Missionary Effects" last evening in Memorial Hall.

G. Harley Brown is able to be out again after his illness of the last few weeks. A very pleasant surprise party was given Miss Ella Maggs last week by a number of her friends.

Games were the feature of the evening. The gath-

MISS KATHTRYA. Where Genius Thrives.

He started to write with a holder of red And a point that surely was gold,
And his paper was purple and lineless instead
Of the foolscap paper of old; And his desk was a treasure, from silver stamp case
To a pearl laid paper knife blade.
And the foot of his lamp was a bronze lion's face,

While a dragon encircled the shade. He started to write, but he halted right there; He courted the muses in vain. His fingers plowed furrows through his poetic hair

And a mountain seemed weighing his brain. Desperate, indeed, he smote the inkstand And kicked the desk like a mule; He swore that display had bridled his hand And luxury made him a fool.

So he picked up his hat and went with a leap
To the shop that trades for your dime.
And he bought a cent pen and a paper pad cheap, To scribble his meter and rhyme: Then up in the garret, minus collar and coat He started the tide to commerce; And there on the table he wrote and he wrote He wrote, and he really wrote sense.

THINGS OF VALUE.

Pity the groom on his wedding day, On one the sun ne'er shone,
Of whom the guests had a word to say—
They have eyes for the bride alone.
Pity the groom on the day he's wed
And, a bachelor adds, with laughter, "He needs it on that day, as you've said, But pity him ever after."

There never was, and never will be, a universal panacea, in one remedy for all ills to which flesh is panacea, in one remedy for all lils to which hesh is heir—the very nature of many curatives being such that were the germs of other and differently seated diseases rooted in the Lystem of the patient—what would relieve one ill, in turn would aggravate the other. We have, nowever, in Quinine Wine, when obtainable in a sound unadulterated state, a remedy for many and grievous ills. By its gradual and judicious use, the frailest systems are led into convalences and strength, by the influence which valescense and strength, by the influence which Quinine exerts on Nature's own restoratives. It Quinine exerts on Nature's own restoratives. It relieves the drooping spirits of those with whom a chronic state of morbid despondency and lack of interest in life is a disease, and, by tranquilizing the nerves, disposes to sound and refreshing sleep—imparts vigor to the action of the blood, which being stimulated, courses throughout the veins, strengthening the healthy animal functions of the system, thereby making activity a necessary result, strengthening the frame, and giving life to the digestive organs, which naturally demand increased substance—result, improved appetite, Northrop & substance—repult, improved appetite. Northrop & Lyman of Toronto, have given to the public their superior Quinine Wine at the usual rate, and, gauged by the opinion of scientists this wine approaches nearest perfection of any in the market. All druggists sell it.

He married a duck of a girl, Did the medical man, Dr. Black, And now, it is stated, They're very well mated, For he's a good bit of a quack!

So rapidly does lung irritation spread and deepen that often in a few weeks a simple cough culminates in tubercular consumption. Give heed to a cough, there is always danger in delay, get a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and cure yourself. It is a medicine unsurpassed for all throat and lung troubles. It is compounded from several herbs, each one of which stands at the head of the list as exerting a wonderful influence in curing consumption and all lung diseases.

'Johnnie, how would you divide 13 apples equally among 14 boys?'
'Make 'em into apple sauce, sir !'

For Nine Years—Mr. Samuel Bryan, Thedford, writes: "For nine years I suffered with ulcerated sores on my leg; I expended over $100 to physicians, and tried every preparation I heard of or saw recommended for such disease, but could get no relief. I at last was recommended to give Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil a trial, which has resulted, after using eight bottles (using it internally and externally), in complete cure. I believe it is the best medicine in the world, and I write this to let others know what it has done for me."

'Hew's the mon guin', Mrs. Murphy?'
'It's a foine prospect he has. He have just been illevated from coachman to the position ave ingineer of an automobilly."

FOR THE OVERWORKED—What are the causes of despondency and melancholy? A disordered liver is one cause and a prime one. A disordered liver means a disordered stomach, and a disordered stomach means disturbance of the nervous system. This brings the whole body into subjection and the victim feels sick all over. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are a recognized remedy in this state and relief will follow their use.

'Why are you so cold and distant this evening?' she asked. 'Are you offended at anything?' He said nothing, but her gaze followed his, and with a blush she got up and carried the parrot out 'Ever my thoughtful Harold,' she said. 'That bird is wonderful at imitations.'

SOMETHING MORE THAN A PURGATIVE .- To purge is the only effect of many pills now on the market. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are more than a purgative. They strengthen the stomach, where other pills weaken it. They cleanse the blood by regulating the liver and kidneys, and they stimulate where other pill compounds determined. Nothing of an injurious pattern used for press. Nothing of an injurious nature, used for merely purgative powers, enters into their com-
