Case and effect: RAVOR—How did you ever get such a snap job as yours? Shine—Oh, I just rubbed around a little. Visitor in Boston—He seems to be a distinguished foreigner. Is he a Japanese or a Chinaman? Native Citizen—I do not know. Individuals of the Mongol race all present the same external aspect to me.

'Have you ever been perfectly happy?' 'Yes but I never knew it at the time.'

There never was, and never will be, a universal panacea, in one remedy for all ills to which flesh is heir—the very nature of many curatives being such that were the germs of other and differently seated diseases rooted in the system of the patient—what would relieve one ill, in turn would aggravate the other. We have, however, in Quinine Wine, when obtainable in a sound unadulterated state, a remedy for many and grievous ills. By its gradual and judicious use, the feeblest systems are led into convalescence and strength, by the influence which Quinine exerts on Nature's own restoratives. It relieves the drooping spirits of those with whom a chronic state of morbid despondency and lack of interest in life is a disease, and, by tranquilizing the nerves, disposes to sound and refreshing sleep—imparts vigor to the action of the blood, which, being stimulated, courses throughout the veins, strengthening the healthy animal functions of the system, thereby making activity a necessary result, strengthening the frame, and giving life to the digestive organs, which naturally demand increased substance—result, improved appetite, Northrup & Lyman of Toronto have given to the public their superior Quinine Wine at the usual rate and gauged by the opinion of scientists this wine approaches nearest perfection of any in the market. All druggists sell it.
