

Nose Bleed.

Most nosebleeds are slight and really of insignificant moment, and are properly regarded as worthy of only passing attention.

On the other hand, if occurring in rapid sequence, or if the bleeding is excessive, serious weakness or even death may result.

Nosebleed is commonly caused by some injury like a blow or fall, or again, by the finger-nail. Picking the nose often results in the formation of an elevated point just within the nostril, which under continued picking may develop into a spur like elevation—frequently the site of bleeding.

Nosebleed is somewhat significant, taken in connection with other symptoms, as initiatory of typhoid and other fevers. Occasionally a vessel inside the nose becomes swollen or varicose, and its rupture may cause one or several attacks of very free hemorrhage. The greatest number of cases in which repeated attacks of nose bleed occur are due to some disorder of the nose itself, and are frequently associated with symptoms of obstruction to free breathing through the organ, and thus may be an indication of the necessity for local treatment of the nose.

Of the many household remedies in vogue for the relief of nosebleed, one may observe that all are successful in the ordinary cases, while in rarely persistent cases, for example, in those known as "bleeders" none seem thoroughly effective. Cold seems to be one of the best, and is applied in a number of ways. Ice may be held to the nose externally, and may even be introduced in small particles inside the nostrils.

Of course the ideal treatment for nosebleed, and the only one invariably effective, is to find the bleeding point and apply pressure to it. This, however, as it requires special apparatus for illuminating the interior of the nose, is only applicable by the physician.

Alum is also one of the best household remedies for the control and checking of nosebleed. It is to be used in solution of one or two heaping teaspoonfuls to a glassful of water, and may be snuffed into the nose or applied in spray by an atomizer or by other means. Peroxide of hydrogen, which may be found in nearly every household, is among the really valuable remedies for checking nosebleed.

The case of serious or prolonged hemorrhage from the nose the services of a physician are required, to whom should be left the direction of the systemic treatment.

In children, repeated bleeding at the nose requires attention, since it indicates a need of systemic treatment, but more often points to a condition of continued congestion of the nasal mucous membrane—the delicate lining of the interior of the nose.

Their Washington Homes.

This is house-bouncing week in Washington for senators and representatives and their clerks. Most of the congressional people are now getting settled for the season. Some of them have not changed their regular quarters at the capitol in many years. Others change frequently.

Early in the last century there were few comfortable homes in the District of Columbia, and most of these were in Georgetown, three miles from the Capitol. A group of boarding houses sprang up on Capitol Hill; and then hotels, good for that time, were erected along Pennsylvania Avenue. In the hotel lobbies Congressmen and all chance acquaintances, whether fellow countrymen or foreign travelers mingled in the most democratic fashion.

Washington was a city in a wilderness, as it were; and being shut off from the rest of the country, and having no other interest than politics, the sociability of its winter evenings became notable. Books of reminiscence give pleasant accounts of Washington society before the war.

In recent years Washington has become a highly desirable city for winter residence for wealthy citizens from all parts of the country. Many senators and representatives, too, own their own houses at the capital. But the practice is not growing rapidly. The expense of maintaining a private establishment, which usually implies entertaining has become burdensome.

Figures of recent Congresses show that about half of the members live in hotels, perhaps a third in private houses, and a sixth in boarding-houses. Some members are never accompanied in Washington by their families. Other house holders make that city their regular home most of the year. Senators, because of the longer tenure of their office, are more apt to make Washington a real home, as are members of either House whose legal homes are in distant States.

Henry, how is the plot of that novel you were running?

Well, just at this chapter there is a terrible storm, and all the passengers are afraid the boat will go to the top.

You mean the bottom.

No; this is a submarine boat.

THINGS OF VALUE

No person should go from home without a bottle of Dr. J. D. Logan's Dysentery Cordia in their possession, as change of water, cooking, climate, etc., frequently brings on summer complaints, and there is nothing like being ready with a sure remedy at hand, which oftentimes saves great suffering, and frequently valuable lives. This Cordia has gained for itself a wide-spread reputation for affording prompt relief from all summer complaints.

Might Do We so.
Miss Hammer—No, I don't like her at all. She's forever talking about herself.
Miss Elydig—Oh, well, that's better than talking about some one else.

Mild In Their Action.—Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are very mild in their action. They do not cause griping in the stomach or cause disturbance there as so many pills do. Therefore the most delicate can take them without fear of unpleasant results. They can, too, be administered to children without impeding the normal functions which follow the use of pills not so carefully prepared.

Dramatic.
The manager—Another week like this and we'll be stranded.
The Star—That is, if we don't have a short run we'll have a long wait.

They are a Powerful Nerve.—Dyspepsia causes derangement of the nervous system, and nervous debility once engendered is difficult to deal with. There are many testimonials as to the efficacy of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills in treating this disorder showing that they never fail to produce good results. By giving proper tone to the digestive organs, they restore equilibrium to the nervous centres.

Tess—I wouldn't make Bess my confidante if I were you. She told me that secret of yours.

Jess—But Jennie was my confidante. Bess must have been Jennie's confidante, or her confidante's confidante.

Time has Told It.—Time tests all things that which is worthy lives; that which is in medical man's welfare perishes. Time has proved E. Thomas' Electric Oil. From a few thousand bottles in the early days of its manufacture the demand has risen so that now the production is running in the hundreds of thousands of bottles. What is so eagerly sought for must be good.

A St. Paul man knocked his wife down by smiting her with the family pug dog.

What did he say when they arrested him?
He said the accident wouldn't have occurred if they had kept a mastiff instead of a pug.

Holloway's Corn Cure is the medicine to remove all kinds of corns and warts, and only costs the small sum of two or five cents.

Making money is easy after you learn how not to lose it.

We had a surprise party at our house last night, Mrs. White.

Did you really, Mrs. Black?
Yes. My husband gave me $5 without my asking for it.

Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator does not require the help of any purgative medicine to complete the cure. Give it a trial and be convinced.

Corns! Corns! Corns!
Tender corns, painful corns, soft bleeding corns. The kind of corns that other remedies have failed to cure—get a good many—yield quickly to Parman's Painless Corn Extract or Patman's Corn Extractor has been a long time at the business experiences in fact just know to do it. At druggists.

Junior Partner—By the way, talking of unexpected windfalls, Burroughs tells me he has come in for some money.

Senior Partner—That's so? Just tell him he can go out again without it.

Miss Kosiq—She says you have a habit of telling all you know.

Coolly—Facide. Why, when you meet me all laws' evening, and then only to five minutes.

Miss Kosiq.—Well?—

THE HACKING COUGH

One of the most distressing things to get rid of is a hacking cough. There is a particular cause for it, and it is the irritation of the lining of the throat to get rid of a metal gas is most constant. Occurrence with many coughs is a habit, but it is a habit that should be stopped. When you realize this and try to stop it, you find you can't for by that time there is a continual irritation, which will never get better without treatment.

It is a curious thing that nearly a 1/2 treatment for coughs actually in it a cough worse. The most common cause for coughs have a bad effect on the stomach. This is especially true of so-called cough remedies that contain a narcotic. The true treatment for cough is one that has the irritated surfaces. This is what Adinon's Botanic Cough Balsam does. It protects the throat also while the healing process is going on. When this remedy is first compounded our old men were young boys, and as time went on it has been doing a steady work of healing throats. The most serious hacking coughs will quickly show the effect of the Balsam. People who have been trying for years to break up the most little cough, will find a sure friend in this old time soothing compound made from the bark and gums of trees. All druggists sell Adinon's Botanic Balsam, 25 cents.
