honors with the Russians second and the French third.

In well informed Washington Catholic circles, it is believed that the next consittory of the Cathelic church at Rome will be held in February, when Pope Leo XIII will attain the 25th year of his pontificate. While there have been no definite advices to this effect, it is thought likely that this assembly will open the jubilee to signaliz; the closing he quarter century of Pope Leo's regime and that he will take advane tage of it to deliver an allocution taking a strong position on the question of assassin ation among other things.

Surgery in the Sudan.

Good surgeons are often men of grea ingenuity, and there are numerous cases on record of important and wholly satisfactory results accomplished with rude appliances. A writer who was with the British army in the Sudan gives in a New York paper, this illustration of a clever adaptation of means to a desired end:

After the Battle of Ondurman we brought back to Abadieh one hundred and twenty one wounded officers and men. Of this number there were twenty-one cases o which an accurate diagnosis could not be made by ordinary surgical means.

By the helposthe Roentgen rays howev er, we found the bullet provad its absence in twenty out of these twenty one cases, the remaining case being so ill with a severe wound in the lung that it was not considered instifiable to examine bim at the time.

O course we had no steam-engine to generate electricity for us, and the desert heat had dissolved our specially prepared candles into their constituents.

Necessity, however, is the mother of invention, and we had recourse to a unique method. The pulley of a small dynamo was connected by means of a leather strap with the rear wheel of a tandem bicycle Having carefully adjussed the circuit with the storage battery, and also with the voltmeter and ammeter, a warrant officer took his position on the seat of the bicycle and commenced pedaling. When fitteen volts and fourteen amperes were registered, the switch close to the bandle of the bicycle was opened and the charging of the battery begun.

As the resistance became greater a sensation as of riding up hill was experienced by the man on the seat, and the services of an additional orderly were requisitioned for the front seat of the tandem.

As this bicycle practice was generally indulcee in in a tempeature of one hundred and ten degress at the end of a half.hour, the switch was turned off and the machine brought to a standstill.

The Lost Bargain.

It is Monday morning. Down the stree hurries a stylishly dressed woman.

Why does she hasten so? Why that look of intense excitement in her eyes? Is she going to the office of her lawyer, there to hear the will of her favorite uncle read? O: is she hastering to the bedside of the dying? No none of these. She pulls a Mr A B Calder, representing the York County newspaper out of her pocket and reads again the announcement of the won lerful bargains to be had at the department store.

She rushes tractically into the store. Yes, she can see before her the remnant of pongee silk, which is selling at only 15 cents a yard. What a crowd of excited women are clustered about the prize.

She forces her way into the thickest of the crowd. She is tossed this way and that. She cares not. Her hat is pulled off and walked on by the half-crassd mob. She cares not. She reaches the counter. Ten yards only of the silk is lett.

'I will take it,' she says, just in advance of four other women, all reaching for the coveted prize.

The clerk says, 'It is yours.' The woman teels for her purse. She has left it at home. The other women exult. They buy the pongee. The wonderful bargain is gone. The bargain day is over. There will be no more bargain sales for one week.

The Stalker Stalked,

The hunter in pursuit of big game must be prepared for the unexpected. Mr Horace A Vachell, in 'Life and Sport on the Pacific,' relates the experience of a friend of his a man for whose veracity he vouches.

My friend was after bear, and was accompanied by an Indian guide whom he always took with him on such trips. One morning they sighted a large wapiti, which they wounded.

The Indian tock the trail; but the hunter, knowing the habits of wounded deer, took a short cut across some hills, hoping to get another shot at the wapiti as it cros sed a certain divide. He reached the div ide and climbed a tree for a wider outlook.

Scrofula

What is commonly inherited is not scrofula but the scrofulous disposition. This is generally and chiefly indicated by cutaneous eruptions; sometimes by pale-ness, nervousness and general debility. The disease afflicted Mrs. K. T. Snyder, Union St., Troy, Ohio, when she was eighteen years old, manifesting itself by a bunch in her neck, which caused great pain, was lanced, and became a running sore. It afflicted the daughter of Mrs. J. H. Jones, Parker City, Ind., when 13 years old, and developed so rapidly that when she was 18 she had eleven running sores on her neck and about her ears. These sufferers were not benefited by professional treatment, but, as they voluntarily say, were completely cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla

This peculiar medicine positively corrects the scrofulous disposition and radically and permanently cures the disease.

Presently the wapiti came slowly up the steep slope; the Indian followed, knife in hand; and then, behind the Indian not forty yards intervening, waddled a hugh bear. So intent was the Indian upon his quarry that he was unaware that he, on his tu-n. as being tracked, till a bullet whistled st bis head from the hunter's rifls and laid the bear low. Thas wa ta surprised Indian!

MIXED TEOSE LETTERS UP. What Threstened to be a Tragedy of Errors Narrowly Averted.

How nearly Angeline came to marrying Ferdinand, whom she did not want instead of Archibald, whom she did want, and does yet, may never be known to Ferdin. and Archibald, but Angeline still is tremb ling at her narrow escape. If Postmaster Corne, who got Cupid off the siding and put him on the main track, would tell the right names they would not be Angeline, Ferdinand and Archibald. But he won't Angeline lives in Kansas City and Ferdinand and Archibald in Chicago. All three have been friends for a long time. One o, she blushed and said: them still will be a "triend." The other two are going to be something more.

Which two were going to be something more had been in doubt up to yesterday, when the post flice people settled it. Acgeline know which one she wanted. She had written and told the other one that she could not be so much to him, but that he would be a friend. But there is where Cupid got sidetracked.

Ferdinand and Archibald, each having seperately and distinctly kept up a terive pige correspondence with Angelite for ever so long, finally both decided, we bout consulting sub other to propose. This tuey did and Angeline, in K near City, having le mind made up-baving it all made up for some considerable time, sat down and wrote two letters.

in one-to Ferdinand-the said 'Nogently and kindly, but firmly 'No'

In the other-to Archibald-she said 'Y s' trankly and lovingly Yes'.

Then she acdress d two envelopes. one to A chibald and one to Ferdias d. And she put Archibalds letter, in Ferdmands nvelope and Ferdinance letter in Archi balds envelope, and dropped these letters into the Post Office. Inside the letters there were no names used. She used the address of 'friend' in one and something else in the other. So there was no way of telling that the letter was not in the envelope it aught to have been in.

The day after Angeline had taken this momentous step she was observed to sit down suddenly on the floor and look as if the sky had tallen. Then she jumped up with a scream that alarmed the neighbors and started for a telegraph office.

The rest of the story is in Chicago. The telegram, as widely pleading and beseeching as a telegram can be at so much per word, teached Postmaster Coyne and begged that the letters, properly described be stopped. The postal men caught one letter in the Englewood substation and the other on the West Side. Two hours more and they would have been delivered and Ferdinand would have been filled with joy and Archibald cast down with grief.

Angeline reached Chicago yesterday. She went to Superintendent Cahill as fast as the cab horse could travel. She found that the letters had been rescued, and as she tore them up she confided the cause of the alarm to the enperintendent. Then

'I guess I won't trust it to letters again.
