BOERS IN THE BRITISH RANKS.

Garghara Jaising the new Corps of National Scouts.

London, Nov 30—For some time past the British troops in South Africa have been assisted by various bodies of captured or surrendered Boers who have volunteered to serve against their fellow countrymen. Many of these 'Tame Bogers,' as they have been christened, seem to have been influenced chiefly by a keen desire to help to put an end to the war so that they may get back to their farms while there is still some stock in the country and before everything has fallen in all most irreparable ruin. Bennett Barleib writing of these new allies of the British, says: 'There is a gratifying unanimity of opinion among our commanding officers who have the good fortune to number a company, more or less, of 'Tame Bogers' as part of their troops, that no more capable and trustworthy men than these are to be found in the army. Circumstances have led to the enlistment of many of them in our colonial and irregular forces much sooner than anticipated. And it is satisfactory to find that their numbers are increasing. It met with adverse criticism from many quarters at first when Lord Kitchener assented to the arming of our ex-opponents who had taken the oath and wished to help us to put down the irreconcilables, and so hasten the advent of peace. But it was an astute stroke of sound policy upon his part. Ere this I have written how well our new Boer fellow citizens have behaved in action under Col. Remington, Major C. Ross and others, who lead small columns and take great risks. Neither Remington nor Ross would be without their aid, for as scouts they are perfect and as fighters and comrades true as steel. I hail the granting of commission to the daring spirits among these, our late foemen. Many of them are men who have been captured in arms, and, seeing the folly of further resistance, have taken the oath of neutrality and attempted to settle down peacefully upon their homesteads. In not a few instances they have received stripes, been thrown into jail, and otherwise maltreated by their former friends upon command because they declined to break their oaths. Of course now with Lieut. Col. Stewart's column every man of them was for months kept in durance at Paul Pietersburg—or dorp.

I have watched and admired the scouting of the Tame Bogers upon the last trek. In setting out they appear much like other irregulars, as if there were a want of purpose and direction. But then that latter view, naught could be more erroneous, for their movements disclosed that every trooper among them was instilled with the full sense and knowledge of his duties. They bumped steadily along, going far and wide, and their keen vision and veldt craft put them in possession of all the features of a locality in a trice. Some of the British Boer troops maintain most excellent discipline, drill with precision, wear khaki demurely, and salute with the smartness of western regulars.

In one respect they are far ahead of the average of our men. Their horse is their first care on returning to or when in camp, and with their own hands they carefully see to its feeding, grooming and comfort. In advance, flanking duty, or rear guard they are good. Gen. J. Campbell has a company of them upon whom he pins much faith, and as for Lieut.-Col. Stewart, like Col. Remington other successful leaders of ours, he would not be without them on any account. Their judgement and knowledge of enemy's number and whereabouts are intuitive; their information of his movements and intentions most reliable. They have no difficulty in extracting information from Kaffirs. With us they have but one fault to find, and that is that we don't sail into the 'Wild Boers' and fight them on every possible occasion.

If we want to end the war and not keep South Africa as a training school for our soldiers they say that we must give the 'irreconcilables' no rest day nor night, and not be overgentle when we catch them. The 'Wild Boers,' they say, will stand no heavy losses in the field, nor fight if they lose by rifle fire 10 per cent of their men. But we must expect to have losses, too, and we'll never catch them except by going for them first chance. Lieut.-Col. Stewart has about forty of them, under Lieut. Joe Mossop, an ex-burglarer himself. With him are Carl Schatz and other well known Boers of all ages, varying from early manhood to past middle life. I have ridden with them day in and out, chatted with them and learned much of their wondrous veldt craft. They are cheery, good fellows, fond of quiet fun at all times and playing soldier pranks. One of them last week went out from Vryheid and captured his own brother at a farm. He told the latter that he wanted his black horse to match another. He had possessed both animals formerly and was afraid that the team

Sick Headache

Bilious headache is the same thing. Most people that are subject to it do nothing for it until it prostrates them. Then they only take a dose of physic or an emetic.

And so it comes on soon again,—just as soon as the stomach is again disturbed by the bilious habit of the system.

Mrs. M. A. McLeod, Goderich, Ont., Joseph Cole, Reno, Ohio, Geo. W. Doll, Locust Valley, Pa., and J. Van Hee, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., were all subject to it, and have voluntarily testified, as others have done, that they were permanently cured by would never be reunited, for sooner or later his brother would have been caught and deported. His brother would, he said be out of harm's way and well taken care of in Ceylon, and as for the horse, it, too, would fare well till his brother returned. A much graver and also true story is that of a 'Tame Boer' being sniped and nearly shot by a man whom he recognized as his own father. The victim declined to fire back at his father, but he did all in his power to capture him; however, the father was better mounted than the son, and so contrived to escape, not recognizing his antagonist.

Does our son know much about farming? 'I should say he does,' answered Farmer Cornmeal. 'He says he reckons he'll go to town and make a million dollars and then come back and run this farm proper.'

My physician told me to prepare for the worst. I tried Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart. One dose gave great relief, one bottle cured me completely.—Mrs. James Adams, Syracuse, N. Y.—107

'Good morning, sir,' said the [sojourner in Jayville; 'have you got any porpoise shoe laces? No, I ain't.' 'Snarly! promptly replied the storekeeper; 'think yer funny, don't ye? 'Eh? 'O! I know what a porpus is, an' it don't wear no shoes'.

The New Holland submarine boat stayed under water 15 hours. The Spanish fleet did better than that.

NURSE'S GOOD WORDS.—I am a professional nurse,' writes Mrs. Eisner, Halifax N. S., 'I was a sufferer from rheumatism—almost constant association with best physicians I had every chance of a cure if it were in their power—but they failed. South American Rheumatic Cure was recommended—today my six years of pain seem as a dream. Two bottles cured me.—

That baker keeps presenting his bill, said the doctor 'as if he needed the dough. P. rhaps, said the highly humorous friend, if he doesn't get the dough he can't knead any more.

ARE YOU HAUNTED DAY AND NIGHT?—Mind and body racked and tortured by evil forebodings, gloomy and dull, robbed of that 'Divine restorer,' sleep, appetite gone, nerves shattered, generally debilitated? This is none too dark a picture for great South American Nervine to obliterate and set up in its stead the glowing tints of the sun of perfect health.

Nature Revolts Against High Living and it has set its seal to it by adding to man's ailments the scourge of diabetes.
